SECTION II.—RULES PRESCRIBED IN ACCORDANCE WITH SECTIONS 11 AND 13, ACT VII (B.C.) OF 1864, FOR REGULATING THE MANUFACTURE, DEPOSIT, TRANSPORT, AND SALE OF SALT, AND FOR SECURING THE PAYMENT OF DUTY THEREON.

Manufacture of Salt.

1. Every application for a license to manufacture salt, under the provisions of section 7 of Act VII (B.C.) of 1864, shall be presented to the Collector of the district where the manufacture is intended to be carried on, who, after the applicant has executed an agreement (Form A, appendix), shall forward it to the Board of Revenue through the Commissioner of the Division, with an expression of his opinion as to whether the application should be granted or not. In the former case, after ascertaining the boundaries within which the manufacture is to be carried on and the area of the land, the Collector should consult with the District Superintendent of Police, and report the strength and cost of the preventive guard which should be entertained; in the latter full reasons for rejecting the application should be recorded. Where the license is recommended for sanction, the stamp for the license should be realized and remitted, or a certificate given of the amount being credited in the treasury accounts.

2. The Board of Revenue shall have full power to approve or to reject any such application for the manufacture of salt, and the orders of the Board shall be final.

3. Immediately upon any application for license to manufacture salt being sanctioned, the applicant shall execute an agreement (Form I, appendix), and shall thereupon receive from the Board of Revenue a license (Form 2, appendix), the currency of which shall not extend beyond one year.

4. In addition to the preventive guard to be appointed, subject to the approval of the Board, with a view to prevent smuggling and to protect the revenue, the Collector shall appoint in every case, subject to the approval and control of the Commissioner, an excise establishment, as marginally noted, for the purpose of supervising the weighment of the salt prior to removal to the warehouse. The pass officer shall be called upon to furnish such security as may be required by the Board of Revenue, and he shall nominate for the Collector's approval the mohurir to be appointed under his own responsibility. The Board of Revenue shall have full power at their discretion to modify or increase the cost and strength of the excise establishment when necessary.

5. The pay of the preventive guard and of the excise establishment shall be defrayed by the manufacturer, and shall be disbursed by the Collector, who will be held responsible that the necessary amount is paid to him, or to any one whom he may appoint to receive it, on or before the fifteenth day preceding the close of the month for which it is due. The payment of the sum fixed forms one of the conditions no which the license specified in Rule 3 is granted, and should be provided for in the agreement mentioned in the same rule, a clause being inserted to the effect that, on default of such payment within the specified time, the license may be cancelled, and all salt manufactured under the license at the place of manufacture attached and confiscated. The salt so confiscated should be sold by auction at the highest price bid above the duty, and the sale-proceeds should be applied, after paying the duty, to defray the charges on account of the guard and excise establishment and the costs incurred, the balance being made over to the defaulter. If the proceeds should not suffice to pay the duty and charges, the balance may be realized by the sale of any other salt belonging to the defaulter.

In the district of Midnapore, however, the cost of these establishments will be defrayed by Government, except in cases in which the outturn of the manufacture yields a revenue less than 20 times the cost of establishment, when the cost shall be defrayed by the manufacturer.

6. Before manufacture is allowed to commence, the land within which the actual manufacture is to be carried on must be carefully marked out by a shallow trench; all necessary arrangements must be made and concluded in regard to the appointment of the preventive guards and excise officers; and, as required by section 10, Act VII(B.C.) of 1864, a proper and secure warehouse must be provided by the manufacturer and be approved of by the Board of Revenue. The manufacturer should give six days' notice of the date on which he intends to commence manufacture, and the pay of the guard shall commence from that date. He should also notify the date of close of manufacture, and the appliances of manufacture should be either removed or destroyed; and until they are so removed or destroyed, the manufacturer will be required to pay for the guard. Suitable huts should be provided and kept in repair by the manufacturer for the use of the guard, failing which the Collector may build and repair such huts, and levy the cost by sale of the salt, or cancel the license as for a default in payment of wages.

7. The Collector should ascertain how much salt each chula or furnace can produce in a working day, and the pass officer must insist on the chulia, or mate in charge of each furnace, sending that quantity to the chatee or depôt. The day's outturn should be brought to the depôt at a fixed hour, from one hour before sunset till sunset. The pass officer should receive the salt and measure it in standard baskets or boxes supplied by the Collector, and make a note of which furnaces it comes from, so as to secure the full complement from each furnace. If any furnace falls short of the ascertained quantity, the mate of that furnace should be called to account. The standardbasket or box shall contain exactly one maund of 40 seers at 80 tolahs to the seer.

8. The pass officer shall send to the Collector daily a copy of his record showing how many baskets or boxes of salt have been received at the depôt. This record shall be kept in cheque-books similar to those used by pass officers for protection of salt on its way to the aurungs.

9. The manufacture of salt shall be closed on such date as the Board of Revenue may be pleased to prescribe in each case, the date being specified in the license of each manufacturer. All salt manufactured after that date shall be held to be salt manufactured without a license, and the provisions of Sections 5 and 6, Act VII (B.C.) of 1864, shall apply to such salt and to its manufacturer. The license also shall be liable to be cancelled.

10. Within one month from the date of the closing of his manufacture, every licensed manufacturer of salt shall notify to the Collector, for the information of the Board of Revenue, the quantity of salt manufactured by him during the season. Should the manufacturer, without sufficient cause, fail to give this information within the prescribed period, or should he wilfully furnish incorrect information, he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs 500; in the latter case all salt in excess of the quantity notified by him shall be held to be contraband, and shall be liable to seizure and confiscation as such. The license also shall be liable to be cancelled.

Deposit of Salt.

11. The Board of Revenue may appoint the Collector of the district, or other officer specially selected for the purpose, to exercise a general control and supervision over all warehouses provided by manufacturers of salt under the requirements of section 10 of Act VII (B.C.) of 1864. For each warehouse the Collector shall appoint, subject to the approval and control of the Commissioner, an excise establishment as marginally noted: the cost of such establishment to be paid by the manufacturer. The Darogah shall be called on to furnish security of such amount as may be required by the Board of Revenue, and all the provisions of Rule 5, with regard to the payment of the salary of the establishments therein provided for, with regard to the duties and responsibilities of the Collector, and with regard to the realization of arrears of salary, shall be applicable in the case of establishments appointed under this rule. The Board of Revenue shall have full power at their discretion to modify the scale of establishment when there are two or more warehouses in the same or adjacent places. No warehouse shall be approved unless on measurement it be found capable of containing at least 10,000 maunds of salt.

12. All salt manufactured under excise license which may remain unstored at the salt-work fifteen days after the date fixed in the license for the closing of the manufacture shall, unless the storage thereof shall have been unavoidably prevented, be destroyed by the officers appointed under Rule 4.

13. Every warehouse, when approved of by the Board of Revenue, shall be regularly licensed, and every manufacturer shall forthwith cause to be painted, or otherwise exhibited in a conspicuous part of the exterior of such warehouse, the number of the license, the year in which it was granted, and the words "Licensed Warehouse" in the vernacular language and character of the district. Before a warehouse is built, the proposed site should be approved by the Collector of the district. Suitable huts should be provided and kept in repair by the manufacturer for the use of the warehouse establishment, failing which the Collector may build and repair such huts and levy the cost by sale of the salt or cancel the golah license as for a default in payment of wages. The Commissioner of the Division may, from time to time, cause any licensed warehouse to be inspected by the Collector of the district or other officer appointed under Rule 11, and should it appear that from want of repair or from any other cause such warehouse has become an unfit receptacle for the storage of salt, may require the manufacturer to repair or otherwise render it fit for that purpose, and in the event of his failing so to do, may cancel the license of such warehouse. In the absence of special orders directing an inspection, District Collectors are required to visit each warehouse at least twice in the course of a year, or to depute an Assistant or Deputy Collector for the purpose. The results of such inspections should be reported to the Board through the Commissioner. The Commissioner will report to the Board only when a golah is so much out of repair as to render cancelment of license necessary.

14. When a manufacturer desires to remove any salt from his salt-works for the purpose of storing it, he shall cause it to be weighed and packed for transport in the presence of the officer who may have been appointed to this duty under Rule 4. When ready for despatch, such officer shall carefully impress the salt all over, when packed in bulk, with a wooden stamp (adul) supplied for the purpose; but when put up into bags, the mouth of every bag shall be closed with sealing-wax, and a seal, with a clear and distinct device, affixed thereto, in not less than two places, and the aforesaid officer shall also grant a pass to protect the salt during transit.

15. The pass (Form 3, appendix) shall specify the name of the manufacturer, the number of his license, the route by which the salt is to be transported, the weight of the salt, and the date of despatch. It shall also be numbered and signed by the officer granting it.

16. A separate pass shall be granted for every despatch of salt; but if it be despatched by means of coolies or bullocks, one pass shall be sufficient for every gang of coolies or drove of bullocks; and in such case, in addition to the particulars stated in Rule 15, the pass shall specify the number of coolies or bullocks employed in carrying the salt, as well as the number of baskets, bags, or packs used. A gang of coolies shall be taken to mean any number of coolies not exceeding fifty, and a drove of bullocks any number not exceeding twenty-five. A responsible Churrundar shall accompany each despatch, who should sign all three foils of the Pass Officer's pass, thus:—

"Received the above salt in full.

(Sd.)

Dated Churrundar."

17. A copy of every pass granted under the foregoing rules shall be forwarded by the officer granting it to the Collector of the district or other controlling officer appointed under Rule 11.

18. The arrival at any licensed warehouse of salt despatched from the salt-works shall at once be reported to the officer in charge of the warehouse, who shall, without delay, examine its condition, the state of the stamps or seals, as the case may be, and the pass covering the salt. The pass shall then be forwarded in original, duly effaced, and with an endorsement mentioning whether permission to store the salt has been granted or not, to the Collector of the district or other controlling officer appointed under Rule 11, and a copy shall be retained for record by the officer in charge of the ware-house.

19. On the police informing the officer in charge of a warehouse that they suspect that a despatch of salt has been tampered with en route from the salt-works, the officer in charge of the warehouse shall put aside all bags reported as suspicious by the police until orders are passed in the case.

20. If the officer in charge of the warehouse be satisfied that the rules laid down above have been in no way infringed, he shall thereupon permit the manufacturer to store the salt in the warehouse.

21. If, however, on examination it be found that the despatch of salt has been tampered with, or that the quantity of salt is likely to be more than one per cent. less than the quantity specified in the pass, the officer in charge of the warehouse shall be empowered to seize and weigh the entire despatch of salt. If the deficiency in weight exceeds the above limit, the officer in charge of the warehouse shall record the explanation of the manufacturer, or his duly accredited servant in charge thereof, and shall report the case to the Collector of the district, or other controlling officer appointed under Rule 11, who shall transmit the papers, with his opinion on the case, for the orders of the Board of Revenue, who may direct confiscation of the entire despatch as contraband. The Board may also, if they see fit, at once cancel the manufacturer's license. The manufacturer shall further be liable for the amount of duty that would be leviable on the deficiency in excess of one per cent.

22. On obtaining the permission of the officer in charge of the warehouse, the salt shall be stored therein by the servants, and at the expense of the manufacturer, in the presence of such officer. If the correctness of the pass protecting the salt is admitted by the officer in charge of the warehouse, he shall enter the weight of the salt as therein stated in the daily store account which he is required to keep.

23. Every licensed warehouse shall be secured by two padlocks supplied by the manufacturer on approval by the officer in charge thereof, the key of one lock being retained by the person owning the salt, or by some person on his behalf, and the key of the second lock by the officer in charge of the warehouse.

24. When a warehouse shall have been stored with salt and before any sales can be permitted, the manufacturer, owner or mortgagee of the salt shall enter into a bond (Form 4, appendix) for payment of the amount of duty, as well as other charges leviable thereon; and he shall further bind himself to discharge, without objection, any duty that may be adjudged against him by the Commissioner of the Division on account of any excess or penalty duty in consequence of any deficiency (beyond the usual allowance of 2½ per cent. as wastage) of salt found in his warehouse at the time of clearance.

25. No bond shall be taken for a period exceeding three years; but on expiry of that period, with the sanction of the Board of Revenue, a renewed bond may be executed for a further term of two years. Applications for the renewal of bonds about to expire shall be presented to the Board of Revenue at least two months previous to their expiry.

26. No salt shall on any account be removed from a licensed warehouse before the permission of the Commissioner of the Division has been accorded to commence sales, and any act in violation thereof shall subject the manufacturer, owner or mortgagee of the same to a penalty of Rs. 500, and the salt thus removed shall be seized and confiscated: provided that nothing in this rule shall be held to prevent Government proceeding, if it see fit, under section 16 of the Act.

27. The salt of the manufacture of each year and that under each license shall, if possible, be separately stored, and every act in violation of this rule shall subject the whole of the salt within the warehouse to seizure and confiscation.

Transport and Sale of Salt.

28. In addition to the special rowannahs prescribed by section 19 of Act VII (B.C.) of 1864, rowannahs shall be of two kinds—

1st.—The wholesale rowannah required to protect all salt removed immediately from ware-houses or ships.

2nd.—The retail rowannah required for the protection of salt, being a portion of an original despatch covered by a wholesale or special rowannah, but separated therefrom for purposes of sale or otherwise.

29. Retail rowannahs shall further be sub-divided into two kinds:—

1st.—The atrafee rowannah required to protect salt which it may be intended to convey beyond the limits of the police-station within which it may at the time be stored.

2nd.—The charchittee required to protect salt which it may be intended to retain for sale within the limits of the police-station within which it may at the time be stored.

3rd.—In addition to the above two kinds of retail rowannah, a third kind of retail rowannah to be called sub-char chittee, shall be current in the district of Backergunge. This sub-charchittee, like the retail rowannah No. 2, shall protect salt which it may be intended to retain for sale within the limits of the police-station within which it may at the time be stored.

30. Wholesale rowannahs shall be granted only by the Board of Revenue, or such District Collectors as may be authorized to issue the same, on application being presented on stamped paper of the value prescribed for petitions to the Board, and on the payment of certain fees specified in the schedule hereto annexed. The rowannah (Forms 5 and 6, appendix) shall specify—

1st.—The quantity of salt to be transported under its protection;
2nd.—The description of salt;
3rd.—The place whence the salt is deliverable;
4th.—The mode of conveyance;
5th.—The destination of the salt; and
6th—The route by which the salt shall be conveyed.

All special and wholesale rowannahs taken out for the removal of salt, either from boardship, or from bonded golahs under Government, or from private golahs in the excepted limits of Calcutta, shall have a currency of not more than six months. Such rowannahs as are taken out for the protection of salt destined for places not within the limits notified under section 12 of the Act, and which have to be surrendered before passing out of the said limits at the last police-station within those limits, shall on no occasion be current for more than fifteen days if the pass station at which the rowannah has to be delivered up is Bally; or for more than one month in any other case.

The holder of a wholesale rowannah the currency of which is about to expire, may apply to the Board of Revenue, or to the District Collector by whom the rowannah was issued, on stamped paper of the value of one rupee, for a renewed rowannah, which shall be granted on sufficient cause being shown, and on the salt being identified satisfactorily. Collectors should submit weekly to the Commissioner a list of the renewed rowannahs; and should keep a register of all rowannahs they issue.

The holder of a rowannah for the transport of salt from the bonded golahs or from shipboard into the protected limits viâ the Chitpore pass station will be at liberty to choose any of the following routes:—

(1)—By the river Hooghly by boat.
(2)—By boat to the Ruthtollah Ghât pass station, and thence by the Port Commissioners' tramway and by rail.

The route chosen must be declared when the rowannah is taken out, and the Customs Officer on board the ship from which the salt is delivered will make out the boat-notes according to the route chosen. If the holder of the rowannah wishes to alter the route, he can do so by applying to the Board as provided in Rule 31.

31. If any person who shall have become possessed of a wholesale rowannah shall desire to make any alteration in the terms specified therein, permissible under these rules, he may, by application to the Board of Revenue, or to the District Collector, if authorized to grant the original rowannah, on stamped paper of the value prescribed for petitions to the said Board, and on payment of the fees specified in the schedules hereto annexed, obtain an exchange rowannah (Form 7, appendix), which shall, for all the purposes of the Act and of these rules, be considered to be a wholesale rowannah.

32. Blank forms of retail rowannahs of all kinds shall be obtainable from the Collector of the district, or from the Deputy Collector in charge of the sub-division within which the salt is stored at the time of application, provided such officer shall have been empowered by the Collector to grant such rowannahs.

At places situated at a long distance from the Collectorate or the sub-divisional office, the Collector is further empowered to entrust the distribution of the forms, duly signed and sealed, to the police in charge of the Division within the limits of which the salt is stored at the time for sale.

A retail rowannah shall specify—

1st.—The quantity and description of salt covered by it;
2nd.—The time for which it is current;
3rd.—The number and date of the rowannah from which the salt was obtained;
4th.—The destination of the salt;
5th.—The route by which the salt shall be carried;
6th.—The mode of conveyance; and
7th.—The name of the consignee or purchaser.

The salt covered by the atrafee rowannah (Form 8, appendix) and charchittee (Form 9, appendix) shall in no case exceed one hundred maunds.

The salt covered by the sub-charchittee (Form 10, appendix) in Backergunge shall in no case exceed five maunds.

The currency of the atrafee rowannah and the charchittee shall in no case exceed six months.

The currency of the sub-charchittee in Backergunge shall in no case exceed one month.

33. A fee of four annas shall be levied on every retail rowannah No. 1.*

34. Wholesale rowannah-holders are hereby empowered to issue to furriahs, or retail vendors, retail rowannahs of all descriptions specified in Rule 29; and holders of retail rowannahs No 1 are similarly empowered to issue retail rowannahs No. 2 to furriahs or retail vendors; and in Backergunge, holders of retail rowannahs No. 2 are likewise similarly empowered to issue retail rowannahs No. 3 to other furriahs or retail vendors.

Any rowannahdar selling more than five seers of salt to any person shall be bound to furnish the purchaser with such protective documents as may be required.

35. Special rowannahs granted under section 19 of Act VII (B.C.) of 1864 shall, as nearly as possible, resemble wholesale rowannahs, and the rules regarding wholesale rowannahs shall also apply to them. Salt conveyed into the limits notified under section 12 of the Act from ships or warehouses in Calcutta and Howrah will require to be protected by a special rowannah (Form 6, vide clause 30).

36. In addition to those mentioned in Rule 30, the following particulars shall be entered in all special rowannahs (Form 11, appendix) for the removal of salt from private golahs in Calcutta:—

1st.—The names of the manjees in whose boats the salt has been loaded;
2nd.—The license numbers of such boats; and 3rd.—The date or dates on which salt was loaded into the boats.

36. (a) Every application for a "certificate" (Form 12, appendix) for landing salt from shipboard, or for removing it from the bonded golahs into the excepted limits of Calcutta and Howrah, must in future be made to the Collector of Customs instead of to the Board of Revenue, and any person attempting to land salt within such limits without having taken out such certificate will be liable to the penalties provided under the Sea Customs Act, VIII of 1878.

(b) In granting a rowannah for salt which is to be conveyed out of the excepted limits of Calcutta into protected limits, the Board will require the applicant for the rowannah to give the full particulars of the certificate under which it was landed in Calcutta.

* Atrafee rowannah.

(c) If the holder of a rowannah issued by the Board of Revenue for salt to be taken from shipboard out of the excepted limits desires to land the whole or any portion of such salt within the excepted limits, he must apply for the Board's orders to cancel the original rowannah. On his application being granted, he will, on payment of the usual fees, be furnished with a letter of advice to the Collector of Customs for the issue of a "certificate" in respect of the whole or such portion of the salt, as he desires to land within the excepted limits of Calcutta, and, if necessary, with an "exchange rowannah" in respect of the balance to be taken beyond the excepted limits.

37. Within twenty-four hours after the completion of deliveries of salt from boardship upon rowannahs, the holders thereof must present them at the Board's office for the purpose of having the endorsements made on them by the preventive officers examined. This rule will not prevent salt merchants removing their salt-laden boats from the ship's side to safe and convenient places in the river under the boat-notes previously granted by the preventive officers. Any person failing to comply with the provisions of this rule shall be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 100.

38. Every wholesale and every retail rowannah shall always be kept with the salt to which it refers, and on demand by any police officer above the rank of constable shall be forthwith produced for examination. If the rowannah be not forthcoming, the salt shall be seized and proceedings taken under section 16 of the Act. If the rowannah be produced after the seizure of the salt, the matter shall be reported for the orders of the Board.

39. If any person holding a rowannah shall fail to comply with the provisions of section 22 of the Act, such person shall be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 500. When the salt specified in a rowannah is disposed of within the limits laid down under section 12 of the Act, the rowannahdar is hereby required to deliver up his protective document as directed by the law, within seven days of the date of the sale of the last parcel of salt covered by such document. Omission to do so will be held to constitute a breach of the provisions of section 22 of the Act.

40. Every person in charge of salt in transit within the limits notified under section 12 of the Act shall be bound to stop at every police pass station upon the line of route laid down in his rowannah, whether wholesale or retail, and shall present his rowannah to the chief officer at such station for endorsement, and shall, if required, allow his salt to be examined. Failure to comply with this rule will render such person liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 500; and if it shall appear to the officer trying the case that the omission was made with a fraudulent intent, he shall direct the salt to be confiscated.

41. The proprietor of any salt, the rowannah of which shall not be endorsed in the manner prescribed in the preceding rule, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 500, and if it shall appear to the officer trying the case that the omission was made with fraudulent intent, he shall direct the salt to be confiscated: provided that the person in charge of the salt, referred to in Rule 40, and the proprietor of the salt, referred to in this rule, shall not both be fined in respect of the same omission.

42. If the police in charge of the last pass station on any route have reason to suspect that a boat laden with salt is passing the station without stopping to give up the rowannah, they shall follow the boat, and on overtaking it, if the parties are known, the police should apply to the Magistrate for a summons against them under section 204 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (Act X of 1882). If, however, the police have reason to believe that the accused are about to abscond, they should request the Magistrate to issue a warrant instead of a summons in the first instance, as provided in section 90. If the parties are unknown, the police should act under the provisions of section 57 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, and detain them in order to ascertain their names and address. If the names and address given are believed to be correct, summons should be applied for as indicated above; if the names and address given are believed to be false, the parties should be forwarded to the Magistrate in the manner prescribed in section 57 above referred to.

43. The names of police pass stations at which it will be necessary for proprietors of salt to have their salt and passes examined and endorsed shall be notified from time to time in the Calcutta and Exchange Gazettes.

44. On a despatch of salt covered by a wholesale or atrafee rowannah arriving at the warehouse or shop of any salt trader situated in any place within the limits notified in section 12 of the Act, the proprietor shall, within twenty-four hours, notify its arrival in writing to the Collector of the district, specifying in such notice the description, number, and date of the rowannah, the quantity and description of salt covered by it, and the place whence the salt was obtained. Omission or neglect to comply with this rule shall render such trader liable to a penalty not exceeding Rs. 10 for each offence.

45. Every salt trader carrying on business within the limits, notified under section 12 of the Act shall, on the 1st of every month submit to the Sub-divisional Officer within whose jurisdiction he resides or to the nearest Abkaree Darogah, or nearest police-station or outpost for transmission to the Sub-divisional Officer, a signed statement specifying the quantity of salt sold under each wholesale or atrafee rowannah in his hands during the previous month, as well as the quantity of salt remaining in store under each such document on the last day of such month. Omission or neglect to comply with this rule shall subject such trader to a fine of Rs. 20 for each offence. The Sub-divisional Officer will forward the returns to the Collector with his remarks.

A register showing the sales of salt by each wholesale and retail trader in each month should be kept by the Sub-divisional Officer in the following form:—

Month.	Name of vendor and locality.	Wholesale sale.	Retail sale.

46. The Board of Revenue shall, from time to time, prescribe forms for the agreements, applications, bonds, licenses, rowannahs, and other documents required under the above rules.

Proviso.—When more than one rowannah is taken out by the same purchaser for salt on board the same ship, the person taking out the rowannahs shall only pay the same sum for all the rowannahs as he would have done had he taken out a single rowannah for the amount covered by all of them.

SECTION III.—PASS STATIONS.

The following is a list of the pass stations, which have been notified in accordance with clause 43 of the preceding section, and at which rowannahs or passes protecting salt in transit, will be examined and endorsed :—

SECTION IV.—RULES REGARDING STATISTICS OF CONSUMPTION OF SALT IN DISTRICTS SITUATED WITHIN CHOWKEY LIMITS.

1. As salt is capable of being smuggled into, or manufactured in almost every district within the limits subject to Act VII (B.C.) of 1864, and the rules published by the Bengal Government, it is especially necessary, next to the supervision within those limits of the transport of salt for trade in the interior, to watch carefully the consumption of licit salt, in order to detect at once the existence of an illicit supply.

The smuggler or the illicit manufacturer need not go far to find a ready market for his untaxed salt, but the sale and consumption of such salt would immediately affect the transactions of the legitimate trader.

2. Under clauses 44 and 45 of the preceding section, all traders in salt holding wholesale or atrafee rowannahs are required to inform district officers of all importations of salt, and to furnish them with monthly returns, showing the quantity of their stocks and the amount of salt sold. An intelligent comparison of the figures in these returns with those of previous months, and relatively with those received from other quarters of the same district, after making proper allowance, if necessary, for any differences in the number of population, should at once show if the revenue has been defrauded or not, and the quarter in which it is probable the smuggling or illicit manufacture has been carried on.

3. Returns are only required from holders of wholesale and atrafee rowannahs. It has been held sufficient for all useful purposes to assume that all char—sold salt has passed into consumption, but though returns for any statistical purposes are not necessary from petty vendors holding charchittees, the proceedings of all such vendors are required to be recorded on their protective documents under the provisions of sections 20 and 21 of Act VII (B.C.) of 1864, and are at all times open to the inspection of the police. Holders of charchittees are required, as are other traders, to give up their protective documents under section 22 of the law, when the last parcel of the salt covered by it has been disposed of.

4. In order to furnish district officers with the necessary information to enable them to check the proceedings of wholesale rowannahdars, to exact reports of the arrival of salt within their district under clause 44 of the preceding section, and to punish all breaches of clause 45, advices of wholesale rowannahs granted in Calcutta are forwarded by the Board to the Collector of the district for which the rowannah is taken out. Similarly district officers should require wholesale rowannahdars to submit, with their monthly returns, copies of all atrafee rowannahs granted by them. Those referring to salt transported to other districts within chowkey limits should be immediately on receipt transmitted to the Collector of the district in which the rowannah has currency.

5. At the instance of the Board of Revenue, the Inspector-General of Police has issued orders to the officers of police in charge of the several pass-stations to furnish details of rowannahs endorsed by them to the police through whose districts the salt may have to pass to its destination.

6. Returns are to be required from the holders of wholesale and atrafee rowannahs in the Board's Miscellaneous Form No. 11 (Form 13, appendix). Copies of these forms in the vernacular should be obtained from the Superintendent of Stationery, and should be supplied to the above-named traders.

7. To insure uniformity of practice, and to obviate the possibility of any misapprehension and confusion in the comparison and examination of returns, and in drawing up the quarterly statements of the consumption of salt required by the Board of Revenue, the following directions should be strictly followed :—

Wholesale Rowannahdars.

Wholesale rowannahs issued by district officers.

8. On the issue of every wholesale rowannah by a district officer, he will enter the particulars of the same in a register (in Form 14 of the Appendix), if for his own district, but if for another district, he will forward copy to the Collector of the district to which the rowannah is addressed.

Wholesale rowannahs granted by the Board of Revenue.

Similarly, he will enter in the same register the particulars of every wholesale rowannah issued by the Board.

Entry of arrival of salt and receipt of notice.

9. On receiving the intimation of arrival of the salt at its destination required by clause 44, the district officer will enter the date of arrival and date of receipt of notice of the same.

Procedure if notice of arrival be not received.

10. If the intimation required by clause 44 be not received within one month of the date of issue of the rowannah as notified to the Collector, he shall cause enquiry to be made whether the salt has arrived at its destination, and such enquiry should be repeated monthly till it does arrive. Default on the part of the rowannah-holder to report arrival of the salt according to clause 44 should always be met with fine.

Procedure on receipt of monthly return of sale.

11. On receipt of the monthly return of sales from wholesale and atrafee rowannahdars (Board's Miscellaneous Form No. 11, with its enclosed copies of atrafee rowannahs), the district officer shall register the total amount of salt sold, and the date of receipt of the return, a separate page in the Register being set apart for the returns received from within the precincts of each police-station within the district.

Procedure on non-receipt.

12. If the return of sales for any month with its enclosures be not received by the 10th of the next succeeding month, the district officer shall summon the wholesale rowannahdar to show cause why he should not be fined under clause 45.

Procedure on lapse of any wholesale rowannah.

13. On expiry of the term of any wholesale rowannah, or on the receipt at an earlier date of returns of sale covering the whole amount of salt for which the rowannah may have been granted, the word "Closed" shall be written across the remaining monthly columns of the register showing that no further returns are necessary.

Procedure on receipt of expired wholesale rowannah.

14. On the receipt of an expired wholesale rowannah returned under section 22 of Act VII (B.C.) of 1864, the date of return shall be entered in the register.

Procedure on non-receipt of expired rowannah.

15. If the expired wholesale rowannah be not received within seven days of the date of its expiry, the district officer shall summon the rowannahdar to show cause why he should not be fined under clause 39 of Section II.

Atrafee Rowannahdars.

Procedure on receipt of copies of atrafee rowannahs included in column 6.

16. On receipt from any wholesale rowannahdar of the copies of atrafee rowannahs granted by him, which copies should accompany his monthly return (Board's Miscellaneous Form No. 11), all copies of atrafee rowannahs entered in column 6 of the form should be at once transmitted to the Collector of the district in which the rowannahs have currency.

Procedure on receipt of copies of atrafee rowannahs included in column 5.

17. Details of all copies of atrafee rowannahs included in column 5 should be entered in the register of atrafee rowannahs (in Form 15 of the appendix). Similarly, every district officer on receipt from the officer of another district of copies of atrafee rowannahs granted by wholesale rowannahdars of another district, but having currency in his own, shall register the same in his register of atrafee rowannahs, and proceed as if the said copies had been furnished to him by a wholesale rowannahdar of his own district.

Procedure on receipt of notice of arrival of salt.

18. On receipt of the notice of the arrival of salt covered by an atrafee rowannah at its destination required by clause 44, the district officer shall register the fact of its arrival and the date of receipt of notice.

Procedure if notice of arrival be not received.

19. If the intimation required by clause 44 be not received within one month of the date of issue of the rowannah as notified to the Collector, he shall cause enquiry to be made whether the salt has arrived at its destination, and such enquiry should be repeated monthly till it does arrive. Default on the part of the rowannah-holders to report arrival of the salt according to clause 44 should always be met with fine.

Procedure on receipt of monthly return of sales.

20. On receipt of the monthly return of sales from atrafee rowannahdars, the district officer shall register the total amount of salt sold and the date of receipt of returns.

Procedure on non-receipt.

21. If the return of sales for any month be not received from any atrafee rowannahdar by the tenth day of the next succeeding month, the district officer shall summon the atrafee rowannahdar to show cause why he should not be fined under clause 45.

Procedure on expiry of any atrafee rowannah.

22. On the expiry of the term of any atrafee rowannah, or on the receipt at an earlier date of returns of sale covering the whole amount of salt for which the atrafee rowannah may have been granted, the word "Closed" shall be written across the remaining monthly columns of the register showing that no further returns are necessary.

Procedure on receipt of an expired atrafee rowannah.

23. On the receipt of an expired atrafee rowannah returned under section 22 of Act VII (B.C.) of 1864, the district officer shall enter the date of its return in the register.

24. If an expired atrafee rowannah be not received within seven days of its expiry, the district officer shall summon the atrafee rowannahdar to show cause why he should not be fined under clause 39.

General.

25. The registers are to be rewritten at the close of each official year, omitting the entries of all rowannahs of which the term has expired, and which have been duly delivered up under section 22 of the Act.

26. On the receipt of the monthly returns of wholesale rowannahdars, with the enclosed copies of atrafee rowannahs, the district officer shall file them, preserving a separate bundle for each wholesale rowannah for each month. To each bundle shall be added the returns for the same month of the atrafee rowannahdars who have been supplied under the same wholesale rowannah. Thus the record of all transactions, wholesale and retail, primary and secondary, under one wholesale rowannah for each month, will be collected into a single bundle by the middle of the succeeding month To this will be added a fly-leaf showing the registered number of the wholesale rowannah and the name of the month.

27. Thus the returns of salt consumed during any quarter may always be found by taking each monthly bundle and adding together all the entries of columns 7 and 8 of the return submitted by wholesale rowannahdars, and column 5 of that furnished by atrafee rowannahdars, and then adding together the sum of the totals of all the monthly bundles.

28. All the atrafee rowannahs received under section 17 of these rules from other districts, as they will be independent of all wholesale rowannahs current in the district, must be gathered into a single monthly bundle, to which will be added a fly-leaf bearing the name of the month and the words "Atrafee Rowannahs from other Districts." Returns of sales under such rowannahs will be filed with the same bundle.

29. Salt is only said to "pass into consumption" when it is sold direct to consumers, or sold under charchittees, that is, sold for resale within the limits of the police-station within which it is stored. It must therefore be distinctly understood that the issues from bonded golahs can never be any criterion of the consumption of salt in a district, as these issues include salt intended for exportation to other districts, as well as that retained in store by wholesale rowannahdars.

30. If on a comparison of the quarterly sales it is observed that there has been a falling off in the quantity of salt sold for consumption, the district officer should immediately ascertain from a careful examination of his returns, the quarter of his district in which such decreased sales have occurred, and should immediately communicate with the District Superintendent of Police on the subject. When submitting their quarterly returns to the Board, district officers should give full details of the action they may have taken under the above directions, and of the causes of decreased sale when such occur.

SECTION V.—RULES REGARDING THE CREDITING OF FINES AND DISBURSEMENTS OF REWARDS, ACT VII (B.C.) OF 1864.

1. All fines and penalties levied by magisterial officers from offenders against the salt law and the rules published by the Government are to be credited under the head "Law and Justice," in accordance with the orders of the Government of India, Financial Department, No. 2139, dated the 11th August 1879.

2. The Board attach great importance to the prompt payment of all rewards to informers and seizing officers in salt cases. Rewards should, therefore, be immediately paid from the treasury or sub-treasury, as the case may be, and debited to the Salt Department. The delay which must often occur in realising the fines and penalties imposed, and before the sanction of the Board can be accorded under section 39 of Act VII (B.C.) of 1864 to the sale of confiscated salt, will thus be obviated

3. When salt is confiscated, the police should be directed to take charge of the same until the expiration of three months from the date of the final order, when application should be made to the Board for sanction to the sale, and to the credit of the proceeds to the head "Law and Justice." Any small quantities, however, of confiscated salt less than ten maunds in weight should be sold at once, as it is liable to loss by wastage. As in the case of fines, the proceeds of such sales should be immediately credited to the head "Law and Justice."

4. Confiscated salt should not be sold for less than the duty; and if the place of sale is within rowannah limits, purchasers should be directed to apply to the Collector for the necessary protective documents, in order to enable them to remove the salt if in excess of five seers. In the event of no offer being made sufficiently high to cover the Government duty, the salt, if not exceeding one maund, should be destroyed; if a larger quantity, the Board's orders should be applied for.

5. Except with the special sanction of the Board, the rewards adjudged in salt cases will not exceed the amount of fine imposed, plus the value of the salt confiscated in each case. This value will ordinarily be the price (exclusive of duty) for which the confiscated salt is sold. Should the sale, however, be postponed (under rule 3 above), or the salt destroyed (under rule 4), the value will be estimated by the officer adjudging the reward at a price not exceeding the rate of Government duty.

6. Provided, however, that—

(1) No larger amount than Rs. 100 may be disbursed in any one case before the expiration of the period of appeal, except with the special sanction of the Board, and

(2) In cases in which the fine imposed is not realised, no larger amount than Rs. 100 may be disbursed on account of such fine without the special sanction of the Board.

7. Subject to the restrictions contained in the two preceding rules, Commissioners are authorised to sanction rewards up to the full amount of fine and the value of the salt confiscated in each case, and district officers are authorized to sanction rewards not exceeding

Rs. 20 in each case. When a larger reward than Rs. 20 is deemed expedient, district officers should report the case for the orders of the Commissioner.

8. Magistrates trying cases of illegal manufacture, possession, or transport of salt under sections 5 and 16 to 19 of Act VII (B.C.) of 1864, are authorised to grant rewards not exceeding the amount of the fine imposed, plus the estimated value of any seizure made, and not exceeding Rs 20 in any one case, to any person or persons who may have contributed to the conviction of the offender. The amount of such reward will not be disbursed from the fine when collected, or from the sale proceeds, but should be at once paid from the sudder or subdivisional treasury, as the case may be, on an order signed by the Magistrate trying the case. The fine and sale proceeds, when realised (in whole or part), will be credited in the treasury in the usual manner. Magistrates granting rewards under this rule should be careful to see that the order for payment is made over in each case to the payee, with directions to present it for encashment at the treasury before he leaves the Court.

9. The above rule applies only to the payment of rewards to private persons and to excise officers, and not to the payment of rewards to police officers. Rewards to police officers should be adjudged in the usual manner by the Collector, and should be disbursed to the District Superintendent of Police for distribution on monthly bills prepared by that officer, as is done in the case of payment of excise rewards. All police officers up to, and inclusive of, the grade of inspectors may participate in the reward.

10. District officers should request all magisterial officers within their districts to send for their perusal all the papers of cases connected with offences against the salt laws immediately such cases are disposed of, together with any recommendations such officers may have to offer as to the payment of any special rewards which may appear to them to be deserved.

11. No time should be lost by the district officer in perusing the record, and in passing such orders as the case may appear to require. Should he consider that the case deserves a reward which it is not within his competency to grant, an immediate reference should be made to the Commissioner for sanction.

12. District officers should show, in the appropriate columns of their half-yearly returns, the sums disbursed during the half-year as rewards, and the sums credited in the treasury on account of fines and forfeitures during the same period.

13. From the papers before them and the information supplied by magisterial officers, collectors are required to draw up and keep a register of salt prosecutions (Form 16 of Appendix). Immediately on receipt of the papers alluded to in Rule 10, the first ten columns, or as many of them as possible, should be filled in, and it will be the duty of the district officer to see that no cause for any delay in the payment of rewards is allowed to exist.

SECTION VI.—PROTECTIVE DOCUMENTS.

1. Wholesale rowannahs for the protection of salt cleared in the district of Chittagong are supplied for the convenience of local traders to the Collector of the district. Application for blank forms should be made to the Board's Office, as all such documents require to be duly numbered and impressed with the seal of the Board's Office. Before issue to traders, the Collector should be careful to levy the fees prescribed at the foot of the Government Notification.

Atrafee rowannahs; charchittee rowannahs; sub-charchittee rowannahs; challans.

2. Printed forms of the several descriptions of documents noted in the margin should be obtained from the Superintendent of Stationery, a sufficient stock being constantly kept in hand. Atrafee rowannahs, charchittees, and sub-charchittees, otherwise designated retail rowannahs, are the protective documents referred to in Rule 29. Atrafee rowannahs should bear an office number and the Collector's seals and signature before issue. It will be sufficient for all charchittees and sub-charchittees to bear the signature of the sheristadar and the seal of the Collectorate in addition to the register number. Charchittees, and sub-charchittees, should be issued gratis, but a fee of 4 annas should be levied under Rule 33 on all atrafee rowannahs. Deputy Collectors of subdivisions must be supplied by Collectors with the above forms according to their requirements.

SECTION VII.—STATEMENTS AND RETURNS.

Quarterly returns showing the consumption of salt in each district, and yearly returns showing the number and result of prosecutions instituted for offences against the Salt Law and Rules, are to be drawn up in the annexed Forms XXIV (Form 17, Appendix) and XXV (Form 18, Appendix). These returns should be forwarded by the Collectors of the districts marginally noted to their respective Divisional Commissioners not later than fifteen days after the close of each quarter and year, so as to enable Commissioners to prepare and submit their reports to the Board before the end of the same month. Copies of these returns should also be furnished to the Board and the District Superintendents of Police.

2. In districts where excise salt is manufactured, monthly returns are required from Collectors in the annexed Form (Form 19, Appendix), showing the progress of manufacture and the sales from bond of excise salt. 3. The Collectors of the districts marginally noted, in which warehousing ports have been established under section 14, Act VIII of 1878, are required to furnish half-monthly returns in the annexed Form A (Form 20, Appendix), showing the amount of private salt received into and cleared from bond. These returns also should be submitted through the Commissioner's Office.

4. The Collectors of districts mentioned in Rule 1 are also required to submit direct to the Board quarterly statements in the Form No. XXVI (Form 21, Appendix), showing the receipts and issues of all protective documents.

SECTION VIII.—RULES RELATING TO THE RECEPTION AND CLEARANCE OF SALT SUBSIDIARY TO THOSE CONTAINED IN ACT VIII OF 1878.

Rules for Weighment and Admission of Salt into Warehouses, public or private, under the Customs Law.

Collector to make arrangements for weighment of salt.

1. On receipt of an application under section 91, Act VIII of 1878, for the admission of salt into a public or private warehouse, and after the due execution of a bond under the provisions of section 92, Act VIII of 1878, the Collector of Customs shall make such arrangements as he may deem necessary for the proper weighment of salt during its discharge from the vessel, for the purpose of being conveyed to the appointed licensed warehouse.

Weighment charges.

2. The weighment shall be conducted in the presence of the preventive officer on board and on his responsibility by weighmen to whom licenses shall have been issued under rules notified by the Board of Revenue with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor, and the bonder shall defray all costs of weighment.

Description of boat to be used.

3. No salt for which the full duty has not been previously paid shall be taken from any vessel, save in a lighter provided with hatches, which are capable of being securely fastened down; and it shall be the duty of the preventive officer on board to satisfy himself that such lighter is in serviceable condition before permitting such salt to be placed therein.

Procedure on despatch.

4. As soon as the bonder or his agent or servant shall notify to the preventive officer that he desires to proceed with any boat-load of salt, he shall obtain a boat-note, in which the name of the importing vessel and of the bonder, the quantity of salt contained therein, and the warehouse wherein it is to be deposited shall be specified. The salt shall thereupon be carefully impressed with a stamp specially provided for this purpose, and the hatches shall be closed and sealed by, or in the presence of, the preventive officer. The lighter shall then be allowed to proceed in charge of a native officer or peon deputed for the purpose by the Custom-house authorities, accompanied by an agent on the part of the bonder.

Place of anchorage.

5. The boat shall be anchored, if possible, at the steps of the ghât leading to the warehouse in which the salt is to be stored, otherwise at the moorings nearest to such ghât. It shall on no account be permitted by the native Custom-house officer or peon on board to anchor at the outward moorings.

6. Notice of the arrival of such salt shall at once be given by the Custom-house officer to the Government Superintendent in the case of salt to be bonded in a public warehouse, or, if the salt is to be bonded in a private licensed warehouse, to the Inspector or Superintendent of licensed warehouses, who shall thereupon note the date and hour of arrival, bringing any unreasonable delay to the notice of the Collector of Customs, and depute a proper officer to examine and compare the boat-note delivered by the preventive officer to the bonder, his servant, or agent, and the cargo of salt, and to superintend its removal to, and storage in, the appointed warehouse.

Procedure on arrival.

7. The bonder's agent and a native Custom-house officer or peon shall remain on board of the boat in charge, until the seals and hatches are examined and all the cargo landed and stored.

Duty of peon and bonder's agent.

8. The bonder will be held responsible for any departure from these rules on the part of his agent, and the Superintendent or Inspector of the warehouse shall take notice of any dereliction of duty on the part of the native Custom-house officer or peon.

Responsibilities of bonder and Superintendent.

9. All expenses connected with the removal and storage of the salt shall be borne by the bonder, who shall also pay to the Collector such fees as he may fix for the services of the officer or peon in charge of the salt from the time of its discharge from the vessel's side to the completion of its storage in the warehouse

Bonder to defray all charges.

10. If the officer appointed by the Superintendent or Inspector of the Government or private licensed warehouse shall have reason to believe that the salt has in any way been tampered with during its transit by river, he shall at once report the circumstance to the Superintendent or Inspector, who, with the permission of the Collector, shall direct the salt to be reweighed, and such reweighment shall be made at the expense of Government.

Procedure when salt has been tampered with.

11. If there be found any unexplained deficiency in the salt on board the cargo-boat as compared with the quantity specified in the boat-note, the whole of the salt contained in such boat shall be confiscated, and the bond under which the salt is in course of being stored shall be cancelled.

Penalty when salt is deficient.

12. When a deficiency so found is satisfactorily explained and no suspicion of fraud exists, the bonder should apply to have the amount written off from the bond under the orders of the Collector of Customs. The Superintendent will then be authorised to deduct the amount from the total under the bond.

Deficiency satisfactorily explained to be written off.

13. Salt relating to different bonds shall be stored separately and distinctly. Any admixture of salt specified in different bonds shall render those bonds liable to cancelment, and the holders to immediate payment of the full duty payable thereon

Salt under different bonds to be stored separately.

14. On salt bonded in a warehouse under the exclusive control of a Government warehouse-keeper, the duty shall be calculated on the quantity actually delivered from such warehouse.

Calculation of duty on delivery from public warehouse.

15. On salt bonded in a private licensed warehouse, the duty shall be calculated on the quantity delivered on weighment from the side of the ship in which it was imported, less an allowance on account of wastage, which shall not in ordinary cases exceed 2½ per cent. on the quantity bonded.

Calculation of duty on delivery from private warehouse.

16. In any special case the Board of Revenue, as Chief Customs Authority of the Presidency, is competent to direct that an increased allowance for wastage shall be granted in accordance with the provision of section 122, Act VIII of 1878.

Increased allowance for wastage may be allowed.

17. If the Collector of Customs has any reason to believe that any fraud has been perpetrated by the bonder or owner of the salt, or any person in his employ, he shall refuse to make any allowance on account of wastage, and shall demand the full duty payable on the entire quantity received into bond.

But not if any suspicion of fraud exists.

18. In the case of public warehouses, the Board of Revenue shall fix from time to time the amount of rent to be paid by the bonder per 1,000 maunds of salt. Ordinarily no golah should be made available unless the quantity of salt to be bonded is equal to two-thirds of the storage which the golah is capable of containing; but when accommodation in golahs of suitable dimensions is not available, the rent to be demanded should be calculated on the quantity of salt, which would amount to two-thirds of the storage capacity of the building, whatever the actual quantity of salt bonded may really be.

SECTION IX.—RULES FOR THE CLEARANCE OF SALT FROM BONDED WAREHOUSES, PUBLIC OR PRIVATE.

Procedure on delivery from bond.

1. All deliveries of salt bonded in a public or private warehouse under the provisions of Act VIII of 1878 shall be supervised, as required by section 99 of the above Act, by a Customs officer and a native officer styled a Ghât Mohurir. These officers will be deputed on application to the officer in charge of the Custom-house.

Charges to be paid by bonder.

2. The expenses incident to their employment shall be borne by the bonder at the rate of Rs. 5 for a Customs officer and 12 annas for a native officer per diem. at Calcutta, and Rs. 4 for a Customs officer and eight annas for a native officer per diem at Chittagong. These officers will be paid daily. If required so to do, the bonder or applicant for their services shall pay into the hands of the officer in charge of the Custom-house a sum sufficient to meet the expense of employing such officers.

Working hours.

3. The present working hours at the Sulkea Government Golahs will continue to be observed with regard to all deliveries, whether from public or private warehouses, viz. between 6 A.M. and 2 P.M. from the 1st March to the 31st October and between 7 A.M. and 3 P.M. from 1st November to 29th February.

Bonders to provide their own labour and tools.

4. Scales and weights will be provided by Government, but bonders are required to make their own arrangements for cutting and removing their salt from the warehouses, as well as to supply their own tools for cutting the salt, such as sabools, kodalies, &c.*

Duty of Customs officer.

5. There will be one Customs officer at each scale; and his duty will be to keep on tally sheets provided for the purpose at the expense of Government, a correct tally of the bags as they are weighed and taken off the scale by the bonder's people, as well as to see that each bag contains neither more nor less than the prescribed quantity of salt, viz., two maunds. He will be held personally liable for any excess or deficiency that may be discovered at the check scales presided over by the golah officers.

Responsibility of Superintendent.

6. The Superintendent will be held responsible for making such arrangements as will ensure the efficient working of the check scales. At least 10 per cent. of the bags issued from the golahs should pass through these scales.

When disputes arise.

7. Should any dispute arise between the Customs officer and the bonder or purchaser of the salt under delivery, the former will stop the weighment, and at once refer the matter in dispute to the Superintendent for orders.

When irregularities occur.

8. The Customs officer will be particularly careful to bring every irregularity that he may become cognizant of to the notice of the Superintendent without delay, and will be held responsible for failure in doing so.

Check to be exercised by Ghât Mohurir.

9. There will be one Ghât Mohurir for each scale. He will be posted at the proper discretion of the Inspector either at the ghât when salt is being passed into boats, or on the roadway when it is being removed in carts. In either case, he will not be allowed to hold any communication whatever with the Customs officer posted within a golah, except through the Inspector, until after the day's work is over, when his tally will be compared with that kept by the Customs officer, and, if found to agree, signed by the Inspector.

Duty of Ghât Mohurir.

10. The Ghât Mohurir's duty will be to keep a similar tally to that of the Customs officer, but in Bengali. He will also keep a tally by means of counters supplied by the Department. One such counter will be made over to him by each cooly as he passes him with a bag, and will represent one bag or two maunds of salt. After the rowannah quantity has been delivered, these counters will be compared with his written tally, as well as with that of the Customs officer, for the purpose stated in Rule 8.

Check to be exercised by Superintendent.

11. When discrepancies in the accounts cannot be reconciled, and whenever the Superintendent has reason to believe that the quantity of salt conveyed to the boat or cart is not correctly represented in the accounts, he shall hold a re-weighment. The expense of such re-weighment shall be borne by Government.

Duty of Superintendent before salt is removed.

12. Whenever the bonder or purchaser is desirous of removing his boats or carts from the premises, the Superintendent will satisfy himself on every point before granting the usual protective documents. He will, before granting a pass, at all times satisfy himself, even where the accounts agree, that the boat-load or cart-load represents the exact quantity entered in the rowannah.

13. The following extra charges will be levied from bonders in addition to those payable on ordinary working days in connection with the reception into and delivery from bond on Sundays and holidays other than New Year's Day, Good Friday, the Queen's Birthday, and Christmas Day:—

		Rs.

For landing salt per golah.

Charges for extra hours on Sundays and holidays.

15. The fees prescribed by Rule 13, are to be levied in respect of work done on Sundays and holidays, between 6 A.M. and 2 P.M. from 1st March to 31st October, and between 7 A.M. and 3 P.M. from 1st November to 29th February; for work beyond 2 P.M. or 3 P.M., as the case may be, the additional overtime fees authorised by Rule 14 will be levied.

16. If it is required to discharge salt into bond on New Year's Day, Good Friday, the Queen's Birthday, or Christmas Day, a requisition must be made to that effect on the previous day, accompanied by a special extra fee of Rs. 100 to cover all such work done on board ship and at the golahs in respect of the salt ships in port. The golahs will be opened if required, but only for the reception of salt. This fee is to be in addition to the ordinary fees leviable for holiday and overtime work specified in the preceding Rules 13, 14, and 15, and will be distributed between the Superintendent and his subordinates at the golahs in such proportion as the Collector of Customs, subject to the order of the Board of Revenue, shall determine.

It must be clearly understood that this special extra fee is altogether separate from and independent of the fee of Rs. 100 which is levied as a Custom House fee for working on board ship on these specified holidays, and which will continue to be levied and distributed as at present.

SECTION X.—RULES RELATING TO THE DELIVERY OF SALT FROM BOARD SHIPS.

1. The present working hours are from 8 A.M. to 5 P.M. Leave to work extra hours is only granted when the Collector sees sufficient grounds to permit it.

2. Partial deliveries are prohibited in so far as each boat-load is concerned. When the loading of a boat is commenced, it must be finished before the loading of another boat is commenced. If a boat's loading is commenced during extra hours, it must be completed without any interruption, whether the loading s completed in regular or extra hours.

3. If delivery on a rowannah has not been completed by sunset or if by any unforeseen circumstance it should become necessary to interrupt delivery, the boat partially loaded shall receive a boat-note in the following form, and shall remain alongside the discharging vessel subject to seizure in the event of her trying to leave the ship's side:—

FORM OF THE BOAT-NOTE.

Interrupted delivery.

Rowannah No. in favour of for Mds. from boat No.
Manjee Mds. delivered
Mds. to be completed to-morrow morning. Total Mds.

N.B.—This boat and contents are liable to seizure and confiscation if found away from the Preventive Officer.

Dated

4. A rowannah will be issued to cover one boat only and application should be made accordingly, the amount of salt required to be put into the boat and consequently also shown in the rowannah being calculated beforehand. Delivery of salt will then be given to each boat as it comes alongside without reference to turn, provided the rowannah covering it is on board.

5. The pages of all tally-books shall be numbered and signed at the head by the Superintendent of the Preventive Service; and as soon as each page is filled, the preventive officers shall, before commencing a fresh page, require the Commander of the vessel or Chief Officer to sign at the foot of the page which has been written up.

6. On the completion of deliveries of salt from board-ship upon rowannahs, the holders thereof must present them to the Board's office for the purpose of having the endorsements made on them by the preventive officers examined. This rule will not prevent salt merchants removing their salt-laden boats from the ship's side to safe and convenient places in the river under the boat-notes previously granted by the preventive officers. Preventive officers will invariably, when they deliver a completed rowannah to a merchant or to his gomastah, warn him to present his rowannah at the Board's office.

7. No salt may be landed from ship-board or removed from the bonded golahs into the excepted limits of Calcutta and Howrah unless protected by a "certificate" (Form 12, Appendix) granted by the Collector of Customs (see section II, Rule 30A). Within 24 hours after the delivery of salt from board-ship under a certificate, the holder thereof must present it at the office of the Collector of Customs for the purpose of having the endorsement made on it by the preventive officer examined, after which it will be returned to the holder in order that the salt covered by it may be landed.

8. The currency of each certificate will expire 48 hours from the time that delivery of the salt is completed, and any certificate which has not been finally returned, under the following rule (No. 9), to the office of Collector of Customs within 48 hours from the time of delivery of the salt, must be presented within that time for renewal by the Collector.

9. Within 48 hours after the landing within excepted limits of salt removed upon a certificate from board-ship or from the bonded golahs, the certificate must be returned to the office of the Collector of Customs with an endorsement by the holder showing the time and place of landing and the place of storage.

10. Any failure to present a certificate at the Collector's office, as directed in Rules 7, 8 and 9, within the time specified in each rule, will be punishable with a fine of Rs. 500 under section 167, clause 1 of the Sea Customs Act.

SECTION XI.—RULES FOR THE CLEARANCE OF DUTY-FREE TARRED SALT FROM THE SULKEAH GOLAHS.

1. When it is intended to render salt in bond unfit for human consumption by admixture with tar, not less than twenty-four hours' notice of such intention must be given to the Superintendent of the Sulkea Salt Golahs.

2 The operation of mixing the tar and salt, in the proportion of one seer of the former to one maund of the latter, shall be supervised by a special officer, who will be deputed by the Superintendent of the Golahs at the expense, not exceeding Rs. 5 per diem, of the applicant for his services.

3. The Superintendent of Golahs will be responsible that not less than the prescribed quantity of tar is used.

4. Before granting the usual protective documents for the removal of the tarred salt from the golahs, the Superintendent will satisfy himself by a personal inspection that the process of mixing the tar with the salt has been thoroughly performed.

5. Before granting final delivery, the Superintendent will also require the owner of the tarred salt to furnish a written guarantee that it is intended solely for use in the manufacture of glazed stoneware, and that every possible precaution shall be taken to prevent the article from being stolen or restored to a condition fit for human consumption.

6. Any proved case of duty-free tarred salt having been restored, or attempted to be restored, to a condition fit for human consumption will disqualify the owner of the manufactory whence the impure article was obtained to be a custodian or consumer of such salt in future, and render the remainder of his stock of duty-free tarred salt liable to confiscation.

7. 5. Salt landed in Calcutta under section 83 of the Sea Customs Act VIII of 1878 will be sent to the Sulkea Golahs for custody, and it will be carefully noted in the salt receipt or certificate issued by the Custom House at the time of clearing it that the salt has been so landed and is not bonded salt.

Explanation—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last ten years. The variations are negative when the mean for the week is less than the corresponding normal mean, and positive when greater. The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being presented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The numbers denoting cloud amount represents the part of the sky covered, the whole sky being denoted by 10. Under the head District observations of rainfall the normal means are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the past ten years. The means of the district are the numerical average of the rainfall return received in the district, i.e., from total rainfall at the (subdivisional) stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least a tenth of an inch fell.

Explanation.—......indicate that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 30*th June* 1891.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING SATURDAY, THE 27TH OF JUNE 1891.

THE meteorological conditions which obtained over the province during the previous week were an almost complete absence of rain except over parts of East and North Bengal, cloud proportion lower than usual, pressure rather above the normal, together with abnormally high temperature, which was also accompanied by high humidity over the greater part of the province. In the centre and south of the Bay a rather strong monsoon current was blowing, and had indeed been reported for a considerable period, but owing apparently to a slight whirl or wind circulation which existed off the Arakan coast, the monsoon winds could not advance direct up towards the head of the Bay, but were being deflected in an easterly direction over Burma. These conditions remained practically unaltered both in Bengal and over the Bay (except that pressure became somewhat lower) up till the 25th June, when the circulation of winds existing off the Arakan coast disappeared, and it became possible for the monsoon current to advance northwards up the Bay towards Bengal instead of being steadily deflected towards the east of the Bay. Up to the close of the week, however, the monsoon winds had not quite reached the head of the Bay, and the rains had not broken generally in Bengal, and thus the whole province, except North and small parts of East Bengal, remained practically rainless, though in North Bengal the falls began to get decidedly heavier than they had been.

The changes of meteorological conditions from day to day have been small and of little importance. On June 21st pressure was falling slowly and temperature was increasing, while rainfall was practically confined to the districts in and near the hills of North Bengal. One or two stations on this day reported very heavy rain, Cooch Behar having received 5·35 inches and Matabhanga 3·93 inches. On the 22nd pressure had risen by small amounts, while temperature was rising in all districts except Behar. Winds became rather less strongly westerly than they were, and generally winds varied from southerly to easterly. Rather heavy rain was again reported from the hills in North Bengal, though there was practically none elsewhere. The heaviest fall on this day was 5·11 inches at Matabhanga. On the 23rd and 24th pressure and temperature had generally fallen by small amounts, and on these two days rainfall became a little more general in North Bengal and over parts of East Bengal, and falls of about 3 inches were reported at Matabhanga, Mickligunge, Kurigram, Rungpore, and Jamalpore On the 25th and 26th pressure was rising by small amounts, while temperature was falling rather rapidly, and on the 27th the rise of pressure was confined to Behar and it was falling elsewhere, while temperature had continued to fall pretty steadily. Winds on this date were also southerly in the south-western districts, south-easterly in the south-eastern districts, and generally easterly elsewhere; that is, of almost normal monsoon direction. The rainfall of the last three days of the week was again rather more general in North Bengal, but the falls were usually not very heavy. Rather numerous local showers also occurred on the 27th in South-West Bengal.

In the Bay, as stated previously, conditions became more favourable for the advance of the monsoon current from the centre of the Bay into the northern part and towards Bengal from the 25th instant, and wind directions and the distribution of pressure also in Bengal at the close of the week were decidedly favourable for the advance of the monsoon rains over Bengal generally.

Pressure.—The mean pressure for the week has been distinctly in defect of the normal, the defect generally averaging about two or three-hundredths of an inch. The defects have been fairly equally distributed in all districts except South Behar, where an average defect of five-hundredths of an inch is registered.

Temperature—Was excessive during the first half of the week, though it gradually fell in the second half. This excess was largest at the western stations and in the day temperatures, and thus for some days at the Behar stations maximum temperatures were about 15° above the normal. The excess was perhaps largest on the 22nd, 23rd and 24th, and thus on the morning of the 24th Dehree reported a maximum temperature of 110·9,° or 18·1° above the normal, and Chybassa 110·8,° or 17·1° above the normal.

The mean temperature of the province for the week has been about 4° above the normal, and this excess has been fairly equally distributed in all districts except North Bengal, where an excess of only 1·3° is registered, and in South Behar, where the excess has been no less than 6·4.° In Assam the excess has only equalled 1·6.°

Rainfall.—In North Bengal an average fall of 3·01 inches has been received, which is equal to about three-fourths the normal fall, but in all other divisions the falls have averaged less than an inch, and have hence been very largely below the normal. The fall in North Behar has only averaged a third of the normal, in South-West and East Bengal the average fall is one-seventh of the normal, in South Behar one-ninth, in Chutia Nagpur one twenty-fifth, and in Orissa only one-hundredth of the usual fall for the week. For practical purposes, therefore, rainfall has been almost absent over nearly six-sevenths of the province. Even in North Bengal, where the rainfall has on the whole been fairly large, the districts of Pubna, Maldah, and Dinagepur have received very little rain; while, on the other hand, the Julpigoree and Cooch Behar districts have received an average of between 8 and 9 inches, or a fall slightly in excess of the normal. The station of Sitamurhi in the Mozufferpur district of North Behar has been a district of unusual precipitation, and has received a fall largely in excess of the normal for the week, though other stations in the same district have been rainless.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 27th of June 1891 :—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

RESOLUTION ON THE INLAND EMIGRATION REPORT FOR THE YEAR 1890.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT—INLAND EMIGRATION.

Darjeeling, the 29th June 1891.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Report of the Superintendent of Emigration, Calcutta, on Inland Emigration for the year 1890.

Administrative.

During the year under report new rules have been added to those already existing under both Act I of 1882 and Act I (B.C.) of 1889, providing for proper notice of despatch of coolies being given beforehand to the Railway authorities, for special accommodation either in third class carriages or in suitable wagons, for provision of food and water on the journey and treatment of any cholera cases that may occur. It was also declared by rule that all coolies despatched direct from the up-country recruiting districts should be sent viâ the Hughli-Naihati route. The depôts used for free coolies in Calcutta have been declared liable to inspection by the Superintendent, and agents forwarding free coolies viâ Goalundo have been required to place them before the Medical Officer at that station for inspection before embarkation. With regard to this latter provision, His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, who made a personal inspection of the emigration arrangements at Goalundo in February last, observed that no arrangements had apparently been made up to that time for carrying out the new rule which was notified on the 23rd December 1890. He desired that the rule may be carried out at once and presumes that it is now in force.

Under the provisions of Act I of 1882, penalties were also prescribed during the year for breaches of the rules laid down under that Act.

Recruitment.

2. There has been no change during the year among the licensed contractors who have remained five in number. As in the previous year, one sub-contractor was licensed, but he did not prove successful, and his operations were soon abandoned. The number of licenses granted to contractors' recruiters fell from 82 to 52, but the number of coolies recruited by them rose nevertheless, according to the figures shown, from 1,835 to 5,069, giving a rise in the average per recruiter from 22 to 97. The areas to which each of the recruiters confined his operations are not stated, but the great preponderance of registrations in the two districts of the 24-Pergunnahs and Burdwan alone (viz. 4,176 out of a total of 5,069, causes a strong presumption that large numbers of coolies find their way to the contractors otherwise than through their licensed recruiters. The figure 97, therefore, as representing the average of each recruiter's work, is probably misleading.

3. A peculiar feature of the year has been the grant of four licenses, under section 62 of Act I of 1882, permitting local agents to engage on behalf of specified employers, but without the intervention of garden-sardars. This system of recruitment, which had not been tried before, is said to have worked satisfactorily and resulted in the registration of 596 emigrants. Both the application of this section of the Act and the fact of an increase in the number of garden-sardars working under local agents, although there was a decrease in the total number of sardars certificated, point to a greater indisposition on the part of the employers to let their garden-sardars work without local supervision.

4. Recruitment of female emigrants, either by female recruiters or by certificated garden-sardarnis, was, as in previous years, purely nominal.

5. Of the contractors' coolies, no less than 88 per cent. were registered in the 24-Pergunnahs district, while the garden-sardars' coolies were mostly drawn from the districts of Lohardagga, Hazaribagh and Manbhum.

Transport.

6. Emigrants recruited by contractors were as usual all forwarded to their destination via the Calcutta depôts and Goalundo. Of the sardari coolies 6,752, out of the 12,382 recruited, were despatched from Goalundo, showing an increase of 5,344 as against the number of sardari coolies despatched by that route in the previous year. Of these, 4,034 were despatched to Assam against 908 in 1889. The figures indicate a growing preference for the Goalundo route to the Assam valley over that viâ Dhubri. Of the total of 11,042 emigrants of both kinds sent from Goalundo, 7,629 went to Assam and 3,413 to Sylhet and Cachar.

7. The Calcutta depôts are well reported of by the Medical Inspector as regards both their conservancy and the treatment of the emigrants in them. In one depôt tank-water was, at the time the report was submitted, being still used for bathing purposes, but was about to give place to water from the municipal supply. It should be seen whether this reform has been carried out.

8. The admissions into hospital show an increase from 44 in the last year to 287, which is explained as the result of many trivial ailments being shown which had not been entered in previous years. The percentage of deaths calculated on hospital admissions, which was only 1·3 against 11·3 in the previous year, appears to show that the explanation is correct. The total number of deaths amounted to 4 only. Of the 287 admissions, 152 were due to fever, 44 to diarrhœa, 15 to dysentery, and one to cholera. The list of depôt casualties shows a decrease of desertions from 91 to 84 compared with the year 1889, and an increase of discharges from 117 to 399, of which latter number 275 were discharged at their own request.

9. With regard to the despatch of emigrants to Sylhet and Cachar, it is satisfactory to find that the employment of country-boats has now almost entirely given way to transport by steamer; only 138 emigrants were conveyed in seven country boats, while 3,275 were conveyed by steamer in 210 trips. The great breadth of the river at Goalundo makes it impossible to exercise any supervision there over country boats, if any come down the Ganges past Goalundo and thence on to Sylhet or Cachar.

10. The improvement in the return of way-bills of sardari emigrants, especially those despatched to Sylhet and Cachar, and of way-bills of contractors' coolies embarked at Goalundo, is noticed with satisfaction; but a large number of the way-bills of coolies despatched via Dhubri are not returned from the garden of destination, and the Lieutenant-Governor desires that this matter may be carefully enquired into. The Superintendent should report to the Assam Government the names of the gardens from which way-bills are not returned.

Free emigrants.

11. The numbers of free emigration coolies are obtained by the Superintendent from the Embarkation Agent at Dhubri and the Deputy Commissioners of Cachar and Sylhet. The figures supplied for the year under report are as follows:—

Despatched from Dhubri for Assam	11,807
Arrived in Cachar	2,041
Do. in Sylhet	7,404
Total ...	21,252

as against 44,401 in the previous year.

The Lieutenant-Governor is not inclined to accept unreservedly the deduction drawn by the Superintendent that the system of free emigration is fast losing ground. The real grounds for the change in the relative proportions will probably be disclosed when the Assam Government publishes its report.

12. The question of leaving the duties of Embarkation Agent at Goalundo in the hands of the Sub divisional Officer of that station, who lives five miles distant and is frequently obliged to be absent on tour in the discharge of his other duties, is at present under the consideration of the Lieutenant-Governor.

13. The thanks of Government are due to Surgeon-Major D. W. D Comins for the efficient manner in which he performed the duties of Superintendent of Emigration throughout the greater part of the year, and also to Brigade-Surgeon R. C. Chandra for his services as Medical Inspector of Emigrants.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

C. E. BUCKLAND,

Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT OF THE SANITARY COMMISSIONER, BENGAL, FOR THE YEAR 1890.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—SANITATION.

Darjeeling, the 30th June 1891.

READ—

The Report of the Sanitary Commissioner, Bengal, for the year 1890.

The Report has been drawn up by Dr. Gregg, who held charge of the office of Sanitary Commissioner throughout the year It was submitted on the 23rd May; but the tabular statements attached to it appear to have been completed on the 12th February, about a fortnight before the recent Census was taken. All calculations, therefore, having reference to statistics of population are based upon the obsolete figures of the Census of 1881, and must be read subject to the reservation that everywhere, except in the five districts noted in the margin, the population has increased in a ratio varying from 43·72 per cent. in Darjeeling to 0·54 per cent. in the 24-Pergunnahs, the average proportion of increase for Bengal as a whole, excluding Feudatory States, being 6·49.

2. Births were registered during the year in 142 municipalities with an aggregate population of 2,489,687 according to the Census of 1881. The total number of births recorded was 53,633, giving a birth-rate of 21·54 per thousand as compared with 22·76 per thousand in 1889. Comparing this birth-rate with the recorded death-rate of the year, the singular result is arrived at that, while the Census shows the population of Bengal to have increased during the last ten years by more than sixty per thousand, the municipal birth statistics prove it to be decreasing at the rate of nearly three per thousand. But although the recorded birth-rate is clearly too low, an exact measure of the degree of error is not easy to find. The statistics of births in England, though hardly suited to serve as a final test of the correct birth-rate in Bengal, may fix a probable minimum limit below which the rate cannot be expected to fall. The registration of births was commenced in England in 1837, and was rendered compulsory in 1875. In 1838, the first year for which a complete record exists, the birth-rate was only 30·3 per thousand. From that year it rose by irregular steps, interrupted by occasional falls, to a maximum of 36·3 in 1876; and since then it has fallen steadily, with one trifling exception, to 30·6 in 1888.* The mean for the period of fifty-one years is 33·89. Statistics show that in Europe the birth-rate varies more or less regularly with the marriage-rate, and depends mainly upon the proportion of the population living between the ages of 20 and 40. In Bengal the marriage rate is unknown, at any rate in the precise sense in which that term is used by European statisticians; but the proportion of married persons to the total population was shown in the Census Report of 1881 to be 49·15, while the corresponding figure for the United Kingdom and France taken together was only 34. Again, not only do more marriages take place in Bengal than in Europe, but people marry younger; so that, even if women cease to be fertile somewhat sooner, the reproductive period is probably several years longer than in Europe. A considerably higher birth-rate may therefore be looked for, and the Sanitary Commissioner is probably not far wrong when he estimates the normal birth-rate for these provinces at something over 40 per thousand.

3. Out of the 142 municipalities which profess to register births, only seven* reach this standard, and only 29 show a birth-rate equalling or exceeding the birth-rate of England and Wales in 1888. These results are accepted by the Sanitary Commissioner as approximately correct; 55 municipalities, returning birth-rates varying from 29 43 to 20 03, are held to have done moderately well in the matter of birth registration; while in 58 municipalities, or 40 per cent. of the entire number concerned, the results are spoken of as very defective. In the following 19 municipalities the birth-rate is so absurdly low that it is clear not the smallest attention can have been paid to the work of registration:—

Excluding physiological causes tending to affect the number of births, which, though referred to by the Sanitary Commissioner, may for practical purposes be disregarded, it is obvious that the abnormally low birth-rates shown in this statement must be due to two causes—the preponderance of the male over the female population reducing the actual number of births, and defective registration reducing the number reported. By way of illustrating the operation of the former factor, the Sanitary Commissioner observes that in most of the towns which have a larger male than female population the deaths exceed the births, while in most of those where females preponderate, the births exceed the deaths. The report, however, omits to supply the statistics requisite to test this statement, which, if correct, would tell rather in favour of the relative accuracy of the birth and death statistics. It is, however, in the highest degree improbable that the disproportion of the sexes can anywhere be pronounced enough to account for the very low birth-rates referred to above. It may further be observed that, with one exception, all of these towns are situated in Bengal Proper, and most of them are known to contain a large proportion of people of the respectable and educated classes, who might have been expected to desire to have the births of their children officially recorded, and who at any rate cannot plead ignorance of their obligations under the law, or of the requirements of sound municipal administration. The Sanitary Commissioner should visit in person or by deputy some of the towns in which registration is peculiarly defective, and should endeavour, by holding a house-to-house inspection, to ascertain in a certain number of test cases whether the births of children apparently under one year at the time of his visit have actually been registered. He should at the same time ascertain and report what measures are taken to secure accurate registration, stating in whose charge this branch of the municipal work is placed, and whether any of the Commissioners personally examine the registers of births and test it by their knowledge of the residents and their families. A statement of the number of prosecutions instituted in each municipality for neglecting to report or give information of births should also be given in future reports.

Births according to sex.

4. The male births numbered 28,333 and the female births 25,300, being 111·9 male births to every 100 female births. The proportion of male to female births in the previous year was 112·6. In discussing this disparity Dr. Gregg makes no mention of the obvious probability that the record of female births is even more faulty than that of male births. He refers to the opinion held by certain European authorities that the proportion of male to female births increases as the age of the husband exceeds that of the wife, and goes on to observe that "as the difference in the relative age of husbands and wives is greater in India than in England, the proportion of male to female births should also be greater, although the actual proportion cannot yet be determined." In Europe the accepted ratio of male to female births is 106 of the former to 100 of the latter; but the excess of male births varies in different countries, and from time to time in the same country. Thus in England forty years ago the proportion of male to female births was 105·3 per cent., but now the number is only 103·9*; while in Sweden the excess of male births is 4 6 per cent., and in Russia nearly 9 per cent. Owing, however, to the greater mortality of male infants in the first year of life, to the fact that after the thirty-fifth year females die less rapidly than males, the difference in their favour increasing with age, and also to the emigration of men on a large scale, the proportion of females to males in England in 1881 was 105·5, the actual excess being 694,635. In Bengal, with a higher recorded ratio of male births and proportionately far less emigration, the figures of the last Census show in British territory an excess of females amounting to 229,380, a state of things which seems to point to the conclusion that the great excess of male births appearing in the returns is largely due to the omission to register the births of female infants. And in any case it may be doubted whether the statistics of birth registration have been collected on a large enough scale or for a sufficient length of time to serve as the basis for any valid deductions.

Deaths.

5. In 1890 the total number of deaths registered throughout the Lower Provinces in rural areas as well as in towns was 1,612,479 as compared with 1,597,478 in 1889, the death-rate per thousand calculated on the Census population of 1881 being 24·48 against 24·25. The mean death-rate of England and Wales for the fifty-one years 1838–1888 was 21·65, the maximum reached during that period being 25·1 in 1849, the cholera year. But in this regard no comparison can fairly be made between the life conditions of India and England, and the proper test of the Bengal death-rate must be sought in the recorded death-rates of other provinces, as shown in the following table:—

Provinces.	Death-rate per 1,000 of population.
	1886.	1887.	1888.	1889.	Mean of four years.
Bengal	21·99	23·46	21·94	24·25	23·16
Madras	19·7	22·6	21·4	23·5	21·6
Bombay	23·17	27·67	28·44	31·51	27·70

Central Provinces ...	33·24	32·70	28·70	43·79	34·61

N. B.—The above ratios are all calculated on the basis of the Census figures of 1881.

It is reasonable to suppose that the normal death-rate in Bengal must be somewhat higher than in the North-Western Provinces, where the climate is more healthy and the people show a finer physique; while the mean death-rate of the Central Provinces, where much attention is believed to have been given to the subject of registration, corresponds pretty closely to the rate of 33 or 34 per mille which is assumed as the probable death-rate of Bengal in the Census Report of 1881.† Applying the higher rate of 34 per thousand to the population of Bengal (excluding Calcutta, which is not under the Sanitary Commissioner, and the Chittagong Hill Tracts, where vital statistics are not registered) as recorded at the recent Census, the number of deaths in the past year would amount to 2,384,313, or 771,834 in excess of the number actually registered. The latter figure may be taken as an approximate measure of the extent to which the registration of deaths in Bengal understates the actual mortality.

Death-rate in different districts.

6. An examination of the table given in the report, comparing the rates of mortality in rural and urban areas, shows that only one district, the Sonthal Pergunnahs, returned a death-rate below 15 per thousand, while Darjeeling returned 40·08, Jalpaiguri 33·50, and Noakhally 33·24, figures which probably represent a close approximation to the truth. In the following Municipalities the recorded deathrate is below 15 per thousand, and the work of registration appears to be neglected :—

Three years ago, in a circular addressed to Commissioners of Divisions, the Lieutenant-Governor drew attention to the fact that in 51 municipalities out of 64 for which the figures were examined, the registration of deaths during 1887 showed a serious falling off when compared with the mean of the previous five years during which registration had been conducted by the police. Since then some improvement has taken place, but hardly so much as might reasonably have been looked for, and it is evident that much still remains to be done. The Sanitary Commissioner should now take steps, through the district authorities, to bring home to the Commissioners of the municipalities mentioned above the necessity of paying more attention to this branch of their duties, and should utilise every opportunity that may offer on his tours of inspection of testing the registration in municipalities where the death-rate is unreasonably low, and of ascertaining whether proper arrangements are made for reporting deaths and maintaining the prescribed registers. The instructions given on this point in the circular of 8th July 1890, printed in Appendix V, are too vague to be of any practical use. In administrative matters of this sort, and more especially in dealing with local authorities who have no special executive experience, it is above all things necessary to enter into detail, and specify precisely what should be done, and by whom, in order to bring about a particular result. The measures prescribed in Dr. Gregg's report of his inspection of the Dinajpur Municipality seem to be well adapted to secure effective registration, and if similar suggestions were made to all municipalities in Bengal, they would doubtless be largely adopted.

Infant mortality.

7. In the Resolution on the Sanitary Commissioner's Report for 1889, attention was drawn to the statistics of infant mortality in Bengal; it was pointed out that the registration in the mofussil of the deaths of infants, particularly of female infants, was extremely defective, and the Sanitary Commissioner was asked to examine the figures in future reports and to compare them with those of admitted accuracy in Europe. The mean death-rate in England of infants under one year of age for the ten years 1871—80 is given in the work already referred to as 177·3 per thousand, and that of children between the ages of one and five as 31·2. The corresponding figures for the past year in Bengal are 169·08 and 26·78. It has already been shown that the returns of general mortality are considerably below the truth, and it is reasonable to suppose that the statistics of infant mortality must be at least equally defective. This conclusion is further borne out by the fact that during 1889, the last year for which complete figures are available, the death-rate of infants in Calcutta was 313·4, and that of children between one and five 52·2 per thousand. After full allowance has been made for the unhealthy conditions of infant life in the Calcutta bazars, there can still be no room for doubt that the registration of infant mortality in the mofussil is very imperfect. The Sanitary Commissioner indeed admits that this is the case, but he seems to think that the duties of his Department are limited to "impressing upon the local authorities and the people themselves the importance of the subject." The Lieutenant-Governor has not much faith in the value of these general exhortations. The Sanitary Department can do more than this, and must do it if sanitary work in Bengal is to be carried on effectively. The Sanitary Officers must make it their business to look into the details of registration whenever opportunity offers, and to see how and by whom they are neglected.

Its causes.

8. Among the causes of the high infant mortality which there is reason to believe must prevail in Bengal, Dr. Gregg refers to the insanitary conditions prevalent in large towns, to the tropical climate, the prevalence of malaria, and deficient or improper clothing and food, and lays special stress on "the fact that the infants of Bengal are the produce, in an enormous number of instances, of women who are themselves but undeveloped children, whose offspring are not remarkable for stamina or for a constitutional power of resistance to the causes of disease to which they are peculiarly liable." He seems, however, to make rather too much of the influence of town life upon mortality. According to the Census of 1881 only 5·26 per cent. of the population of Bengal was returned as living in towns, while the urban population in England and Wales is 66·6 per cent., in France 31·06, and in America 22·5 per cent. It seems probable, too, that in his comparison between infant mortality in England and India, he has omitted to take sufficient account of the comparative immunity of children brought up in warm climates from bronchial ailments, such as croup, bronchitis, diphtheria, &c., which cause so many deaths among children in Europe.

Cholera.

9. During the past year 145,885 deaths from cholera were registered, showing a death-rate of 2·21 per thousand on the population of 1881, and of 2·07 on the figures of the preliminary report of the recent Census. In 1889 the deaths from this cause numbered 171,103, and the death-rate was 2·59 per thousand. The diagrams and small maps given in the report illustrate clearly the seasonal incidence of cholera throughout Bengal and in the main divisions of the province, and its distribution in relation to the rainfall and the character of the soil. The four diagrams of the seasonal incidence of cholera in Bengal proper, Behar, Orissa, and Chota Nagpur should, however, have been drawn to the same vertical scale; and the map showing the distribution of cholera by registering stations is too large for convenient reference. The highest death-rates from cholera occurred in Faridpur (8·40), Chumparun (5·99), Bhagulpur (5·18), and Dacca (4·31), but nowhere did the rate of mortality rise as high as in 1889, when Puri returned a death-rate of 21·01 per thousand, while Balasore showed 13·74, Purneah 9·60, and Cuttack 8·29. No particulars are given of the outbreak in Faridpur or Dacca, and comparatively little is said about the increase of the disease in the districts of Bhagulpur and Chumparun. In the station of Bhagulpur the supply of filtered water is believed to have reduced the mortality from cholera, and it is stated that improvements are being carried out under the orders of the Board of Revenue in the town of Bettiah, where most of the cholera deaths registered in Chumparun seem to have occurred. It is curious to observe that the mortality from cholera during December (27,849) was the highest recorded in that month during the last seventeen years, with the single exception of 1876, when it reached 46,534 December is not usually a bad month for cholera, and the large number of deaths recorded is attributed by the Sanitary Commissioner to the unusual floods having "left the soil moist and unabsorbent longer than usual."

Small-pox.

10. The number of deaths from small-pox rose from 8,665 in 1889 to 12,619 in the year under review. Puri, Chumparun, Midnapur, and Patna show the highest rates of mortality, and in each of these cases the outbreak is attributed to the practice of inoculation. It is claimed for the Eastern Bengal Circle, where the small-pox mortality of the year was low, that, notwithstanding some local opposition, the people must have been well protected by vaccination; but the recent outbreak at Chittagong, which showed that in a large proportion of cases vaccination had been imperfectly performed, throws grave doubt upon the correctness of this view.

Fever.

11. The deaths from fever during 1890 numbered 1,155,569 as compared with 1,101,521 in 1889, representing a death-rate of 17·54 per thousand on the population recorded in 1881, or of 16·45 on the preliminary returns of the recent Census, against 16·72 or 15·68 in the previous year. The fourteen districts noted in the margin showed the highest death-rate. In the deltaic districts of Noakhali, Jessore, Rajshahi, Dinajpur, Khulna, Pubna, Rungpur, and Bogra the chronic prevalence of fever is put down to the water-logged condition of the country and to the existence of stagnant pools and marshes in the low levels between the river channels. The unhealthiness of Julpaiguri is due to the malarial belt of country known as the Terai and the Duars; the fever in Darjeeling was really influenza; while in Gya and Shahabad the local officers attribute the prevalence of malaria to the influence of canal irrigation. In the case of Hazaribagh and Monghyr, both believed to be healthy districts in ordinary years, no explanation of the high fever mortality is offered. In the Resolution on the report of 1889, is was observed that the province of Orissa was remarkable for the comparative absence of fever, and that the district of Puri, in other respects the most unhealthy district of Bengal, showed the smallest fever mortality. Dr. Gregg now explains that in the hilly country in the north of the district, and the sandy tract which drains towards the sea and the Chilka lake, the natural drainage is rapid, and the mortality from fever small. The low death-rate recorded in these rural circles counterbalances the high mortality (21·10 per thousand) registered in Puri town, and reduces the general rate for the district.

Sanitation in Municipalities.

12. The following statement shows the total expenditure incurred by Municipalities on sanitary purposes during the past year:—

		1890.	1889.	Increase.	Decrease.

Total	...	13,41,090	12,81,031	60,059	.....

The progress shown is, on the whole, satisfactory; but the large reduction in expenditure on vaccination indicates a tendency on the part of Municipal authorities to neglect one of the most important duties entrusted to them. Statistics show that the deaths from small-pox in the urban areas of Bengal, where vaccination is compulsory, rose to 1,268 in 1890, while the mortality from the same cause during 1889 was 653, the mean mortality for the five years 1885-89 being 601, and it is a reasonable inference that this sudden increase was to some extent due to the relaxation of necessary precautions to which the table of expenditure bears witness. Effective measures must now be taken to guard against the continuance of this state of things. No municipal budget should be sanctioned which provides for a decrease in expenditure on vaccination, and Commissioners of Divisions will be instructed to enforce the observance of this rule.

13. In paragraph 57 of the report a statement is given which apparently purports to show the proportion of expenditure on sanitary purposes devoted to original sanitary works and sanitary works of a recurring nature, and the ratio of the total expenditure on sanitary purposes to the total expenditure on municipal purposes. The headings of the fourth, fifth and sixth columns are, however, so obscurely worded that the Lieutenant-Governor has had some difficulty in making out what proportions they were intended to show, and the value of the sixth column as a test of sanitary progress is impaired by the fact that the statistics on which it is based include expenditure on the construction and repair of roads, which cannot properly be treated as expenditure on sanitary purposes. The same criticism applies to the summary of sanitary works carried out by Municipalities, District or Local Boards, and private individuals, which is given in Appendix III. An analysis of the statement describing the sources of water-supply given in paragraph 64 shows that of the 145 municipalities in existence during the year, sixty-nine derived their drinking-water mainly from rivers and fifty-two from tanks or wells. Only six municipalities—Burdwan, Bhagulpur, Dacca, Darjeeling, Cossipur-Chitpur and Kurseong—could be said to have a supply of really pure water.

Rural sanitation.

14. The Sanitary Commissioner states that little or no progress has as yet been made by District Boards in the direction of rural sanitation, because, as was observed in the Resolution on last year's report, they possess no funds for the purpose, and have no power to impose local taxation for sanitary purposes. It appears, however, from the summary of sanitary works contained in Appendix III of the Report, that during the past year District and Local Boards spent Rs. 43,762 on sinking wells, excavating and clearing tanks, and improving drainage channels. The above sum includes an advance of Rs. 4,200 granted in Midnapur under the Land Improvement Loans Act to private individuals for the excavation of tanks and the construction of bunds or high level reservoirs; but it does not include the expenditure incurred on the completion of the Rungpore drainage scheme. In addition to this, no less than Rs. 2,65,785 was laid out by private individuals on the excavation of tanks, the provision of improved water and similar sanitary improvements. Among these works of private benevolence, special mention should be made of the large tank with six masonry ghâts excavated by Rani Man Mohini Devi of Puttia, Rajshahi, at a cost of Rs. 30,000, and the generous offer of the same lady to lay out from Rs. 10,000 to Rs. 12,000 a year, for a period of four or five years, on constructing wells in the district; of the donation of Rs. 1,12,500 made by Raja Surja Kant Acharjya of Muktagacha in Mymensingh, towards water-works for the head quarters station; and of the contribution of Rs. 11,466 promised, and in part paid, by the Maharaja of Darbhanga for clearing the Sivaganga and improving the drainage of Deoghur. With reference to the last-mentioned project, the Deputy Commissioner of the Sonthal Pergunnahs states that the plans, "though made over a year ago, are still lying somewhere unapproved by the authorities, and the gift under its terms may be withdrawn." The Sanitary Commissioner should enquire into this statement and ascertain what has been done in the matter, and to what causes the delay complained of is due.

The Sanitary Board.

15. The Sanitary Board, consisting of Sir Henry Harrison, member of the Board of Revenue, as President, Colonel McNeile, Chief Engineer and Secretary to Government in the Irrigation Branch of the Public Works Department, and Dr. Gregg, the Sanitary Commissioner, held three formal meetings during the year. The most important subjects which came under their consideration were the drainage and water-supply of the town of Howrah, the drainage of the municipalities on the east bank of the Hooghly, and the drainage of the towns of Serampore and Puri. A complete scheme for the drainage of Puri, which has long been a source of serious danger to the health of the town, has been sanctioned by Government since the close of the year. A scheme was also drawn up for Serampore, and adopted by the Municipal Commissioners. Government has sanctioned the loan of Rs. 30,000 required to carry out the project, and it is understood that work will be commenced as soon as the necessary land has been acquired and made over. The question of the drainage of Howrah is still under consideration. Besides these large projects, the Board considered and approved during the year several minor schemes for improving the drainage of North Dum-Dum, Maniktola, Cossipur-Chitpur, Balli, and Utterpara municipalities, but in none of these, except Utterpara, was any real progress made. Dr. Gregg complains of the "extraordinary apathy displayed by most municipalities in their own interests;" but it seems to the Lieutenant-Governor that this complaint cannot reasonably be made until the Sanitary Board has been longer in existence, and has had time to make its influence felt. In the Secretary of State's despatch of the 22nd August 1889, it is contemplated that the Provincial Sanitary Board should not only advise the Government and local authorities upon sanitary measures, but should also be the executive agency through which the Government would act in the Sanitary Department. The Lieutenant-Governor understands this to mean, not that the Board is expected actually to carry out particular sanitary projects, but that it will take the initiative in drawing up the outlines of the schemes to be prepared by the local authorities, and will supervise their execution by those authorities. Sir Charles Elliott holds that the Board will have performed its duties adequately if it takes up the most important municipalities in turn, and by degrees prepares, or causes to be prepared, schemes for their water-supply and drainage. Considering its constitution, it can hardly be expected to do more, and in any case the execution of its projects will lag far behind the conception. Rural areas cannot be dealt with on these lines, and the Lieutenant-Governor has too much apprehension of the difficulty of laying down rules for such various conditions as exist in the Province, and of enforcing any rules without an undue and impossible interference with the liberty of the people, to desire that the Sanitary Board should, as matters now stand, attempt to deal in any way with the population living outside of municipal areas.

16. The Sanitary Commissioner inspected 48 municipalities during the year, on ten of which he wrote inspection reports containing much that is sensible and practical. With a single exception, upon which separate orders will be passed, Dr. Gregg speaks in favourable terms of the good work done by the officers of his Department. The tabular statement given in paragraph 69 of the Report shows that a creditable amount of inspection was done by most of the Deputy Sanitary Commissioners and Deputy Superintendents of Vaccination. Four Deputy Superintendents, however, failed to reach the standard of inspection prescribed by the Government of India in reviewing the report of 1889.

The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to acknowledge the diligence which Dr. Gregg has displayed in the administration of his Department. The thanks of Government are also due to Dr. Waddell, Deputy Sanitary Commissioner of the Darjeeling Circle, for the good work done by him during the year.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. H. RISLEY,

Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

Reported cases.—The following table shows the number of cognizable and non-cognizable cases reported in the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta during 1890 and the preceding year:—

Cognizable	25,787	26,858	7,277	8,173	33 064	35,031
Non-cognizable	24,510	22,016	2.809	4,496	27,319	26,511
Total ...	50,297	48,87	10.086	12,669	60,383	61,542

The increase in cognizable cases in both the Town and Suburbs occurred mainly under the heads of Stage Carriage Act, Public and Local Nuisances, and Cruelty to Animals. The decrease in non-cognizable cases in the Town was chiefly in offences against the Conservancy Acts. The increase in non-cognizable cases in the suburbs was in the same class of offences.

2. Arrests and convictions.—The following table compares the number of persons arrested in cognizable cases and summoned in non-cognizable cases, and the number of persons convicted in the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta for the year 1890 and the preceding year :—

	Persons arrested or summoned.						Persons convicted.
	Town.		Suburbs.		Total.		Town.		Suburbs.		Total.
	1889.	1890.	1889.	1890.	1889.	1890.	1889.	1890.	1889.	1890.	1889.	1890.
In cognizable cases	34,282	36,301	7,987	8 698	42,269	44,999	31,851	33,738	7,558	8,172	39,439	41,910
In non-cognizable cases	11,891	11 585	2,602	3,558	14,493	15,143	7,943	6,874	1,621	2,566	9,564	9,440
Total ...	46,173	47,886	10,589	12,256	56,762	60,142	39,824	40,612	9,179	10,738	49,003	51,350

The percentage of convictions for cognizable offences remained the same in 1890 as in the previous year, namely 93, and for non-cognizable offences it fell from 66·21 to 62·33.

3. Races and creeds.—Out of a total population of 433,219 in the Town, 10,158 persons were convicted of offences under the Indian Penal Code. Of these 6,060 were Hindus, 3,625 Mahomedans, and 445 Christians. No Brahmos, Parsees or Sikhs, who number in all 843 persons, were convicted during the year. The percentages of the different races were as follow:—

Mahomedans	2·9
Hindus	2·1
Christians	1·6
Buddhists and Jains	1·04
Jews	1·01

Out of a total population of 251,439 in the Suburbs, 1,339 were convicted under the Indian Penal Code. The convictions of Hindus were 697, and of Mahomedans 621. Twenty Christians were convicted against nine in 1889. The percentages of the different races were as follow:—

Mahomedans	·6
Christians	·5

4. False cases.—There were only 43 cases declared false out of a total of 48,873 cases reported in the Town, and only 18 out of 12,669 reported in the Suburbs. In 1889 the numbers were 60 and 24 respectively in the Town and the Suburbs. The extreme paucity of and the decrease in the number of cases declared false have not been sufficiently explained. Out of 21 prosecutions instituted in the Town for false complaints, only 8 ended in conviction, in 3 of which the complainants were sentenced to terms of imprisonment varying from three to four months, and in 5 cases fines were inflicted. In 2 cases the complainants absconded and in 5 the defendants were discharged. The remaining 6 cases were struck off, as the parties failed to take out processes. In 10 other cases compensation was awarded under section 552 of the Code of Criminal Procedure to the aggrieved parties. No case was instituted by any court suo motu. In the Suburbs prosecutions were instituted in only 13 cases, one of which was committed to the Sessions, and resulted in a sentence of six months' imprisonment. In one case three complainants were fined, and in 4 cases the complainants were imprisoned for short terms ranging from 15 days to one month. In 7 cases the defendants were discharged.

5. Property stolen and recovered.—The value of property stolen in the Town and Suburbs was estimated at Rs. 1,53,957 against Rs. 1,51,267 in 1889, and that of property recovered Rs. 89,019 against Rs. 69,199 in 1889. The percentage of property recovered rose from 49·02 to 56·94 in the Town, and from 35·06 to 66·34 in the Suburbs.

6. Ratio of cognizable crime to population.—The ratio of proved cognizable crime, and of convictions in all cases, to population was as follows:—

	Area in square miles.	Population.	Percentage of crime prosecuted to conviction to population.	Persons convicted to population.
Town	7·8	433,219	5·4	9·4
Suburbs	28	251,439	3	4·3

7. Cognizable crime in the Town.—The following statement shows the number of cognizable cases returned as true within the Town during the past two years:—

Crime.	1889.	1890.
Abetment of offence not committed	1	......
Class I —Offences against the State	32	51
" II—Serious offences against the person ...	186	175
" III—Serious offences against person and property ...	189	143
" IV—Minor offences against the person	53	59
" V—Minor offences against person and property ...	2,309	2,144
" VI—Other offences not specified above	6,891	7,906
Special and Local Laws—
Miscellaneous offences in the street	10,059	9,806
Cruelty to animals	2,922	3,339
Offences under Port Acts	2,286	2,342
Other offences	807	867
Total ...	25,735	26,832

In classes III and V the decrease occurred mainly in cases of burglaries and thefts.

There was an increase in offences relating to Coin and Stamps. The number of cases reported was 15 against 5 in 1889. Thirteen cases were tried summarily by the Magistrate, 11 persons being convicted and 1 discharged; and 2 cases were committed to the Sessions, in which 5 persons were sentenced to terms of imprisonment varying from two to seven years.

There were only 3 cases of murder against 4 in 1889. In one of these cases the accused suspecting his wife of infidelity cut her throat. He was sentenced to be hanged, but on appeal this sentence was commuted to one of transportation for life. In another case an elderly woman was found murdered in her employer's house. Very great violence had been used, and a neck-chain had been stolen. Suspicion fell upon a neighbour who sometimes visited the house, as a gold chain, like that worn by the deceased, was found buried in his room, and there were wounds on his arm and fingers for which he could not account, and regarding which he made false statements. The case was pending at the close of the year, but at the February Sessions the accused was discharged. In the remaining case a prostitute was found lying strangled on her bed, and gold and silver ornaments worth about Rs. 164 had been carried off. It is reported that all efforts to trace the murderer have failed. There was one other case in which a Hindu charged with murder in Mozufferpur was arrested by the Calcutta Police and was transferred to the mofussil.

Cases of culpable homicide rose from a five years' average of 1 to 4. In one of these cases a number of Cabuli traders belonging to the tribes of Khyrotis and Suleiman Kheyls came into conflict and fell to blows using sticks and stones freely. One of the men died in hospital from fracture of the skull. Men of both parties were committed for trial and 5 of them were convicted.

8. Attempt at murder.—There were 3 cases of attempts to murder against 4 for the average of the previous five years. In 2 of these cases the accused were sentenced to 3 and 5 years' rigorous imprisonment respectively. In the third case the accused was acquitted. The description of the facts given by the Commissioner of Police throws doubt on the propriety of the acquittal. It is said that the accused visited a prostitute at night, and seizing her by the throat while asleep nearly throttled her and robbed her of gold ornaments, value Rs. 313; that immediate alarm was raised, and he was pursued along the roof and was arrested in possession of the ornaments in the basement of the adjoining house, crouching down behind the entrance door; and that the Police Surgeon deposed to finding finger marks on the woman's throat.

Cases of grievous hurt rose from 17 in 1889 to 27, the average of the five preceding years being 27. Eight out of the 27 cases were private prosecutions in which the police were not employed; 45 persons appeared before the courts, of whom 13 were convicted, 3 were otherwise disposed of, 13 were awaiting trial at the close of the year, and 16 were discharged It is stated that these cases are generally settled out of court. No European seamen were charged with this offence. There were 40 cases of hurt by dangerous weapon against 33 in 1889.

There was only one case of kidnapping with theft, though the Commissioner of Police reports that during the year 551 children wearing ornaments went astray in the Town and Suburbs, and were restored to their parents with the ornaments intact.

There were five cases of rash and negligent acts causing death or grievous hurt against an equal number in 1889. The prosecution and conviction of a Hindu for causing the death of his immature child-wife has led to an important change in the criminal law.

There was only 1 case of robbery with hurt in 1890, and 1 case of highway robbery (against 6 in 1889). The number of other robberies fell from 10 in 1889 to 2.

True cases of burglary and lurking house-trespass fell from 179 to 154, and the number of convictions from 119 to 94. The percentage of property recovered, however, rose from 32·15 to 54·48. This shows an improvement in dealing with this offence. Cases of thefts also fell from 1,855 to 1,549, and the number of convictions from 981 to 901. It is stated that the decrease in the number of cases during the year occurred chiefly in petty house thefts in the second division of the Town. The percentage of cases detected was 53·06 against 48·94 in 1889, and that of property recovered was 56·43.

There were 318 cases of criminal breach of trust against 261 in 1889. One of these cases, in which the late cashier of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia, and China was acquitted, excited much attention. Fourteen cases of criminal breach of trust committed by drivers of carts were successfully prosecuted, but the offenders were all tried summarily by the Magistrates and punished for theft. The Commissioner of Police observes that no class of offence is planned or carried out with more deliberation, and that detection in these cases is difficult. He suggests that all cases where there is evidence of premeditation should be committed to the Sessions for trial. Out of 583 persons charged under the Gambling Act, 564 or 96 per cent. were convicted. In one case the keeper of a gaming-house was sentenced to imprisonment without the option of a fine. Under the Stage Carriage Act there were 2,629 cases and 2,469 convictions against 2,079 cases and 2,032 convictions in the preceding year. The increase in the number of prosecutions occurred mainly for cases of loitering for hire off stand and driving without neck-tickets. Offences under the Police Act (street offences) fell from 10,059 to 9,806 in 1890, and out of 12,297 persons placed before the Magistrate, 12,189 or 99·12 per cent. were convicted. There was an increase of 56 cases under the Ports Act as compared with the previous year. There was an increase of 280 in the cases under Act I (B.C.) of 1869, prosecutions in which were generally instituted on action taken by the officers of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Out of 4,820 persons arrested during the year, 4,717 or over 97 per cent. were convicted. Act XI of 1890 has recently been extended to Calcutta, and it is hoped that additional acts of cruelty made punishable in that Act will result in more effectual prevention of the inhuman torture of animals. His Honour regrets to observe that the cognizable riots and unlawful assemblies in the Town rose from 12 to 21.

9. Cognizable crime in the Suburbs.—The following is a comparative statement of cognizable cases returned as true in the Suburbs during the past two years:—

Class I - Offences against the State	15	18
" II—Offences against the person	75	36
" III Serious offences against person and property	161	122
" IV—Minor offences against the person ...	21	32
" V—Minor offences against property ...	680	547
" VI - Other offences not specified above ...	651	742
Special and local laws—
Cruelty to animals	3,156	3,975
Miscellaneous offences in the street ...	2,484	2,071
Other offences	22	612
Total ...	7,255	8,155

There were 7 cases of offences relating to Coin. In three cases 3 persons were convicted by the Magistrate; two cases were committed to the Sessions, and the offenders were sentenced one to three years' and the other to five years' rigorous imprisonment. One case was pending at the close of the year, and in the remaining case the accused was not placed on trial for want of evidence.

There were three cases of murder against an equal number in the previous year. In two cases the offenders were transported for life. In the third case the charge against the accused was withdrawn in the Court of Sessions. There were two cases of culpable homicide against three in 1889. In one case the accused was sentenced to two years' rigorous imprisonment, and in the other to five years. There were only seven cases of grievous hurt against 16 in the preceding year. In five cases 8 persons were convicted, 3 of whom were policemen who were sentenced by the Sessions Court, 1 to three years and 2 to two years' rigorous imprisonment. Cases of hurt by dangerous weapons fell from 19 in 1889 to 8. Of these five were withdrawn in Court, and in the remaining three cases the accused were convicted. There were six cases of kidnapping against 11 in 1889. In four of these cases the offenders were convicted, one of whom was sentenced by the Sessions Court to seven years' transportation.

While there was a decrease in the number of burglaries in 1890, the proportion of cases detected and persons convicted was higher than in 1889 or in any of the four preceding years. The percentage of property recovered was 52·80 against 26·30 in 1889. The ratio of cases detected and persons convicted under the head of theft shows an improvement on the results of the previous year. The percentage of property recovered also compares favourably with that for the preceding year.

10. Non-cognizable crime in the Town.—The following table shows the cases under chief heads of non-cognizable crime for the Town reported as true:—

Conservancy Act IV (B.C.) of 1876	19,577	16,820
Criminal force; sections 352, 355 and 358, Indian Penal Code	2,119	2,106
Intimidation and assault; sections 504, 506, 510, Indian Penal Code	528	748
Hurt; section 323, Indian Penal Code ...	598	678
Rioting, unlawful assembly and affray; sections 149, 154, 156 and 160, Indian Penal Code ...	230	264

There was a decrease in the total number of cases from 24,510 to 22,015. The decrease occurred almost wholly in conservancy cases. There was an increase in cases of causing hurt and of rioting, unlawful assembly and affray. There were 16 cases of forgery against 4 in 1889. Convictions were obtained in four cases. In one of these the managing clerk of a local firm obtained large advances from the Bank of Bengal and the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, involving serious loss to both Banks by means of forged opium passes. As the forged documents bore the names of officials in the Board of Revenue, the prosecution was conducted by Government. In the case of the Hongkong Bank the accused having been sentenced to eight years' imprisonment, it was decided not to proceed with the other case. Cases of extortion fell from 15 to 10. In one case committed to the Sessions, two offenders were sentenced to seven and three years' rigorous imprisonment respectively. No member of the force was convicted during the year of this offence. Cases of rioting, hurt, criminal force, intimidation, and assault increased chiefly in the Northern Division of the Town. The Presidency Magistrate of that Division has not noticed the subject.

11. Non-cognizable crime in the Suburbs.—The following table shows the cases under the same heads as in the last paragraph of non-cognizable crime reported as true in the Suburbs:—

Conservancy Act	1,114	2,529
Criminal force	827	914
Intimidation and assault	54	80
Hurt	388	347
Rioting, unlawful assembly, affray	Nil.	Nil.

There was a total increase of 1,687 in non-cognizable cases as compared with the preceding year, which occurred mainly in conservancy prosecutions. These more than doubled, but no reason is assigned. The Lieutenant-Governor notices with surprise that no cases of non-cognizable rioting, &c., are reported from the Suburbs for either 1889 or 1890.

12. Suicides.—The number of cases in the Town and Suburbs was 85 against 83 in 1889. Thirty-seven per cent. of the cases were caused by hanging and 31 per cent. by opium poisoning. Over 70 per cent. of the suicides occurred among the Hindus.

13. Accidental deaths.—There were 301 deaths in 1890 against 292 in 1889. Thirty-six were caused by falls from trees and buildings, 30 by carriages and horses. There were 4 deaths from snake-bite. Out of 121 drivers of public and private carriages prosecuted for rash and furious driving, 101 were convicted.

14. Arms Act.—The importation of firearms decreased from 2,655 pieces in 1889 to 2,449 in 1890, but there was an increase of 207 in the number of firearms purchased by Calcutta Merchants in this country during the year. The imports of percussion caps fell from 23,384,000 in 1889 to 19,013,000 in 1890, and this decrease is stated to be due to the fact that the surplus stock in hand at the commencement of the year was much more than it was at the commencement of 1889. Out of 2,449 firearms imported during 1890, 2,017 were imported by European firms. The number of firearms sold during 1890 was 2,852 against 2,720. These figures include guns of native manufacture imported into the Town of Calcutta from Monghyr. The number so imported was 980 against 957 in 1889. There were 5 prosecutions under the Act against 7 in the previous year. Six persons were convicted, all for petty offences.

15. European Vagrancy Act.—Thirty-five vagrants were admitted into the Workhouse under section 5 of the Act. Two persons were deported, 1 to London and the other to Madras, 16 were shipped away as seamen, 11 were provided with employment of various kinds, and 5 were released. Ten other persons of European extraction, who were not admitted into the Workhouse, entered into agreement under section 17 of the Act and were deported from India.

16. Alms-house.—Out of 66 seamen who found refuge in the Alms-house during the year, employment on ships was found for 51.

17. Fire Brigade Act.—Thirteen large fires occurred in the Town and River, 26 in the Suburbs, and 8 at Howrah, at all of which steam fire-engines rendered effective assistance. Thirteen other small fires were also reported to have occurred at which manual engines attended. The loss of property was estimated at Rs. 4,66,480 against Rs. 1,38,490 in 1889. The most serious fire in the Town occurred at Jorabagan, in which property worth Rs. 93,000 was destroyed, and that in the Suburbs occurred at the Bengal Hydraulic Jute Press at Chitpore. The loss in this case was said to be Rs. 2,70,000.

18. Strength of the Police Force.—The actual strength of the Police employed in the Town and Suburbs is shown below :—

	Town Police.	Suburban Police.	Detective Department.	Government Guard.	Port Police.	Lock-up Guard.	Salt Pass Establishment.	River Police.	Additional Constables.	Total.

Total ...	1,473	682	11	257	21	10	23	181	202	2,860

The ratio of this force was to population 1 to 239·39 inhabitants, and to area was 1 to ·010 square miles.

The percentage of casualties in the Force was 11·32 against 9·74 in the previous year; 14 members of the Force were punished judicially during the year against 15 in 1889. 72 men were dismissed against 56 in 1889, 3 men deserted, 144 resigned or were discharged, with or without pension, and 33 died, the rate of mortality being 11·5 per mille. Altogether 15 officers and 25 constables were reduced, 17 officers and 43 constables were suspended, 28 officers and 210 constables were fined. The number of vacancies of all kinds was 324 against 288 in 1889.

The Commissioner of Police suggests the necessity of improving the position of the native policemen immediately above the grade of constable, though he has not yet made any special recommendation on behalf of this portion of the force. This matter will come under the Lieutenant-Governor's consideration together with the recommendations of the Police Committee.

19. Cost of the Police.—The total cost of the Town and Suburban Police was Rs. 6,14,634, the budget grant for 1890-91 being Rs. 6,17,000. The sanctioned strength was reduced by 51 constables from the 1st April 1890.

20. Hotels, liquor shops, &c.—Four hundred and seventy-five certificates were granted for hotels, shops for the sale of exciseable articles, and native eating houses in the Town, and 197 in the Suburbs against 268 and 52 respectively in 1889. The fees realized amounted to Rs. 1,032 against Rs. 822 in the Town, and to Rs. 448 against 235 in the Suburbs. The increase in fees is chiefly accounted for by the fact that licenses for liquor shops which were granted in 1887 under the triennial system were renewed during 1890.

21. Property found and restored.—Property to the value of Rs. 4,787 was picked up and brought to the Police Office, and over 69 per cent. of the amount was restored to the owners.

22. Old offenders.—Two hundred and eighty-nine old offenders were convicted in the Town against 278 in 1889. Of these, 76 had been convicted more than three times against 80 in the previous year. In the Suburbs the corresponding figures were 94 and 14 against 83 and 16. Eighty-one notorious offenders were photographed on their release from jail and their names registered by the Detective Department.

23. Judicial Work.—The number of cases instituted in the Northern Division was 15,056, and in the Southern Division 13,809 against 14,053 and 13,415 respectively in 1889. The number of cases disposed of by the Honorary Magistrates was 18,516 against 21,149 in the previous year. Of 36,806 persons appearing before the Courts of the Presidency Magistrates of the Northern and Southern Divisions, 34,274 were convicted and 2,363 acquitted or discharged. The percentage of conviction in cognizable cases was 96·5 in the Court of the Northern Division Magistrate, 96·1 in the Court of the Chief Magistrate, 77·6 in the Bench Courts, and 52·1, 57, and 60·7 respectively in non-cognizable cases (excluding conservancy prosecutions). The total amount of fines imposed by Benches was Rs. 5,112 against Rs. 6,265 in the previous year. Of this amount Rs. 4,630 was realised, and out of this sum Rs. 479 was awarded as compensation. Eleven cases only were declared by Honorary Magistrates false, frivolous, vexatious or groundlessly instituted, and compensation awarded in these cases amounted to Rs. 91 in all. Under the amended section 250 of the Criminal Procedure Code, which allows compensation to be given in warrant cases as well as in summons cases, it is expected that compensation will be awarded in many more cases.

Against the orders of the Chief Presidency Magistrate, 34 ordinary appeals were preferred with result that 1 conviction only was set aside; the High Court was moved in revision in 5 cases, but only once successfully. 51 ordinary appeals were made against the orders of the Northern Division Presidency Magistrate, all without success; 12 motions were made to the High Court with the result that 2 were successful. There were 12 ordinary appeals against the decisions of Honorary Magistrates, all of which were rejected except 1; there were 3 motions to the High Court, but all were without success. These results speak well for the soundness of the decisions given by the Magistrates.

24. Adjournments.—The total number of cases adjourned was 308 against 422 in 1889. Of the 308 cases adjourned, 119 were before the Northern Division Court and 147 before the Chief Magistrate and 42 before the Benches. The number of adjournments does not seem unreasonable. The Commissioner of Police observes that, if arrangements are insisted on for hearing cases which are ready for disposal as nearly as can be de die in diem, the business of the Courts will be disposed of more satisfactorily to all parties, and the Lieutenant-Governor hopes that the Chief Presidency Magistrate will insist upon this procedure which has already received the approval of Government.

25. Benches.—The Chief Presidency Magistrate observes that the Honorary Magistrates as a body continue to evince the interest they have always taken in the discharge of the work. The only unsatisfactory features that call for notice are—

(1) the absence of some of the Honorary Magistrates from the Court without notice and sometimes on insufficient notice; and

(2) the rising of the Courts presided over by Honorary Magistrates in a few instances without finishing the day's file before the hour prescribed by the rules for such rising.

The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that no such neglect of the important public interests committed to their care will be reported in any future year.

Out of 96 Honorary Magistrates, 13 attended 20 times or more. The Lieutenant-Governor notices with satisfaction the good services which these gentlemen have rendered to the administration of justice. Thirty-six Honorary Magistrates attended less than ten times during the year, besides 8 who never attended at all. Some of these were either absent from the Town for a portion of the year, or were appointed late in the year. Some of those who never attended at all were in Europe.

26. Personnel of the Force.—Mr. J. Lambert held the office of Commissioner, and Mr. A. B. Barnard that of Deputy Commissioner, throughout the year. The Lieutenant-Governor's acknowledgments are due to both these officers for their efficient administration of the Department during the year. The names of the subordinate officers favourably mentioned have been noted.

ORDER.—Ordered that copies of the Resolution be forwarded to the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, for information and communication to the Presidency Magistrates, and to the Commissioner of the Presidency Division, for information.

Ordered also that a copy of this Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

RESOLUTION.—The Lieutenant-Governor views with satisfaction the results of the working of the fund during the year under review, and His Honour is glad to find that, while there has been a decrease in the amount realised from fines, larger amounts have been contributed from the resources of the funds towards entertainments, schools, and the institute, in which the employés of the Railway are much interested.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Government of India, in the Public Works Department, and to the Managers of the Eastern Bengal and Nalhati State Railways, for information, and that the Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

* Mean of 6 days.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last ten years. The variations are negative when the mean for the week is less than the corresponding normal mean, and positive when greater.

The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being presented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The numbers denoting cloud amount represents the part of the sky covered, the whole sky being denoted by 10. Under the head District observations of rainfall the normal means are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the past ten years. The means of the district are the numerical average of the rainfall returns received in the district, i.e., from total rainfall at the subdivisions and stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least a tenth of an inch fell.

Explanation.—......indicate that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a ra is when at least 0·1 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 7th July 1891.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING SATURDAY, THE 4TH OF JULY 1891.

UP to the close of the previous week rainfall had been for a considerable period, almost entirely absent except in North Bengal and Assam and to a smaller extent over East Bengal. The unfavourable conditions in the Bay of Bengal for the advance of the monsoon current northwards over Bengal, which had existed since about the first week in June, had however disappeared from the 25th instant, and it was pointed out in last week's report that conditions had at the close of the week become decidedly favourable for the commencement of the rains in Bengal. The wave of moisture-laden winds had indeed probably advanced partly over the province on the morning of the 27th, for during that day and the following night rain in many instances accompanied by slightly stormy weather set in over Orissa and South-West and East Bengal, so that on the morning of the 28th fairly heavy rain was reported from these districts, nine stations reporting falls of two inches and upwards, while nearly twenty stations received from one to two inches. This advance of monsoon winds was accompanied on the morning of the 28th by a fall of pressure of about a twentieth of an inch, while temperature had fallen very rapidly over the southern districts where rain had fallen. Winds on this day remained rather strongly easterly over the whole province, and they appeared to carry the rain-bearing current further inland, for on the morning of the 29th, rain was reported generally over the whole province, and at some stations particularly heavy falls were received. Thus a fall of six and-a-half inches was registered at Jungipore in the Moorshedabad district, and falls of about five inches at Lalgola (Moorshedabad district), Harrishpore (Noakholly district), and Bagaha (Chumparun district); falls of two inches were also reported from about ten stations. On the 29th the pressure changes and the pressure distribution were a little irregular, but temperature continued to fall rather rapidly. Winds also became a little irregular, and westerly winds began to set in at the western stations. Moderate to heavy rain was again received in almost all districts, and on the morning of the 30th the following heavy falls were reported—Barrh (Patna district) 5·42 inches, Saugor Island 5·32 inches, and Krishnaghur 2·85 inches. Pressure on the 30th had risen over the whole province, but the variations of temperature were small, and winds remained practically unchanged. On the morning of July 1st the rainfall reported was by no means so general as it had been in Orissa, South-West and East Bengal and Chutia Nagpur, though it continued fairly general in Behar and North Bengal. In the Bay of Bengal also conditions had changed and indicated that the monsoon current was again being deflected towards Burma, and that it was long prevented from passing northwards over Bengal, for there was a distinct whirl or circulation of winds off the Arakan coast, and this appears to have determined a slight and partial break in the rains which lasted for about two or three days. The meteorological changes in Bengal on the 1st were that pressure was falling by about 0·03″, while temperature had risen by about 2° owing probably to the decrease in the rainfall. On the 2nd the slight break in the rains continued in the southern districts, and the whirl off the Arakan coast still existed, though it was scarcely so definite as it was on the 1st. Pressure continued to fall over the whole province of Bengal, while again temperature had risen by about 1° or 2°. On the morning of the 3rd the rain showers reported in the southern districts were still rather few in number, though fairly heavy and general rain was reported in Behar and North Bengal. On this day, however, the whirl off the Arakan coast had entirely disappeared, and conditions in the Bay once more became favourable for the advance of the monsoon winds generally over Bengal. Pressure on the 3rd continued to fall in the east and centre of the province, though in the western districts there was an increase, while temperature had generally risen. The monsoon current appears then to have again advanced over Bengal, for on the morning of the 4th rain had become general over South-West and East Bengal and over considerable parts of Chutia Nagpur, though in Orissa rainfall was more local, while Behar and North Bengal continued to receive moderate to heavy rain. The temperature changes on the 4th were irregular, but pressure in Bengal had risen moderately, but rather unequally, and there was on this day a distinct tendency for the production of a small barometric depression over the central districts as represented by such stations as Furreedpore and Berhampore, round which there was also a rather irregular though quite perceptible cyclonic circulation of winds. Thus at the close of the week the general conditions over the province were distinctly favourable for moderate to heavy rainfall, and for the inrush of a considerable volume of the moisture-laden monsoon winds.

The meteorological conditions for the week have, therefore been very important, as the monsoon rains have now set in. The date of their commencement may be said to have been June 27th over the southern half of the province and the 28th in Behar and Chutia Nagpur.

Pressure—Has been below the normal almost throughout the week, and the mean pressure has been rather largely in defect. The average deficiency is equal to no less than seven or eight-hundredths of an inch, and at some stations it almost equals a tenth of an inch. In Assam the mean pressure is also in defect of the normal by 0·082 inch.

Temperature—Has been nearly normal for the period, and the mean temperature of the province for the week is only a tenth of a degree lower than usual. In South-West Bengal the average temperature has been absolutely normal, in East and North Bengal it has been a few tenths of a degree in excess, and in Behar a few tenths of a degree in defect. In Assam the mean temperature for the week has been 0·5° in excess.

Rainfall.—Rain has fallen on an average number of three or four days in each division of the province, and indeed the number of rainy days has been almost equal to the normal. The general rainfall for the week has, however, in five out of the seven divisions, been less than the normal, the two divisions in which slight excess falls have been received being South-West Bengal and South Behar. The defect in North Bengal has been very small, and equals only about 5 per cent. of the normal, in North Behar the defect is moderate, and equals about 20 per cent., but in Orissa and East Bengal the defects have been decidedly large, and they equal about 40 per cent. The average rainfall in North Bengal has equalled nearly four inches, and that in South-West Bengal, North and South Behar, and Chutia Nagpur has equalled about three inches. The falls in East Bengal have been little more than two inches, or an inch and-a-half less than the normal amount, while in Orissa the fall has been less than an inch and-a-half, or an inch in defect of the normal.

The falls in Assam have also been heavy, and at Sibsagar 7·83 inches is reported, at Dhubri 4·19 inches, and at Silchar 2·92 inches.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 4th of July 1891:—

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about 8 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·008 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 0·5° higher; and finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

MEMORANDUM.

Report on the Vital Statistics in twenty-seven of the principal towns of Bengal for the Quarter ending 31st March 1891.

Births.

The total births registered in twenty-seven of the principal towns of Bengal during the three months ending with March 1891 numbered 6,412, being less than in the preceding quarter by 872, but greater than the average of five previous correspondng periods (1886—90) by 718, and correspond to an annual rate of 23·88 per 1,000 of the aggregate population of those towns, which is 1,072,359. This rate is 2·68 higher than the mean rate of the corresponding quarter of the past five years, 1886—90, and is also higher than the rate of the corresponding period of any of the past five years with which comparison is instituted, vide the figures below—

Ratio of births per 1,000 of the population per annum	20·92	20·32	20·52	23·16	21·44	21·20	23·88

Of the total births, 3,387 were males and 3,025 females, or, in other words, they occurred in the relative proportion 111 of the former to 100 of the latter. Although, on the whole, there were more boys born than girls, yet in nine towns, viz., Hughli and Chinsurah, Utterpara, Ranaghat, Santipore, Jessore, Naraingan, Mozufferpore, Chupra and Poori, the female births exceeded the male births.

The births registered in each of the twenty-seven principal towns during the first quarter of 1891, 1890, and the average of the five years, 1886—90, correspond to the following rates per 1,000 of the population of those towns :—

				Total ...	23·88	27·44	21·44

It will be seen that the highest birth-rate during the quarter under notice was recorded in Rampore Beauleah, where it amounted to 44·44 per mille per annum, and the lowest in Patna City, where it was only 12·48. Only in Rampore Beauleah (44·44) and Comillah (41·72) did the statistics of birth registration exceed the supposed standard of 40 per mille per annum. In only four out of the twenty-seven principal towns of Bengal, viz., Monghyr (39·60), Naraingunj (37·56), Serampore (34·56), and Durbhanga (31·76), did the birth-rate exceed 30 per 1,000 : in the other towns in the list birth registration must be pronounced to have been more or less defective, and manifestly so with regard to the registration in Patna City (12·48), Ranaghat (13·80), Chittagong (15·), Krishnagar (16·56), Jessore (17·40), Dacca (17·56), Midnapore (18·44), and Bhagulpore (18·80), where the statistics are so imperfectly recorded that the ratio was less than 20 per 1,000 of population.

Deaths.

The total number of deaths registered in the twenty-seven principal towns of Bengal during the quarter ending 31st March 1891 amounted to 7,242, being greater than in the preceding quarter and the average of five previous corresponding periods by 334 and 1,497, respectively, and correspond to an annual rate of 27· per 1,000 of the aggregate population of those towns. This rate is 5·60 higher than the mean rate of the corresponding period of the past five years, 1886—90, and is also higher than the recorded mortality of the corresponding quarter of any of the past five years with which comparison is instituted, vide the figures below—

	Quarter ending 31st March of—
	1886.	1887.	1888.	1889.	1890.	Quarterly average of five years, 1886—90.	1891.
Ratio of deaths per 1,000 of the population per annum	22·20	21·64	20·80	20·28	22·40	21·40	27·00

Of the total deaths 3,931 (ratio 28·24 per mille per annum) occurred among the male and 3,311 (ratio 25·64) among the female population, or proportionally 110 males died for every 100 females, calculated on the proportion such mortality bears to the total male and female population.

The loss by deaths from the different classes of the community was greater among the Christians (28 72 per 1,000 per annum) than among either Hindus (27·60) or Mahomedans (25 64), while the Budhists (3·92) suffered the least

The deaths registered in each of the twenty-seven principal towns during the first quarter of 1891, 1890, and the average of the five years, 1886—90, correspond to the following rates per 1,000 of the population of those towns :—

Midnapore attained the highest death-rate during the quarter under report—57·68 per mille—and the lowest death-rate was recorded in Arrah, 12·12. The high death-rate in Midnapore was due to an excessive mortality from small-pox, more than one-third of the total deaths having occurred from that disease. The total mortality of the twenty-seven principal towns during the first quarter of 1891 is higher than the total rates of the two past periods with which it is compared. Eliminating Midnapore, Serampore stands next with the death-rate 53·56, followed by Poori 49·84, Chittagong 46·24, Gya 43·96, Jessore 41·88, and Narainganj 40·44. The death rates in fifteen towns ranged between 39·24 and 19·16, and in the remaining five others they were below 18·08 and above 12·12. Registration seems to be still defective in Arrah 12·12, Santipore 13 84, Patna City 14 08, Chupra 16·48 and Bhagulpore 18 08, no improvement in this respect being perceptible in any of these places.

The following table shows the registered mortality of the quarter under review from the several registered death-causes compared with that of the preceding quarter, the figures of the corresponding quarter of 1890 and the average of the corresponding quarter of the previous five years, 1886—90 :—

Quarterly average of five years, 1886—90... ...	2·32	·20	8·84	3 12	·40	6·48

The above statement, compared with the figures of the past periods, shows a noticeable increase in the mortality of the first quarter of 1891 under the heads cholera and small-pox. Compared, however, with the fourth quarter of 1890 there is a diminution in the mortality of the first quarter of 1891 under the head fever, but in comparison with that of the corresponding quarter of 1890 and the average of five previous corresponding periods 1886—90, there is a noticeable increase in the mortality from this cause.

The total deaths from cholera numbered 1,164 (ratio 4·32 per mille per annum) against 848 (ratio 3·16) in the preceding quarter. The death-rate from cholera was highest in Naraingunj, where it was 14·32 per mille per annum, then in Ranaghat 13·80, Jessore 13·64, Midnapore 12·24, Krishnagar 10·48, Serampore 10·40, Hughli and Chinsurah 9·32, Burdwan 8·44, Howrah 8·40, Utterpara 7·96, Poori 7·72, Comillah 7·68, Gya 7·08, Rampore Beauleah 7·04, Santipore 3·88, Bali 3·76, Dacca 3·52, and Chittagong 2·52. Two towns, Darjiling and Chupra, were absolutely free from the disease.

Small-pox caused 478 deaths (ratio 1·76) against 89 (ratio ·32) in the quarter before. Chittagong and Midnapore returned by far the greatest number, the death-rates in these two towns being 25·48 and 21·08 per mille per annum, respectively, and next to them was Gya, 2·24. In Chittagong 141 deaths from small-pox were registered out of a total of 256, and in Midnapore 177 out of a total of 481. In eleven towns, viz., Hughli and Chinsurah, Utterpara, Bali, Krishnagar, Ranaghat, Santipore, Rampore Beauleah, Darjiling, Naraingunj, Comillah and Purneah the disease was entirely absent.

Fever carried off 2,793 persons (ratio 10·40), and the deaths from dysentery and diarrhœa numbered 794 (ratio 2·96) against 3,125 (ratio 11·76), and 907 (3·40), respectively, in the preceding quarter. All the towns returned deaths from both causes, but the greatest mortality-rates from fever were recorded in Gya 24·48, Darjiling 22·20, Jessore 22·12, and Rampore Beauleah 20·80. Serampore returned the highest death-rate from dysentery and diarrhœa 11·44, followed by Poori 9·68.

Injury caused 108 deaths (ratio ·40) against 112 (ratio ·40) in the preceding quarter, and the deaths from all other causes numbered 1,905 (ratio 7·08) against 1,827 (ratio 6·88) in the preceding quarter. Poori returned the highest death-rate from the unspecified diseases coming under the head "All other causes," viz., 14·20 per 1,000. Serampore stands next with 13·88, followed by Naraingunj 13·36, Midnapore 12·36, Comillah 11·24, Monghyr 10·96, and Utterpara 10·88.

With regard to age, infants (under one year) as usual perished in the largest number, 167·80 per 1,000 of population; next come old persons (60 years and upwards) with a death-rate of 76·68 per 1,000. The lowest death-rate occurred between the ages of 10 and 15 years (12·16).

Detailed information regarding the vital statistics of the twenty-seven principal towns of Bengal during the quarter under review will be found in the statement appended.

Application for permission to exchange appointments must be made to the Secretary of State within one month after the date of choice made under paragraph I, and in no case will an exchange be permitted unless it is, in the opinion of the Secretary of State, desirable in the public interest that it should be made.*

(viii) The allowance of £100 will not be paid to any Selected Candidate until he has been certified by the Civil Service Commissioners to be entitled to be appointed to the Civil Service of India; and every Certificated Candidate must, before receiving his allowance, attend at the India Office and give a written undertaking to refund the amount in the event of his failing to proceed to India.

(ix) All Candidates obtaining Certificates will be also required to enter into covenants, by which, amongst other things, they will bind themselves to agree to such Regulations for the provision of pensions for their families as may be approved by the Secretary of State for India in Council. The stamps payable on these covenants amount to £1.

(x) Candidates rejected at the Final Examination of 1893 will in no case be allowed to present themselves for re-examination.

EXAMINATIONS FOR THE CIVIL SERVICE OF INDIA.

SYLLABUS

Showing the extent of the Examination in certain subjects at the Open Competition for admission into the Indian Civil Service in 1892.

THE Regulations governing the Open Competition for admission into the Indian Civil Service have been framed with a view to the principle regarded by Lord Macaulay's Committee, in 1854, as essential, viz., that the object of the competition should be to secure for the Indian Civil Service officers who "have received the best, the most liberal, the most finished education that their native country affords." The scheme of examination has accordingly been made to embrace most of the subjects of the Honour Schools in the Universities of Great Britain and Ireland. In administering the scheme, the Civil Service Commissioners, concurring with Lord Macaulay's Committee in the opinion "that no Candidate who may fail should, to whatever calling he may betake himself, have any reason to regret the time and labour which he has spent in preparing himself to be examined," desire to avoid all disturbance of the general course of University studies, and to render it possible, with due regard for the principle of Open Competition, for those who have graduated with honours at the Universities to attend the Examination for the Indian Civil Service with good prospects of success. The appended Syllabus shows in outline the intentions of the Commissioners with regard to the extent and character of the examination in those subjects which seem to require further definition. The scope of the examination in the subjects not mentioned in the Syllabus is sufficiently defined in the scheme published in the Regulations themselves. The Examiners will be instructed to keep the Standard in each subject up to the level of the highest course of study pursued in the Universities.

English Composition.—An Essay to be written on one of several subjects specified by the Civil Service Commissioners on their Examination Paper.

(ii) Should any appointments have to be made in excess of the 32 notified in the Regulations, they will be added to such group or groups as to the Secretary of State may seem proper.

(iii) No exchange of appointments will be permitted between selected Candidates who under paragraph I have made their choice of Presidency or Province, except between those who are members of the same group or of two adjoining groups, or who are separated by not more than 14 others in the order of merit on the result of the Open Competition. Application for permission to exchange appointments must be made to the Secretary of State within one month after the date of choice made under paragraph I, and in no case will an exchange be permitted unless it is, in the opinion of the Secretary of State, desirable in the public interest that it should be made.

(iv) The giving or receiving directly or indirectly any money or other valuable consideration for an exchange will be deemed to vacate the selection and appointment of the Candidates interested.

(v) Selected Candidates will be required to report their arrival in India within such period after the grant of their Certificate of Qualification as the Secretary of State may in each case direct.

(vi) The seniority in the Civil Service of India of the Selected Candidates will be determined according to the order in which they stand on the list resulting from the combined marks of the Open Competitive and Final Examinations. Candidates selected under these Regulations in 1892 will, in view of the alteration in the limits of age, have seniority over the Candidates selected under the previous Regulations in 1891.

(vii) An allowance amounting to £100 will be given to all Candidates who pass their probation at one of the Universities or Colleges which have been approved by the Secretary of State, viz., the Universities of Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, Glasgow, Edinburgh, St. Andrew's, and Aberdeen; University College, London; and King's College, London; provided such Candidates shall have passed the Final Examination to the satisfaction of the Civil Service Commissioners, and shall have complied with such rules as may be laid down for the guidance of Selected Candidates.

(viii) The allowance of £100 will not be paid to any Selected Candidate until he has been certified by the Civil Service Commissioners to be entitled to be appointed to the Civil Service of India; and every Certificated Candidate must, before receiving his allowance, attend at the India Office and give a written undertaking to refund the amount in the event of his failing to proceed to India.

(ix) All Candidates obtaining Certificates will be also required to enter into covenants, by which, amongst other things, they will bind themselves to agree to such Regulations for the provision of pensions for their families as may be approved by the Secretary of State for India in Council. The stamps payable on these covenants amount to £1.

(x) Candidates rejected at the Final Examination of 1893 will in no case be allowed to present themselves for re-examination.

EXAMINATIONS FOR THE CIVIL SERVICE OF INDIA.

SYLLABUS

Showing the extent of the Examination in certain subjects at the Open Competition for admission into the Indian Civil Service in 1892.

THE Regulations governing the Open Competition for admission into the Indian Civil Service have been framed with a view to the principle regarded by Lord Macaulay's Committee, in 1854, as essential, viz., that the object of the competition should be to secure for the Indian Civil Service officers who "have received the best, the most liberal, the most finished education that their native country affords." The scheme of examination has accordingly been made to embrace most of the subjects of the Honour Schools in the Universities of Great Britain and Ireland. In administering the scheme, the Civil Service Commissioners, concurring with Lord Macaulay's Committee in the opinion "that no Candidate who may fail should, to whatever calling he may betake himself, have any reason to regret the time and labour which he has spent in preparing himself to be examined," desire to avoid all disturbance of the general course of University studies, and to render it possible, with due regard for the principle of Open Competition, for those who have graduated with honours at the Universities to attend the Examination for the Indian Civil Service with good prospects of success. The appended Syllabus shows in outline the intentions of the Commissioners with regard to the extent and character of the examination in those subjects which seem to require further definition. The scope of the examination in the subjects not mentioned in the Syllabus is sufficiently defined in the scheme published in the Regulations themselves. The Examiners will be instructed to keep the Standard in each subject up to the level of the highest course of study pursued in the Universities.

English Composition.—An Essay to be written on one of several subjects specified by the Civil Service Commissioners on their Examination Paper.

The Oral Examinations in Modern Languages being intended as colloquial tests, no marks will be given at them to Candidates who are not able to converse.

Any Candidate who wishes to decline the Oral Examination or the Practical Examination in any of the subjects selected by him should state this in the blank space below—

THE TRIBES AND CASTES OF BENGAL.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT—MISCELLANEOUS.

Calcutta, the 9th July 1891.

RESOLUTION.

READ again—

The Resolution in the Financial Department, dated 30th April 1885, on the subject of the appointment of Mr. H. H. Risley, C.S., to conduct an enquiry into the Castes and Occupations of the people of Bengal.

Read—

Letter dated 12th December 1890, from Mr. H. H. Risley, C.S., submitting the outlines of a scheme for the continuation of Ethnographic Researches in Bengal, and for their extension to other parts of India.

Letter dated 28th February 1891, from Mr. H. H. Risley, C.S., intimating the approaching completion of the printing of his work.

Endorsement No. 441, dated 12th June 1891, from the Home Department of the Government of India, forwarding copy of a despatch from the Secretary of State regarding the distribution of two volumes of Mr. Risley's books.

In the Resolution of the 30th April 1885, cited in the preamble, it was stated (1) that the Government of India, at the instance of the Census Commissioner in 1882, had suggested that steps should be taken towards the collection of more precise information regarding the Castes and Occupations of the people of India; (2) that Mr. H. H. Risley, C.S., had been selected, to be deputed for two years, to prosecute the Ethnographic researches contemplated; (3) that the Lieutenant-Governor, apart from the scientific results, anticipated substantial administrative benefits from these enquiries; (4) that a series of questions would be published and circulated; and (5) that every District Officer would be requested to nominate one or more of his subordinates, who might be qualified and willing to assist, in addition to their ordinary work, in collecting information for their respective districts or sub-divisions. *Subsequently his deputation on special duty was extended to the 31st March 1888, with the approval of the Secretary of State for India.

2. The two volumes now under review contain the Ethnographic Glossary of all the castes, tribes, sub-castes and sections of which a substantial number of representatives is found in Bengal, with an introductory essay on Caste in relation to Marriage. To assist Mr. Risley in carrying out this work, there was already a considerable literature available in the shape of old reports, journals and transactions of learned societies; in addition to this, the unpublished notes of the late Dr. James Wise on the tribes, castes, and occupations of Eastern Bengal, covering some 400 pages of print, with a quantity of manuscript material, were placed at Mr. Risley's disposal; he had also the new information specially collected from the 188 correspondents named in Appendix IV to Volume II of the Glossary.

3. The Ethnographic Glossary is a mine of valuable information; but it is no detraction to the industry or the ability of its compiler to say that a complete knowledge of the caste system of India will not be obtained from its study alone. The greatest and purest castes of India, the Brahmins and Rajputs, are (with the one exception of the Maithila Brahmins of Behar) exotics in Bengal, and it is only in Upper India, the country of their origin, that a full understanding of their main permanent sub-divisions, and of the mutual relations of those sub-divisions, can be obtained; nevertheless much learned information is here contained respecting those clans or individuals of those castes who have emigrated into Bengal, and whose descendants have established local sub-castes with local customs of their own. But it is with regard to the numerous lower castes which have sprung up in Bengal, and to the representatives of the aboriginal races who have more or less come under Hinduising influences, that the information in these volumes is fullest and most abundant. Regarding such tribes and castes it certainly contains the most complete account that has hitherto been put on official record.

4. Of the value of the Ethnographic Glossary (as a dictionary of the castes and their occupations) to the Administration there can be no doubt. The more Government officers know about the religious and social customs of the people of their districts, the better able they will be to deal with either the possible social problems of the future, or with the practical questions arising in their ordinary work, such as the relations of different castes to the land, their privileges in respect of rent, their relations to trade, their status in civil society, their internal organization, their rules as to marriage and divorce, and as to the giving and receiving of famine-relief. Much influence for good over the people can be obtained by both Executive and Judicial officers by acquiring, and having a reputation for possessing, an intimate knowledge of the circumstances and surroundings of their actual life. It has long been the policy of Government to recognise that the acquisition of such knowledge is to be commended and encouraged, and His Honour trusts that the settlement operations in progress will conduce in a similar way to the enlargement of our acquaintance with the economic conditions of the people and the facts of rural life. All administrative and executive officers should make constant reference to this portion of Mr. Risley's work for their own immediate advantage, and with a view to its correction, where necessary, and amplification.

5. In his introductory essay to the Ethnographic Glossary, Mr. Risley has touched on a number of questions of the highest interest in connection with the castes and customs of the people, and on all that he has touched he has thrown the light of his literary skill, his scholarship, wide reading and Indian experience. The subject which has principally attracted his attention is the origin of the rules of exogamy, which he attributes to a sort of natural selection, that is, to the discovery that close interbreeding leads to physical weakness. In this conclusion he will find few to disagree with him; but he is perhaps inclined to think of the introduction of these rules as a matter of too remote antiquity: at any rate the rule of endogamy preceded that of exogamy. It was first the custom of the tribe or caste to marry wholly within its own limits; then, finding the results disastrous, each tribe sub-divided itself into sections which were not allowed to intermarry, and in course of time these subdivisions became more and more intricate. Thus the Brahmins divided themselves into their ten great classes—the five Northern (Gaur) and the five Southern (Dravér), while the Rajputs split up into the "36 Royal Races." These again divided themselves into "Gotras" or sects named after a Rishi or a Muni, who was supposed to be the spiritual father of the ancestor of the Gotra, and within these sects intermarriage was prohibited. The lower castes, actuated by the passion for ceremonial purity (a solvent principle which explains many of the difficulties with which Mr. Risley deals), sub-divided themselves similarly into Gotras, which they named sometimes after localities (commonly called Gaon-Gotras) sometimes after ancestral nick-names and after the names of animals, which also Mr. Risley conceives to have been not totems in the strict sense, but nick-names of the ancestors or eponymi of the Gotras. These and other questions on which Mr. Risley has offered valuable observations, such as the origin of totemism, the effect of marriage customs on female infanticide, widow and infant marriage, the law and influence of hypergamy, find an appropriate place in this essay. His treatment of these subjects will doubtless attract the attention they deserve, but it would be out of place for Government to enter into any criticism of them.

6. It was at one time intended that the volumes of castes and occupations should be circulated to District Officers in connection with the operations of the Census of February 1891, with a view to diminishing the number of "unknown" entries which appeared in the caste tables of 1881. It has, however, been decided to let the people speak for themselves, and that confusion and complications will best be avoided by not furnishing the Ethnographic Glossary to the officers at present engaged in the compilation of the Census statistics before the abstraction and tabulation of the figures are completed in district offi·es. It will, however, be used in the final compilation to be made by the Superintendent of Census Operations at Calcutta, and the latter's classification will be returned for criticism to the District Officers. The eventual result will, it is hoped, show a marked improvement over any previous enumeration and sub-division of the castes in Bengal.

7. The Lieutenant-Governor believes that Bengal is the only province in which any sustained attempt has been made to carry out the wishes of the Government of India with respect to the investigation of castes and occupations originating from the Census of 1881. This work will, at any rate, help to meet the charge sometimes made that little or nothing is done to encourage and foster scientific enquiry in the Lower Provinces. Though His Honour cannot venture to hope that anything like the final word has yet been said on the numerous and important lines opened out for discussion in Mr. Risley's volumes, he hails with sincere satisfaction their publication after six years' preparation as constituting a most valuable contribution to the stock of knowledge, and as affording a substantial frame-work on which further enquiries can be instituted and their results incorporated. He believe› firmly in the value of ventilating such questions, and in the accumulation and arrangement of information. The two volumes of the Ethnographic Glossary will now be circulated to all Commissioners, District and Sub-divisional Officers, and other persons interested, and their criticism will be invited with a view to supplement the deficiencies incidental to such an undertaking. On receipt of sufficient corrections and fresh materials, a revised edition of the Glossary will be published. It is Sir Charles Elliott's wish that all officers will communicate freely with Mr. Risley, in accordance with the invitation conveyed in the Preface of the work under consideration.

8. Soon after the commencement of his investigations, Mr. Risley proposed to supplement his enquiries into the tribes and castes of Bengal by an examination, on the methods approved by European anthropologists, of the physical characteristics of certain selected castes and tribes. As all castes are endogamous, i.e. intermarry only within their own limits, they preserve the purity of their blood in a degree which cannot exist in other nations where cross-marriages are common. If, therefore, there is truth in the theory that certain physical characteristics and proportions are persistent and hereditary, and differ in different races, Indian castes offer a field for testing this theory which cannot be equalled elsewhere. Accordingly he set himself to prepare statistics of the weight and height, the facial angle, and the specific dimensions of the head, nose, cheekbones, orbits, forehead and zygomatic arches of a hundred individuals in each of 87 castes. Fifteen of these castes belong to Bengal, five to the Chittagong Hills, eight to the Darjeeling Hills, seventeen to Chota Nagpore, ten to Behar, twenty-three to the North-Western Provinces, and nine to the Punjab. The figures comprising these tests (ten in number) for each of the 8,700 persons measured, occupied two volumes of "Anthropometric data" and are prefaced by tables showing the average figure for each of the 87 castes under each of the ten tests. Mr. Risley has not as yet indicated what conclusions can, in his opinion, be deduced from this laborious compilation, and it would be premature for the Government to express any opinion on the subject. The Lieutenant-Governor fully appreciates the fact that India offers a splendid field for the prosecution of ethnological researches, and that Bengal, with its enormous area and vast population, affords opportunities for investigation of special importance. He will therefore always gladly welcome and do all in his power, consistently with economy, to encourage anthropometric enquiries. With those few remarks he will leave this portion of Mr. Risley's work to the criticism of the learned Societies and anthropologists to whom, in compliance with the list received from the Secretary of State for India, it will now be distributed.

9. The scheme which Mr. Risley has submitted in outline for the continuation of ethnographical researches in the Lower Provinces, and for their extension to other parts of India, will now be laid before the Government of India. Its main features are—the appointment of an unpaid Director of Ethnological enquiries in each of the larger provinces, the circulation of ethnographic questions, the selection of subjects for enquiry, the preparation of monographs on castes, tribes, social groups, and different branches of custom and folklore, and their distribution to learned Societies in Europe. It may be admitted that systematic working in the direction indicated could not fail to elicit a considerable amount of valuable information, and the scheme is happily founded on an economical basis. But for its full and successful development, it would require more specialists than are likely to be found in India, and there is the ever-present objection to adding more work to the duties of District Officers already overtaxed. At the same time there would be much advantage in placing such work in the hands of one officer—of Mr. Risley himself, for instance, in Bengal—with whom voluntary contributors on the subjects indicated could freely communicate with the assurance that their views and information would receive adequate recognition.

10. It remains only for the Lieutenant-Governor to acknowledge the excellent results of Mr. Risley's labours during a period of years, on deputation, on leave, and concurrently with his ordinary duties. These volumes bear testimony to his ability, literary power, and industry, as well as to his rarer gift of philosophical and historical insight. His work in the field of Anthropology has already established his reputation with University authorities in England and learned Societies in Europe, and has gained for him the signal distinction of Honorary Member of the French Academy. In congratulating Mr. Risley on his achievements, now to be published, His Honour desires to express the hope that he will be able to find time, in the intervals of the duties of his office, to prosecute further the researches which he has done so much to advance. Sir Charles Elliott will also take this opportunity of thanking the European scholars and men of science who have helped Mr. Risley with advice and criticism,—more particularly Professor Flower, C.B., F.R.S., Director of the Natural History Branch of the British Museum; Professor Paul Topinard, of the School of Anthropology, and Secretary of the Anthropological Society of Paris, to whom the volumes of Anthropometric data are dedicated: Professor Max Müller; Dr. Tiele of Leyden; Dr. Friedrich Müller of Vienna; Herr Kart Panka of Vienna; Sir John Lubbock, Bart., M.P.; Mr. Andrew Lang; Mr. J. F. K. Hewitt (late of the Bengal Civil Service); and Professor Kollmann. The Lieutenant-Governor's acknowledgments are also due to Mr. Risley's fellow-workers in India, namely, Dr. D. D. Cunningham, F.R.S., Mr. W. B. Oldham, C.S., Mr. D. Ibbetson, C.S., Mr. J. C. Nesfield; Mr. A. H. Giles, the Revd. L. Skrefsrud, the Revd. D. Campbell, Mr. W. H. P. Driver, Baboo Protab Chandra Ghosha, Baboo Sarat Chandra Das, C.I.E., Mr. James Taylor, Lala Sheo Nandan Lal Roy, Baboo Bepin Behari Mookerjee, Baboo Harish Chandra Rai, Baboo Adya Nath Banerjee, Baboo Tara Pada Mookerjee, Baboo Kumud Behari Samanta, Chandi Singh, and Alauddin.

ORDER.—Ordered that copies of Mr. Risley's Ethnographical Glossary (two volumes) be circulated to all Commissioners, Judges, District and Sub-divisional Officers, to the Director of Public Instruction and to the Superintendent of Census Operations, for information and guidance, with reference to the above Resolution.

Ordered also that a copy of the above Resolution be communuicated to Mr. H. H. Risley, C.S.

Ordered also that a copy of the above Resolution be forwarded to each of the gentlemen mentioned in paragraph 10.

Ordered also that a copy of the above Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

REPORT ON THE WORKING OF THE LICENSED WAREHOUSE AND FIRE BRIGADE ACT IV (B.C.) OF 1883 IN CALCUTTA DURING THE YEAR 1890-91.

No. 33J., dated Calcutta, the 1st July 1891.

From—HARRY LEE, ESQ., C.S., Chairman of the Corporation of Calcutta,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department.

I HAVE the honour to submit the following report under section 30 of Act IV (B.C) of 1883 of the jute screw and warehouses in Calcutta for the year ended 31st March 1891.

2. At the close of last year there were 97 sanctioned warehouses on the register, and 7 new warehouses were established during the year. These make up the total number to 104. Of these, the license of No. 67, Sobha Bazar Street, was cancelled during the year, as the premises were converted into a dwelling-house. A complete list of the remaining 103, arranged according to the Acts under which they were originally licensed, is appended to this report.

3. Thirteen applications were received during the year as shown below—

4. Of the four applications for license which were mentioned in the last year's report as under consideration, three have been sanctioned and one refused. The license for No. 58, Gourebere Lane, has been taken out this year under sanction granted last year.

5. During the jute season so large a quantity of jute was imported into the town that the licensed godowns proved insufficient, and some importers stored their jute in unlicensed huts. These were in the first instance prosecuted and fined, and then, on their application, temporary licenses were granted for three months. Rupees 650 was realized in this way.

6. The total amount realized during the year was—

	Rs.

Temporary license fees	650

or Rs. 879-8 in excess of last year.

7. There were 23 prosecutions during the year. In 18 cases the defendants were convicted and fined, three cases were dismissed, and in two cases the defendants were warned and discharged and ordered to pay costs.

8. No case of fire in any jute godown occurred during the year under report.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o, overcast; g, gloomy; d, drizzling rain; p, passing temporary showers; lr, lightning reflection.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF JUNE 1891.

During the first half of June ordinary hot weather conditions usually prevail over the greater part of the province, the chief features being clear skies with moderate humidity and high temperature. But the moist current from the Bay of Bengal beginning in Burma some time in May and passing northwards is deflected by the Assam hills, so that in the north-east corner of Bengal, and in the northern part of East Bengal, heavy rain continues to fall from the beginning of June. The dry hot weather remains unchanged generally till the commencement of the rainy season, which usually sets in about the second week in the month, and may commence either as a wave of moisture-laden winds advancing over the province, or in many years the rains are brought up by the formation of disturbed weather in the Bay, when somewhat suddenly the sky becomes cloudy, and hot moist weather is general in the lower districts, till the disturbance, crossing the coast, moves in a north-westerly direction, giving heavy rain along its course. After its passage the rainfall area gradually extends, and rain becomes general in all districts. Thus frequently the change from the hot weather to the rains is clearly defined by the commencement of depression in the north of the Bay, but in other years the passage of the hot season into the rainy season is not sudden, but more of a gradual nature, so that it is sometimes difficult to assign any exact date for the commencement of the rains.

The meteorology of June has been most unusual, and the monsoon rains which generally commence on an average date of about the 12th to the 15th, did not this year set in till about the 27th or 28th, and were thus about a fortnight later than usual. On the other hand, there had been very unusual rain in May, as mentioned in the report for that month, and this continued partly into June, so that the lateness of the monsoon and the consequent deficiency of rainfall has been partly counterbalanced by the effects of the unusual meteorological conditions of May.

At the close of May a feeble and diffused cyclonic storm which had formed in the Bay, had advanced in a northerly direction towards the head of the Bay, and it had completely broken up on passing inland. The small storm brought up with it a distinct advance of monsoon winds, and thus at the commencement of June the monsoon winds were blowing strongly over practically the whole Bay, and were even penetrating to a considerable extent inland, and thus at this period conditions in Bengal were more or less of monsoon character. For the first week of June the conditions in Bengal remained somewhat disturbed, pressure varying rather rapidly, while there was also evidence of an advance of westerly winds taking place over the west of the province, gradually driving back the moist easterly winds or monsoon winds which had previously been blowing, and thus a certain amount of interaction was taking place between the two opposing wind systems, and as a consequence of these actions for the first week of June moderate to heavy rain was received in all the divisions of Bengal except Orissa, where the falls were very small.

The second week of June, however, witnessed the gradual and almost complete withdrawal of the rain-bearing current or monsoon winds, and the practical re-establishment of hot weather conditions in Bengal and Behar, and by its close there was practically no general rainfall in the province at all, and the only rain reported was in and near the hills of North Bengal. During this withdrawal of the moist winds from Bengal, the meteorological conditions in the Bay also underwent a distinct change. Wind directions at the west coast stations and in Burma became very strongly westerly, while in Arakan and at Akyab they became more or less easterly. This apparently pointed to the fact that there was circulation of winds or a kind of whirl commencing off the Arakan coast which was sweeping the monsoon winds over Burma, and hence preventing them from reaching the head of the Bay. This change took place shortly after the close of the first week of June, and the rainfall of Bengal in the second week of June at once became largely in defect of the amounts usually received in this week, the defects ranging from about 15 per cent. in North Behar and 20 per cent. in East Bengal to about 60 per cent. in Orissa and Chutia Nagpur.

In the third week of June ordinary hot weather conditions obtained; there was an almost complete absence of rain except over parts of East and North Bengal, cloud proportion was comparatively small, pressure was rather above the normal, while temperature was abnormally high, and the excessive temperature was also accompanied by a very high humidity over the greater part of the province. In the Bay the conditions throughout the week remained practically unchanged. The strength of the monsoon winds blowing in the south and centre of the Bay was very considerable, particularly towards the close of the week. The winds, however, blowing along the greater part of the Madras coast and also at the stations in Burma were in all cases unusually strongly westerly and at many stations due west, showing that the monsoon current was passing towards Burma instead of towards the head of the Bay. In addition to this, at Akyab, almost throughout the week, wind was more or less easterly. This, taken in connection with the wind directions on the Pegu coast, pointed to the continued existence of the slight whirl or cyclonic circulation of winds over the sea area off the Arakan and West Pegu coasts, which would naturally sweep the monsoon current travelling up the east coast of the Bay towards Burma and to the east of Assam. Almost precisely similar conditions to these existed in June 1888, when also the setting in of the rains was unduly delayed until almost the close of the month. In that year the rains only set in over Bengal when the small whirl off the Burma coast disappeared on about June 27th or 28th.

In the fourth week of the month the conditions in Bengal remained practically unaltered, and weather was of ordinary hot weather character up till the 26th. There was an almost complete absence of rain in all districts except over parts of East and North Bengal; cloud proportion also remained lower than usual, pressure was rather above the normal, and temperature continued abnormally high, excess amounts of from 15° to 17° above the normal in the case of the day temperatures being registered, while humidity also was decidedly high over by far the greater part of the province. In the Bay also the abnormal conditions described in the previous paragraph remained practically unchanged up till the 25th, when the wind circulation off the Arakan coast disappeared, and winds became southerly in Burma and Arakan, and hence it became possible for the monsoon current to again advance northwards up the Bay to Bengal, instead of being steadily deflected towards the east of the Bay and over Burma.

The monsoon current indeed commenced to give rain from the 27th in Bengal, accompanied at many stations by slightly stormy weather, and on the morning of the 28th fairly heavy general rain was reported from Orissa, South-West and East Bengal. On this day the current advanced further inland, and on the 29th rain was reported generally over the whole province, and at some stations particularly heavy falls were received, and again on the 30th moderate to heavy rain was reported in almost all districts.

In this year, therefore, conditions were very anomalous from about the 7th up to the 25th June in the Bay, for though a fairly strong monsoon was blowing over the south of the Bay, it was unable to advance up the Bay towards Bengal, but passed mainly over Lower Burma and Upper Burma. That province has therefore been receiving copious rain, while Bengal has received a rainfall which is roughly forty per cent. in defect of the normal.

It is usual in the monthly report for June to compare the strength of the monsoon current with the average strength of former years, but this year owing to the delay in the establishment of the monsoon current at the head of the Bay, the comparison is of less value than usual. The only way of comparing the strength of the monsoon current in different years is by means of the wind velocity, and the accompanying table contains the wind velocities in June at the coast stations from Diamond Island round to Gopalpore, as well as of a few stations near the coast line, and in the table these velocities are compared with the normal values for June. At practically all the coast stations from Diamond Island round to the north-west angle of the Bay wind velocities have been below their normal values, but at False Point and Gopalpore there has been an excess in the wind strength. The figures are not very conclusive, but they tend to show that the winds blowing over South Bengal have been much lighter this year than usual:—

Pressure.—The mean pressure for the first week of June was in excess of the normal, but the variations were considerable in different districts and at neighbouring stations Excess pressures of from five to eight hundredths of an inch were reported in most districts, except Orissa, but in that district the defect was only 0·02". In the second week pressure fell for six days in succession, and the mean pressure was below the normal by from 0·05" to 0·08", the defects being smallest in the west of the province and largest in Assam. In the third week pressure had become again in excess of the normal, the average excess equalling about 0·03", but generally the excess pressure was largest at the western and south-western stations and smallest in the hills and along the foot of the hills to the north of the province. In the fourth week the mean pressure was distinctly in defect of the normal, the amount generally averaging 0·02" or 0·03", and in this week the defects were fairly equally distributed except in South Behar, where the variation averaged 0·05". These variations, it will be seen, to a great extent neutralize each other, and consequently the mean pressure for the month has varied very slightly from the normal, the variations being generally not more than one or two hundredths of an inch, and at the majority of stations pressure has been in very slight defect, though at a few stations in Orissa and Chutia Nagpur slight excess pressure has been registered. In Assam pressure has been in defect by an average amount of 0·014."

Temperature.—In the first week of June, owing to the unusual rainfall the mean temperature for the week was in defect of the normal by nearly 2°. In the second week temperature continued rather largely in defect at first, but towards its close it was rising rather rapidly, and the mean temperature of the province was still 1 1° below the normal. In the third and fourth weeks very high temperatures were reported, and in the case of the maximum temperature at several stations an excess of 17° was registered for several days, while excess amounts of about 10° were rather common, and the mean temperature of the third week was 3° in excess and of the fourth week 4° in excess in Bengal. In Assam, however, temperature was below the normal in the third week and 1·6° above it in the fourth. These variations have therefore again to a great extent neutralized each other, and the mean temperature of the province of Bengal for the month has been only about 1° in excess of the normal, but the excess has been mainly confined to Orissa, South-West Bengal, and South Behar. In Assam, on the other hand, a slight defect of 0·5° has been registered.

Rainfall.—The total rainfall for the month has averaged thirteen inches in East Bengal, nine inches in North Bengal, eight inches in North Behar, about six inches in South-West Bengal and South Behar, nearly four inches in Chutia Nagpur and two and-a-half inches in Orissa. Compared with the normal amounts for the period, these fails respresent a defect of six per cent. in North Behar, of seventeen per cent. in South Behar, of twenty-nine per cent. in East Bengal, of thirty-nine per cent in South-West Bengal, of forty-seven per cent. in North Bengal, of fifty-three per cent. in Chutia Nagpur, and of seventy-two per cent. in Orissa. Expressed in inches of rain, the defect in each district has been as follows :—North Bengal eight, Orissa six, East Bengal five, Chutia Nagpur and South-West Bengal four, and Behar one inch. The number of rainy days in the month has also been very much smaller than usual, and in Chutia Nagpur and Orissa in particular the number of days on which rain fell was only about half the number usual at this season.

The following table gives a condensed view of the rainfall of the various divisions of Bengal in June, and in each of the previous months of the present year, as compared with the normal values for the same periods. The figures given represent the actual falls expressed as percentages of the normal falls, and it will there be seen that while the rainfall of June was extremely deficient, that of May was exceptionally large, and in the previous four months January and April were months of deficient falls, while February and March were months of excessive precipitation. So heavy, indeed, have the falls been in February, March and May, that the general average fall for the first six months of the year is in all cases, except Orissa and North Bengal, in distinct excess of the normal:—

Meteorological Divisions.	January.	February.	March.	April.	May.	June.	Actual rainfall of first six months of 1891 expressed as a percentage of the normal fall for the period.
Orissa	11	167	424	[illegible]6	134	28	87

Chutia Nagpur	163	91	506	30	148	47	104

The falls for June have thus not only been very deficient generally over the whole province, but in exceptional districts rainfall has been almost absent. This is specially the case in the south of Orissa, where the Pooree and Cuttack districts have received falls which are only from ten to less than twenty per cent. of the normal falls, and the actual rainfalls only average about one inch. Extremely deficient falls are also reported from the districts of Lohardugga, Julpiguri, Chittagong, Burdwan, Balasore, Beerbhoom, Dinagepur, Rungpur, Purneah, and Singbhoom.

On the other hand, in the midst of these defects a few districts have been areas of unusually heavy precipitation, and thus falls considerably in excess of the normal values are reported from the districts of Mozufferpur, Sarun, and Patna, while falls are in slight excess in Dacca, Mymensingh, and Gya.

The following table gives full data for the comparison of the actual and normal rainfall of the month of June in all districts in the province. The figures are derived from the average and actual rainfall of the rain-recording stations in each district, due allowance being made for the area which each represents. This gives a more accurate average than the arithmetical means given in the weekly and monthly meteorological tables. The first column gives the normal district rainfall as determined from the rainfall records of the past 18 years; the second column the district rainfall as determined from the weighted actual rainfalls of the month at the reporting stations in the district; the third column expresses the ratio of the actual district rainfall of the past month to the normal as a percentage, while the fourth gives the percentage variation or the difference of column three from 100:—

The variations are negative when the mean for the week is less than the corresponding normal mean, and positive when greater. The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being presented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The numbers denoting cloud [illegible] by 10. Under the head District Observations of rainfall the [illegible] are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the past ten years. Explanation.—......indicate that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 14*th July* 1891.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING SATURDAY, THE 11TH OF JULY 1891.

On the last day of the previous week it was reported that a very feeble area of low pressure had commenced to form in the middle of the province near Berhampore and Furreedpore, and that the winds generally showed a distinct tendency to cyclonic circulation round this centre. Thus conditions had become decidedly favourable for moderate to heavy rainfall over the whole province. On the 5th of July, or the first day of the present week, pressure had fallen rapidly over the whole province, the fall in North Bengal and Behar equalling a tenth of an inch, while in the southern districts it was not more than three or four-hundredths of an inch. The lowest pressures on this day were reported from Rampore Beauleah, Bhagulpore, and Dinagepore, and thus the feeble low-pressure area had advanced in a northerly direction in the twenty-four hours from the 4th to the 5th. Winds continued to show a feeble cyclonic circulation with a centre near Bhagulpore. General rainfall, in many cases of large amounts, was reported over the whole province on the morning of the 5th, the rainfall being lightest and most local in Orissa; falls in excess of four inches were on this day registered at Jehanabad, Burdwan, Kotalpore, Harishpore, Dacca, Naraingunge, Kishoregunge, Gajol, and Balumat, while falls in excess of two and three inches were very numerous. On the 6th a rather large fall of pressure had taken place at Dhubri and Rungpore, while elsewhere the falls were smaller, and in some cases pressure was rising. The area of low pressure was not so well defined on this day, but it appears to have advanced over the west of Assam, and the lowest pressure was reported at Dhubri. The feeble cyclonic circulation of winds had quite disappeared and south-westerly and westerly winds had set in at almost all stations, except in Assam, where winds were north-easterly. Again, on the morning of the 6th moderate to heavy rain was reported from almost every station in the province, the falls at some of the eastern and northern stations being exceptionally large; thus Satkanya (Chittagong district) reported 9·25 inches, Rangamati 6 inches, Culna 5·20 inches, and Raigunge 5·08 inches, and there were very numerous falls in excess of two and three inches. On the 7th the depression in North-East Bengal began to fill up, the rise at Dhubri and Rungpore exceeding a tenth of an inch, and the distribution of pressure became much more normal than it had been for some days, but winds, however, continued westerly and south-westerly over practically the whole province. On the 7th again general rainfall was reported in Orissa, East and North Bengal, Assam and parts of Behar, but the falls elsewhere were more local. Dhubri on this day reported 6·32 inches of rain, Bhowanigunge received 7·23 inches, Satkanya 8·44 inches, Rungpore 5·33 inches, Debigunge 5·40 inches, Ulipore 4·98 inches, and Bagdogra 4·78 inches. On the 8th the variations of pressure were small, and pressure continued generally rather largely in defect of the normal, while winds were also unchanged. Rain was received in almost the same districts as on the 7th, but the falls commenced to fall off in heaviness in all districts except East and North Bengal, where Dinhatta and Cooch Behar received between six and seven inches, Bagdogra more than five, and Satkanya a fall of no less than 14·63 inches. On the 9th the only change of importance was that pressure had fallen at the eastern stations, rather intensifying the defect over this area, and rainfall on this day became rather local, and in many cases much lighter, in all districts except North Bengal and Assam, and no exceptionally heavy falls were registered on this day. On the 10th conditions began to change more rapidly, and pressure fell in some cases in the centre and west of the province by almost a tenth of an inch. Winds therefore began to change also, and easterly winds commenced to set in at the eastern stations. On the 11th pressure had risen over the whole of Bengal, except at Saugor Island and the Orissa stations, and the lowest pressure in the province was reported at Saugor Island. A distinct cyclonic circulation of winds also set up round the north-west angle of the Bay, pointing to the existence of a slight depression over this area, and the depression, though in itself of little importance, was the centre of the wind circulation of the whole province, and winds, which on the 10th had been westerly and south-westerly over almost the whole province, became suddenly easterly and south-easterly. The amount of rainfall reported on the 10th and 11th, however, was generally small except in the districts in and near the hills of North Bengal.

In the Bay for almost the whole week the monsoon winds have been blowing decidedly strongly, the force amounting almost to a gale of wind on some days. It would, however, still appear that the wind directions continue to be rather more westerly than usual, and almost throughout the week heavy rain has been falling at the Burma stations.

Pressure—Has been unusually low almost throughout the week, and the mean pressure has been generally more than a tenth of an inch in defect. From the existence of the depression in the north of the province during a part of the week, that area has shewn pressure even more largely in defect of the normal than the remainder of the province, and thus the defect is from 0·16" to 0·18" at such stations as Dinagepore, Rungpore, Julpigoree, Sibsagar, and Dhubri; while, on the other hand, the defects in Orissa have been small, and at False Point and Cuttack they are less than a twentieth of an inch.

Temperature—Owing to the heavy rainfall in the early part of the week, temperature became decidedly low, and the mean temperature for the week has been in distinct defect of the normal in Orissa and South-West, East and North Bengal, though it has been in slight excess in North Behar and Chutia Nagpur. In South Behar the excess has been rather larger, and equals 2·5°. For the whole province the mean temperature for the week has been absolutely normal. In Assam a defect of 0·6° has been registered.

Rainfall—For the week has been in excess of the normal in all districts except Orissa, where the fall has been not very much larger than a third the usual amount. The excess falls have been comparatively small in Chutia Nagpur, South Behar, South-West Bengal, and North Behar, where they are less than one inch; but in East and North Bengal the falls have been about four inches in excess, or considerably more than twice the normal. Falls averaging seven inches have been received during the week in East and North Bengal, about three inches have fallen in South-West Bengal, North Behar, and Chutia Nagpur, and two and-a-half inches in South Behar. In Orissa, on the other hand, the falls have equalled only about one inch.

Exceptionally heavy falls have been received in the following districts:—Burdwan, Nuddea, Jessore, Khoolna, Chittagong, Chittagong Hill Tracts, Dinagepore, Rungpore, Julpigoree, and Cooch Behar; while very defective falls have been received in Pooree, Balasore, Midnapore, and Singbhoom.

In Assam, Dhubri during the week has received 13·45 inches, Sibsagar 6·81 inches, and Silchar 4·50 inches of rain.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 11th of July 1891:—

RESULTS OF EXAMINATION OF CANDIDATES FOR APPOINTMENT AS DEPUTY MAGISTRATE-COLLECTORS AND SUB-DEPUTY COLLECTORS.

RESOLUTION.

APPOINTMENT.

Calcutta, the 20th July 1891.

READ—

The Resolution of 24th April 1889, laying down the principles of recruitment for the Subordinate Executive Service.
The Notification of the 16th September 1890, laying down the rules for the examinations to be held in 1891 of candidates for appointments as Deputy Collectors and Sub-Deputy Collectors.
The Notification of the 4th March 1891, fixing the dates of the examinations.
The reports of the Examiners.
The Notification of the 21st April 1891, appointing Messrs. Craven and Lucas, who had qualified in the examination, to be probationary Deputy Magistrate-Collectors
The Notification of the 1st May 1891, selecting certain candidates to be probationers of the Executive Branch of the Provincial Service.
The Notification of the 2nd June 1891, selecting one of the candidates for appointment as Sub-Deputy Collector.

When the notification of the 16th September 1890 was issued, it was contemplated that only eight Deputy Magistrate-Collectors would be required during the year 1891, and it was proposed to select them as follows:—Four solely by competition, two from the candidates who appeared at the examination and obtained not less than one-third marks, and two by promotion from the grades of Special Deputy Collectors and Sub-Deputy Collectors.

2. The examination was held on the 23rd, 24th and 26th March at the Senate House of the Calcutta University. Fifty-six candidates appeared and were examined in papers set by the following gentlemen :—

Essay ...	... Mr. W. T. Webb, M.A., Professor, Presidency College.
Sanskrit ...	... Babu Nilmoney Mookerjee, M.A., Professor, Presidency College.

Latin ... ... English Language and Literature. Mental and Moral Science ...	Mr. H. M. Percival, M.A., Professor, Presidency College.
Persian	Shams-ul-ulama Moulvi Ahmed, Professor, Presidency College.
Mathematics	Mr. J. H. Gilliland, B.A., Professor, Presidency College.
Physics and Chemistry ...	Mr. A. Macdonnell, M.A., Professor, Sibpore Engineering College.
Law	Mr. H. H. Risley, B.A., C.S. „ C. M. W. Brett, Barrister-at-law; C.S.

On the result of this examination the following candidates were appointed on the 1st May last to be probationers of the Executive branch of the Provincial Service on a salary of Rs. 50 per mensem, and were posted to the head-quarters of the districts mentioned opposite to their names :—

1. Babu Rajani Prasad Neogi, M.A., Mymensingh.
2. „ Jnanendra Nath Chaudhuri, M.A., B.L., Jessore.
3. „ Rakhal Mohan Banerjea, M.A., Manbhum.
4. „ Jogendra Kumar Sinha, M A., Rajshahye.
5. Moulvi Mahomed Shamsuzzoha, B.A., Patna.
6. Babu Nayananjan Bhattacharji, M.A.,.Burdwan and afterwards Bankura.

3. Further experience has shown that the estimate made in September last was far below the mark. Owing to the large number of officers of the Imperial Service who have been drafted from this Province to Burmah and Assam, there are deficiencies in the cadre number of that Service especially during the leave season from March to October, and the Government of India have pointed out that when the number of members of the Imperial Service available for what are known as sub-divisional charges falls for the time being below the cadre number, the Local Government has power to second the officers on deputation by appointing Deputy Magistrate-Collectors in their places, up to the number required.

Besides the officers drafted to Burmah and Assam, several officers of the Imperial Service have lately been employed upon settlement duty in this Province, whom it is necessary to second in like manner.

Further, there have been more casualties in the ranks of the Provincial Service than were anticipated in September last.

4. Consequently the Lieutenant-Governor has found that the number of officers required for the Provincial Service to fill up the permanent and temporary vacancies this year is at least 26 instead of 8, as was anticipated ten months ago. In order to meet this deficiency, the Lieutenant-Governor appointed early in the year 17 gentlemen to be probationary Deputy Magistrate-Collectors on Rs. 200 per mensem, of whom eight were candidates who had been selected at the examination last year, and nine were Special Deputy Collectors or Sub-Deputy Collectors promoted. In addition to these, Mr. T. J. L. Lucas, B.A., and Mr. J. A. Craven, who were among the candidates selected on the result of the examination held in March last, were directly appointed to be probationary Deputy Magistrate-Collectors on Rs. 200 per mensem with the view to their eventually taking the places of two of the European officers in the Sonthal Pergunnahs who are expected to retire within this year under the 55 years' rule.

5. In spite of these appointments, there are still deficiencies in the cadre number of the Provincial Service, and the Lieutenant-Governor has decided upon appointing Mr. H. A. Lane, M.A., an educational officer of approved character, to be a probationary Deputy Magistrate-Collector on Rs. 200 per mensem with a view to his eventually filling up another vacancy in the Sonthal Pergunnahs in the place of an officer who will retire next year. Mr. Lane will retain his lien on his appointment in the Education Department whilst in the probationary grade. The six gentlemen named in paragraph 2, who were appointed as probationers on 1st May last, will also be at once appointed to be probationary Deputy Magistrate-Collectors on Rs. 200 per mensem. They will for the present continue at the stations where they are now posted, and will each be vested with the powers of a Magistrate of the third class. As the reports concerning these six probationers received from the districts in which they have been stationed during the short time they have been on probation have been very favourable, the Lieutenant-Governor has appointed them without waiting for any further period of training. They are liable to reversion at the end of the leave season, though this is unlikely if they continue to give satisfaction. At the same time, Sir Charles Elliott thinks that in future officers selected on the result of examination should pass a longer period of probation than has been found possible this year, and in order to meet the requirements of the coming year, he has decided to appoint as probationers of the Executive branch of the Provincial Service on a salary of Rs. 50 per mensem the following gentlemen, numbered 1 to 12, who at the recent examination stood next in order of merit after the first four, and those numbered 13 to 16 from among the remainder who obtained upwards of one-third marks and appear to be otherwise qualified, viz.—

1. Babu Jogendra Kumar Ghose, M.A.
2. " Rakhal Das Chatterjea, M.A.
3. " Soshi Bhushan Mukherjea, B.A.
4. " Sarat Chunder Sen Gupta, B.A.
5. " Suresh Chunder Sinha, M.A.
6. " Srigopal Bhattacherjea, M.A.
7. " Charu Chunder Chatterjea, M.A., B.L.
8. Babu Syam Lal Gupta, M.A.
9. " Fakir Chunder Chatterjea, B.A.
10. " Bhabataran Chattopadhya, B.A.
11. " Ashutosh Banerjea, B.A.
12. " Suresh Chunder Ball, M.A.
13. Moulvi Ashfuq Hossein, M.A.
14. Babu Satish Chunder Sen, B.A., B.L.
15. Moulvi Abul Mahmood, B.A.
16. Khondkar Fazlal Huq, B.A.

Separate orders will be passed posting these gentlemen to districts.

6. The examination for Sub-Deputy Collectorships took place at the same time as that for the Provincial Service, and 34 candidates, restricted to the following classes, as notified in paragraph 9 of the notification of the 16th September 1890, appeared—

(a) those whose names had been registered as candidates for appointment as Sub-Deputy Collectors;

(b) those registered candidates for appointment as Deputy Collectors who wished to compete in the examination for Sub-Deputy Collectorships;

(c) candidates selected from the list of applicants for registration for appointment as Sub-Deputy Collectors.

7. The result of this examination was not satisfactory. The marks obtained by almost all the candidates were low in the aggregate, and a scrutiny of the details showed no marked proficiency in any single subject. After a careful consideration of the papers set at this examination and the marks obtained, the Lieutenant-Governor came to the conclusion that the only candidate who showed such proficiency as would justify his selection for appointment as a Sub-Deputy Collector was Babu Kunja Behari Gossami, B.L.; he was therefore appointed on the 2nd June last. The Lieutenant-Governor regrets his inability to appoint any of the others. As several of the candidates for Deputy Magistrate-Collectorships who had obtained upwards of one-third marks, but who have not been selected to be probationers for the Provincial Service, showed considerable proficiency, the Lieutenant-Governor has decided to select three of them to be appointed at once temporary Sub-Deputy Collectors, and eight to be probationers in training for Sub-Deputy Collectorships on Rs. 30 per mensem.

8. The three gentlemen who have accepted the offer of appointment as temporary Sub-Deputy Collectors are—

1. Babu Annada Churn Gupta, B.A.
2. Babu Lalit Charn Das Gupta, B.A.
3. Babu Ashutosh Chatterjea, M.A.

In addition to these in order to fill up two other vacancies, His Honour promotes two canungoes, the first of whom passed the Native Civil Service Examination in class II in 1874, to be temporary Sub-Deputy Collectors:—

1. Babu Rajani Kanta Mukerjea, now employed at Kandi, Murshidabad.
2. Mr. T. F. Carter, now employed at Bankipur.

The eight gentlemen selected to be probationers for Sub-Deputy Collectorships, who have accepted the offer of these posts, are—

1. Babu Kedar Nath Banerjea.
2. " Jotindra Mohan Sinha, B.A.
3. " Akshoy Kumar Sen, B.A.
4. " Suresa Chunder Sarkar, M.A.
5. Babu Brajendra Nath Roy, B.A.
6. " Grish Chunder Dutt, B.A.
7. " Narendra Kumar Choudhury, B.L.
8. Babu Nisikanta Chattopadhya, B.A.

Orders posting these gentlemen as temporary Sub-Deputy Collectors and probationers will be issued separately.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o, overcast; g, gloomy; d, drizzling rain; p, passing temporary showers; t, thunder; ◠, dew.

In the weekly report from 21st to 27th June 1891 read "85·4" for "5·4" as the mean temperature of the 27th June 1891.

* Mean of 6 days.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last
The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being presented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The numbers are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the past stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. CALCUTTA, the 21*st* July 1891.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING SATURDAY, THE 18TH OF JULY 1891.

AT the close of the previous week a very slight area of low pressure had developed near Saugor Island, and this was accompanied by a distinct though feeble cyclonic circulation of winds, while over the remainder of the province a fairly strong easterly and south-easterly wind current was reported. On the 12th a very rapid increase of pressure had taken place, the increase equalling 0·16" to 0·18" and being smallest in Orissa. The area of minimum pressure therefore retreated southward from Saugor Island to Pooree and Gopalpore, round which there was again a feeble cyclonic circulation while easterly winds were blowing over the whole of Bengal. Fairly general rain was reported on this day in Orissa and the southern parts of Chutia Nagpur, but over the remainder of the province local showers only were received. The pressure changes on the 13th were very small, and the general distribution remained unaltered, while the winds also had undergone little change; but on this day rainfall became rather more general in South-West Bengal, though the falls in East and North Bengal, in Behar, and in Chutia Nagpur remained very light and local. On the 14th a rapid fall of pressure set in which was largest in the north of the province and smallest in Orissa, so that the area of low pressure over Orissa disappeared, and the lowest pressures were reported from the normal position in the west of Behar. With this changed pressure distribution winds became more southerly over the southern part of the province, though they still remained strongly easterly at the northern stations. On this day fairly general though light rain was received in Orissa and South-West Bengal and rather less general rain in East and North Bengal, but Behar and Chutia Nagpur continued almost rainless. On the 15th pressure had again fallen rapidly over the whole province, the fall being largest at the south-eastern stations, and pressure became largely in defect, particularly at the eastern and northern stations. With this new distribution of pressure westerly winds commenced to blow over Orissa, Chutia Nagpur, and the west of Behar, partially driving back the moist easterly current which was previously blowing, and on this date the rainfall reported in Orissa, South-West Bengal, and Chutia Nagpur was light and local, but in East and North Bengal and North Behar heavier and more frequent falls were received. On the 16th pressure continued to fall in South-East and East Bengal, though it was rising elsewhere, and on this day there was a feeble but distinct low-pressure area formed, represented by such stations as Dacca, Mymensingh, Bogra, and Berhampore. The westerly and south-westerly winds on the 16th had extended over South Bengal, but to the north of the feeble depression winds were south-easterly and easterly. Conditions were hence much more favourable for rainfall, and on the 16th general and rather heavy rain was registered in South-West, East, and North Bengal, North Behar, Chutia Nagpur, and parts of South Behar, though Orissa was almost rainless. On the 17th there was a rather rapid increase of pressure, the rise being largest over the area previously occupied by the feeble depression, which hence practically filled up. Conditions, however, were still favourable for rainfall, and on the 17th general and fairly heavy rain was reported from all districts except Orissa. On the 18th, or the last day of the week, the changes of pressure were small, and the previous distribution remained practically unaltered, and the general pressure distribution was fairly normal; winds were more or less westerly in Orissa and Chutia Nagpur, but in other districts they were usually south-easterly and easterly. Again fairly general rain was reported on the 18th in South-West and North Bengal, in Behar, and in Chutia Nagpur, while the falls were less general in East Bengal, and, as before, Orissa was to a great extent rainless.

Conditions, therefore, have generally been of light monsoon character throughout the week, and fairly good rain has fallen on about three or four days out of the seven over the whole province. In most districts the falls have been moderate in amount, the only exception being in Orissa, where on the whole falls have been decidedly light and only about half the normal amounts.

Pressure—Has varied considerably during the week, though the variations have to a considerable extent neutralized each other. For the whole week, therefore, the mean pressure has not been very far removed from the normal, and the variations usually do not exceed one or two-hundredths of an inch. At the majority of stations pressure has been in defect of the normal, but at almost a fifth of the stations very slight excess pressures have been registered.

Temperature.—The variations of temperature during the week have not been very large, and they have mainly followed the variations in the amount of rainfall. In Orissa, in South-West and East Bengal, in South Behar and in Chutia Nagpur, the mean temperature for the week has been very slightly in excess of the normal, but the largest excess only equals three-tenths of a degree. In North Bengal and North Behar temperature has been in defect, the deficiency in North Bengal being very slight, though in North Behar it equals 1·1°. For the whole province of Bengal the mean temperature for the week has been almost absolutely normal. In Assam for the week a defect of 0·5° has been registered.

Rainfall.—The daily rainfall has already been referred to in detail under the general description of the weather. Fairly general rain was received in Orissa on the first three or four days of the week, but during this period the rainfall in the other divisions was lighter and more local. In South-West Bengal rainfall was most general on the 13th and 14th and from the 16th to the 18th. In East Bengal rainfall principally occurred between the 14th and 17th, and in North Bengal from the 14th to the 18th. In Behar the falls have been rather less frequent, and they have generally occurred from the 16th to the 18th, and in Chutia Nagpur many falls occurred on the 12th and from the 15th to the 18th. Speaking generally, falls have occurred on about three or on three to four days in the week in all the divisions of the province. Heavy falls have also occurred at some stations, and amounts in excess of five inches in a single day have been received at Murarai in the Beerbhoom district (5·13 inches), Fenny (6·20 inches), Cox's Bazar (5·62 inches), Cooch Behar (5·16 inches), Matabhanga (5·07 inches), Debigunge (7 13 inches), Alipore Dooar (7·70 inches), Pupri (6 inches), Jhalda (5·30 inches), and Chakradharpore in the Singbhoom district (9·46 inches). Falls in a single day in excess of three and four inches have been very numerous.

The average rainfall at the various stations in Chutia Nagpur and North Bengal has been between three and three and-a-half-inches, and in South-West and East Bengal and in Behar between about two and two and-a-half inches, while in Orissa the average fall has been rather less than one and-a-half inches. These figures represent a moderate excess above the normal rainfall in Chutia Nagpur, and an almost normal fall in North Bengal and Behar; in South-West Bengal the fall is slightly in defect, and in East Bengal more largely in defect, the deficiency equalling about a fourth of the normal fall. In Orissa the defect has again been very large, as it was in the previous week, and here the fall has been less than half the usual amount for the week.

In the case of the districts in these larger divisions, all those in Orissa, and also the 24-Pergunnahs, Howrah, Hooghly, Bankoora, Chittagong Hill Tracts, Darjeeling, Purneah, Comilla, and Dacca districts have shown rather large defects throughout the week.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 18th of July 1891:—

MEMORANDUM.

Report on the Monthly Statistics of Deaths registered in forty-five districts of Bengal for the month of April 1891.

THE total number of deaths registered in forty-five districts of Bengal during the month of April 1891 amounted to 161,980, against 138,260 in April 1890, and an average of 133,312 in the corresponding months of the previous five years (1886—90). These figures yield a death-rate of 29·52, 25·08, and 24·24 per 1,000, respectively, of the aggregate population of those districts, which is 65,859,534. The death-rate of April 1891 is 5·28 higher than the mean rate of the corresponding months of the past five years 1886—90, and is also higher than the rate of the corresponding period of any of the past five years with which comparison is instituted, vide the figures below :—

	April 1886.	April 1887.	April 1888.	April 1889.	April 1890.	Monthly average of five years 1886—90.	April 1891.
Number of deaths	114,795	125,855	130,850	157,301	138,200	133,312	161,980
Ratio per mille per annum	20·88	22·80	23·76	28·56	25·08	24·24	29·52

The death-rate during April 1891, as will be seen from the following table, is less than that during the preceding month, but greater than that during the first two months of the year :—

Months.	Number of deaths.	Ratio per mille.
January 1891	143,492	26·04
February "	137,553	24·96
March "	168,185	30·60
April "	161,980	29·52

Of the total deaths, 86,954 (31·92 per 1,000 per annum) occurred among the male population and 75,026 (ratio 27·12 per 1,000 per annum) among the female. As usual the registered results were, on the whole, greater among the male than among the female population, or relatively 118 males died to every 100 females, calculated on the proportion such mortality bears to the total male and female population.

The following table shows the highest proportions of deaths registered during the month of April 1891, arranged in order of sequence and compared with the mortality of the corresponding month of 1890 :—

The maximum death-rate was recorded in Julpaiguri, 108·84 per mille per annum, and the minimum in Chumparun 12·24. Next to Julpaiguri come Purneah (96·72) and Rungpore (81·) with high death-rates. The high death-rates in these three districts are attributable to an excessive prevalence of cholera. In Julpaiguri 3,201 deaths from cholera were registered out of a total of 5,285, in Purneah 10,730 out of a total of 14,911, and in Rungpore 9,609 out of a total of 14,164. Judging by the results shown in the statement appended to this memorandum, the registration of deaths would appear to be very defective in the districts—Chumparun (12·24), Mozufferpore (13 80), Sarun (16·08), Gya (17 16), Singbhum (17·64), Durbhanga (18·00), Patna (18·12), and Tipperah (18·96), where the statistics were so imperfectly recorded that the ratio was less than 20 per 1,000 of population.

The total mortality during the month under review from the several registered death-causes is compared in the following table with the mortality from those causes in the corresponding month of 1890 and the average of the previous five years 1886—90 :—

	Ratio per mille during— April 1891.	April 1890.	Monthly average of five years 1886—90.
Cholera	8·04	3·00	3·84
Small-pox	·24	·36	·12
Fever	16·80	17·64	16·08
Dysentery and diarrhœa	·48	·60	·72
Injury	·24	·24	·24
Other causes	3·24	3·00	3·00

It will be seen that the death-rate of April 1891 under the head Cholera is considerably higher than in the two past periods with which it is compared, but as compared with April 1890 there is a slight diminution in the mortality of April 1891 under the head Fever.

Cholera caused 44,769 deaths (ratio 8·04 per mille per annum) against 26,773 (ratio 4·80) in the month previous. The disease was prevalent in all the districts, and was mostly felt in Purneah, Julpaiguri, and Rungpore where the mortality rates were 69·60, 65·88 and 54·96 per mille per annum respectively. The next highest rate occurred in Nuddea 24·60, then in Dinajpur 18·36, Bogra 14·16, Faridpore 10·92, Maldah 8·76, Bhagulpore 8·64, Murshedabad 8·16, Dacca 6·84, Pubna 6·48, Mymensing 5·76, Burdwan 5·16, Birbhum, Rajshahye and Darjiling 3·96 each, Backerganj 3·84, Jessore 3·60, Tipperah and Shahabad 3·48 each, Hughli 3·12 Midnapore 2·76, Manbhum 2·64, 24-Pergunnahs 2·52, Bankura and Serampore 2·16 each, and Khulna 2·04.

The deaths from small-pox numbered 1,926 (ratio ·24 per mille per annum) against 2,507 (ratio ·36) in the preceding month. The greatest sufferers were Midnapore 2·76, Cuttack 2·28, and Chittagong 1·20. Seven districts, viz., Birbhum, Rajshahye, Pubna, Darjiling, Bhagulpore, Maldah and Manbhum, enjoyed perfect immunity from the pest.

Fever proved fatal in 92,474 instances (ratio 16·80 per 1,000 of population per annum) and dysentery and diarrhœa in 3,078 (ratio ·48) against 110,802 (ratio 20 16) and 3,989 (ratio ·72), respectively, in the month before. Every district returned deaths from both ailments. The highest fever death-rate occurred in Julpaiguri 41·28 per mille per annum, and the lowest in Poori 5·04. Darjiling stands next to Julpaiguri with the highest fever death-rate of 39·60, followed by Dinajpur 29·28, Noakhali 26·28, Purneah and Manbhum 26·04 each, Maldah 24·12, Rungpore 23·40, Rajshahye 22·92, Bhagulpore 22·20, Pubna 21·96, Jessore 21·36 and Birbhum 20·16. Darjiling returned the highest death-rate from dysentery and diarrhœa 3·84, and the lowest ·02 occurred in Khulna. Next to Darjiling Howrah suffered most from dysentery and diarrhœa with a death-rate of 3·60 per mille, followed by Balasore 3·36 and Serampore 3·

Injury caused 1,930 deaths (ratio ·24 per mille per annum) against 1,384 (ratio ·24) in the previous month, and the deaths from all other causes not specified amounted to 17,803 (ratio 3·24 per mille per annum) against 22,730 (ratio 4·08) in preceding month. Poori returned the highest death-rate from the unspecified diseases coming under the head "Other causes," viz., 13·32 per mille per annum.

The death-rates among the five principal classes of the community, which comprise the population of the Bengal Province, viz., Mahomedans, Hindus, Other classes, Buddhists, and Christians, arranged in order from highest to lowest, compared with the mortality-rate among these classes in the corresponding month of 1890, are given in the following statement:—

	Ratio per mille during—
	April 1891.	April 1890.
Mahomedans	32·04	26·20
Hindus	28 44	25·32
Other classes	23·40	20·16
Buddhists	20·88	15·96
Christians	16·32	11·40

With regard to Age, infants (under one year), as usual, perished in the largest numbers, 179·40 per 1,000 of population per annum; next came old persons (60 years and upwards) with a death-rate of 63·48 per 1,000. The lowest death-rate occurred between the ages of 10 and under 15 years, 15·84 per 1,000.

Detailed information regarding the mortuary statistics of the forty-five districts of Bengal during the month under review will be found in the statement appended.

NOTIFICATION.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

Bombay Castle, the 24th July 1891.

No. 2637.—In exercise of the power conferred by Act I of 1870, the following Rules for Quarantine against Cholera have been made by the Government of Bombay with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council: they have effect from the 18th instant in the Ports of Aden, Perim, and the Somali Coast as a temporary measure:—

I.—The commander of every vessel, including buggalows or other native craft arriving from the Arabian Coast of the Red Sea between Tor and Cape Babelmandeb shall, before entering the harbour, indicate by signal the port from which such vessel has come.

II.—Such commander shall not, except as hereinafter provided, allow any communication either with the pilot boat, except orally, or with the shore, or with any other vessel or boat in the harbour.

III.—Immediately on arrival the commander shall cause the letter R of the Commercial Signal Code to be hoisted, and shall keep the said flag flying during his stay in port or until authorized by the Health Officer to haul it down. If communication with the shore is not desired, the vessel shall anchor at such place as may be pointed out by the Port authorities, having regard to the season of the year. If communication with the shore is desired, the Health Officer shall go alongside the vessel, and, after all necessary enquiries, shall direct the commander to take the vessel to the quarantine anchorage duly appointed and notified in that behalf by the Resident, there to remain for a period of seven days from the date of arrival, or for the shorter period prescribed in Rule IV, and undergo disinfection, which should apply as well to crew, passengers, effects, and suspectible goods.

IV.—If the Health Officer of the Port has sufficient evidence that no cases of a suspicious nature have taken place on board during the voyage, and if the vessel is, besides, in good hygienic condition, the duration of the quarantine will be diminished according to the following scale:—

After eight days of voyage	... ...	Six days of quarantine.
Do. nine ditto	... ...	Five ditto.
Do. ten ditto	... ...	Four ditto.
Do. eleven ditto	... ...	Three ditto.
Do. twelve ditto	... ...	Two ditto.
Do. thirteen ditto and upwards	...	Twenty-four hours of quarantine.

V.—If during the period a vessel is at the quarantine anchorage aforesaid any case or cases of cholera should occur on-board, the said vessel shall remain in quarantine for a period of seven days from the date of the last case occurring, and be subject to all the prohibitions provided for in Rule III.

VI.—When any vessel has been placed in quarantine as aforesaid, the Health Officer may direct the removal of so many of the passengers and crew as may not be suffering from illness, and whose services may not be required on board the vessel, to such particular spots as may from time to time be selected by the Resident as places of quarantine, there to remain for a period of seven days. If a case of cholera occurs among such passengers and crew during any such period, they shall remain in a place of quarantine for a period of fifteen days from the date of the occurrence of the last case of such illness.

VII.—Any mails or cargo which may be brought by any vessel so arriving shall be landed under such precautions as the Health Officer may deem necessary to prevent the spread of the disease.

VIII.—It will be the duty of the Port Officer to facilitate the conveyance to all vessels in quarantine of such supplies of provisions, stores, and other articles as may be required by those on board. Such supplies will be placed on the boats of the vessels in quarantine, to be subsequently removed by members of their crews.

IX.—All vessels arriving at Aden, Perim, and the Somali Coast, which may have communicated with vessels coming from the Arabian Coast of the Red Sea between Tor and Cape Babelmandeb shall be subjected to the same quarantine as vessels arriving at Aden, Perim, and the Somali Coast from the Arabian Coast of the Red Sea between Tor and Cape Babelmandeb.

X.—All vessels which have undergone quarantine in the manner above prescribed should have the fact clearly stated on their bills-of-health.

J. M. McNEILE, Col., R.E.,
Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

Rules for the Medical Inspection of Vessels at the Port of Chittagong.

Rule I.—The master of every in-coming vessel, on board of which there is either among the passengers or crew any case of cholera, small-pox, measles, or other epidemic disease common in India, or of diptheria, or scarlatina, or if two or more deaths from unknown or suspicious causes have occurred on the voyage, shall report such case or cases to the pilot or other boarding officer at the first opportunity, and shall hoist a signal, which shall be during the day Flag R of the Commercial Code at the main, and during night two white lights, one over the other, at the fore, and the pilot or other boarding officer shall at once report the occurrence of the disease or death to the Port Officer.

Rule II.—The Port Officer on receiving information that a vessel having small-pox on board has reached Juldiha shall at once communicate the information to the Health Officer of the Port and the District Superintendent of Police, with a view to obtain the services of vaccinators with a supply of lymph in sufficient time to commence the necessary vaccine operation immediately after the ship's arrival, and to obtain the assistance of the police for removing cases of small-pox on the ship's arrival to hospital.

Rule III.—The District Superintendent of Police, as early as possible after receipt of this information, shall instruct the Port Police Constable to place himself in communication with the Health Officer of the Port to receive such instruction as that officer may consider to be necessary for the efficient operation of these rules, and for the removal of the sick to hospital.

Rule IV.—The Health Officer, as early as possible after the arrival of the vessel in port, shall inspect it, and more especially its sanitary condition, shall enquire into the circumstances attending the case or cases of the said disease, shall arrange for the conveyance of all persons suffering from such disease to a hospital, unless such person, if suffering from a disease other than small-pox, or his friends, can make adequate provision elsewhere, and shall also arrange for the disposal of the dead, if any, if the friends are not able to make suitable arrangements or are unwilling to carry them out.

Rule V.—Where the disease or diseases in question, other than small-pox, is or are limited to one or two cases, the vessel shall not be prohibited from taking up the usual place of anchorage in the port, nor shall the passengers be detained on board pending the inspection of the Health Officer; but the master of the vessel shall be held responsible that no passenger suspected of having such disease is allowed to depart before this inspection.

Rule VI.—Where cases other than small-pox have been more numerous than two, or when from their occurring on a pilgrim or emigrant ship, or for other special reasons, further precaution may be deemed advisable, the vessel shall anchor at Juldiha, and none of the passengers shall be allowed to leave until the Health Officer has made his inspection.

Rule VII.—In case of small-pox (even on the occurrence of one case only) the vessel shall anchor at Juldiha, and none of the passengers or crew shall be allowed to leave until the Health Officer of the Port has made his inspection and given permission. It shall be the duty of the Health Officer of the Port to vaccinate or have vaccinated all persons who appear to require this protection and are willing to accept it, and to arrange with the police for the removal to hospital of all affected persons after their bodies have been anointed with carbolised oil or other disinfectant.

Rule VIII.—Vessels coming under these last two rules shall be thoroughly cleansed and disinfected in the manner provided by the rules made under the Indian Ports Act, 1889.

And whereas persons licensed under section 9 of the said Act have in divers parts of British India, through ignorance of the law, permitted marriages to be solemnized in their presence under the said Part between persons of whom one is a Native Christian and the other is not a Native Christian;

And whereas it is expedient that such marriages, having been solemnized in good faith, should be validated;

It is hereby enacted as follows:

4. Certificates of marriages which are declared by the last foregoing section to be good and valid in law and register-books, and certified copies of true and duly authenticated extracts therefrom, deposited in compliance with the law for the time being in force, in so far as the register-books and extracts relate to such marriages as aforesaid, shall be received as evidence of such marriages as if such marriages had been solemnized between persons of whom both were Native Christians.

Application of Act to marriages under Act V of 1865.

REPORT ON THE LEGAL AFFAIRS OF THE GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1890-91.

No. 2928J.

RESOLUTION.

JUDICIAL.

Dated Yacht "Rhotas," the 23rd July 1891.

READ—

The Report on the Legal Affairs of the Government of Bengal for the year 1890-91.

Read also—

The Reports for the two preceding years, and the orders of Government thereon.

Out of 4 appeal cases pending before the Privy Council at the close of the year 1889-90, only one was decided, the decision being against the Durbhunga Municipality as the respondent. One case was remanded to the first court for trial. No fresh appeal was instituted before the Privy Council during 1890-91.

2. The following statement shows the result of Government litigation in all the Civil Courts during the year 1890-91 as compared with the two previous years:—

	Original cases.			Appeals. Before High Court.			Appeals. Before Lower Courts.			Total
	1888-89.	1889-90.	1890-91.	1888-89.	1889-90.	1890-91.	1888-89.	1889-90.	1890-91.	1888-89.	1889-90.	1890-91.
Decided in favour of Government	280	254	243	23	50	23	26	44	45	338	348	311
Decided against Government	136	51	65	...	1	3	19	6	7	155	58	75
Compromised, remanded or withdrawn	55	39	57	...	5	1	2	4	1	57	48	59
Percentage in favour of Government (omitting fractions)	69	83	79	100	98	88	58	88	87	69	86	81

3. Taking the litigation in the High Court only, the percentage of cases decided in favour of Government decreased from 98 to 88. No explanation is given for this decrease. Of the three cases shown as decided against Government, two were for chur lands lying on the shores of the Bay of Bengal in the district of Backergunge. The question involved in the third case was concerning the currency of the settlement with a certain estate in Cuttack. In the Lower Appellate Courts the percentage of cases decided in favour of Government was 87 as against 88 in the previous year. There was only one important case decided against Government, in which the question at issue was the liability of the Eastern Bengal State Railway for silver coins and notes alleged to have been stolen in transit. The matter is now before the High Court on second appeal. The result of Government litigation in the Courts of First Instance was not favourable, there being a falling off in the proportion of cases decided in favour of Government from 83 to 79. Of the 65 cases decided against Government, 32 were land acquisition cases, in which the Collector's awards were slightly varied by the Judges on reference. Apart from these cases, the percentage in favour of Government would be 77 against 82 in 1889-90 and 65 in 1888-89.

4. The subjoined table shows the result of the litigation in which the Court of Wards was concerned in 1890-91 as compared with the two previous years:—

	Original cases.			Appeals. Before High Court.			Appeals. Before Lower Courts.			Total.
	1888-89.	1889-90.	1890-91.	1888-89.	1889-90.	1890-91.	1888-89.	1889-90.	1890-91.	1888-89.	1889-90.	1890-91.
In favour of Court of Wards	745	514	628	11	14	15	62	56	68	818	584	711
Against Court of Wards	82	40	75	4	...	6	24	13	16	110	62	97
Compromised, remanded or withdrawn	33	42	21	..	2	3	10	10	6	43	54	30
Percentage in favour of Court of Wards (omitting fractions.)	90	91	89	73	100	71	72	81	81	88	90	88

The increase in the litigation is more apparent than real. It is explained that, as there was a considerable arrear at the close of 1889-90, the courts decided a greater number of cases in 1890-91 than in the preceding year. Of the six cases in the High Court decided adversely to the Court of Wards, only one calls for notice, viz., that in which the childless widow of a Midnapur zemindar, before making the adoption of the minor, had borrowed a sum of Rs. 20,000 at 18 per cent. compound interest, with half-yearly rests. A demand of Rs. 58,652 was subsequently made against the estate, but as the widow denied that she had any knowledge of the terms of the loan, the demand was resisted by the Court of Wards. The Subordinate Judge who heard the case gave a decision for the plaintiffs, which was, on appeal, confirmed by the High Court, though as the Legal Remembrancer points out, in another case of the same nature the Court had refused to allow, as against the minor's estate, higher interest than 12 per cent., the judgment being upheld by the Privy Council (I. L. R. XVIII Cal.,. 315). In 14 out of the 16 unsuccessful appeals in the Lower Appellate Courts, and in 70 out of the 75 original suits shown as decided against the Court of Wards, no reference was made to the Legal Remembrancer. It is explained that these were chiefly rent suits or settlement appeals, or suits for recovery of arrears of rent or dâk cess or bond debts. Out of the 628 original suits shown as decided in favour of the Court of Wards, upwards of 400 appear to have been instituted by the Managers on their own responsibility.

5. The following table shows the amount of Government decrees recovered during 1890-91 as compared with the two previous years:—

	1888-89.	1889-90.	1890-91.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Amount under realization	67,540	55,247	61,231
Realized during the year	30,281	11,659	14,790
Percentage of recovery	$44\frac{5}{6}$	$21\frac{1}{9}$	$24\frac{3}{20}$

The realizations during the year show a slight improvement as compared with the previous year, but are still far from satisfactory. Nearly Rs. 5,000 were remitted during the year. The largest outstanding balances are due from Bankoora (Rs. 5,999), Tipperah (Rs. 4,607), Chittagong (Rs. 2,562) and Balasore (Rs. 6,935).

6. The following figures show the amount of Wards' decrees recovered during the year as compared with the two previous years:—

		1888-89.	1889-90.	1890-91.
		Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Amount under realization	...	13,94,090	11,74,880	11,92,016
Realized during the year	...	2,68,027	2,15,720	1,54,504
Percentage of recovery	...	19¼	18⅓	13

The percentage of recovery shows a serious falling off from 18½ to 13 which will be brought to the notice of the Board of Revenue through the Revenue Department. There was a large outstanding balance at the close of the last official year on account of the Nurhan Estate in the Durbhunga district. It is said that the Manager has not submitted his annual statement, although he has been repeatedly asked for it. The Revenue Department will be requested to take such notice of his conduct as may be deemed proper. The marginally noted estates show the balances specified against each. Out of the amount due from the Burdwan Raj Estate upwards of Rs. 40,000 are barred by limitation, and will have to be written off. In a great many cases the debtors are said to have no property.

	Rs.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last ten years. The variations are negative when the mean for the week is less than the corresponding normal mean, and positive when greater.

The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being presented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The numbers denoting cloud amount represent the part of the sky covered, the whole sky being denoted by 10. Under the head District observations of rainfall the normal means are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the past ten years. The means of the district are the numerical average of the rainfall returns received in the district, i.e., from total rainfall at the subdivisional stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least a tenth of an inch fell.

Explanation.—..... indicate that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 28*th July* 1891.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING SATURDAY, THE 25TH OF JULY 1891.

At the close of the previous week ordinary monsoon weather prevailed in all districts, and light to moderate rain was general in all divisions except Orissa, where it was rather local. On the 19th, or the first day of the present week, pressure had fallen by moderate amounts over the whole province, the fall being largest in parts of South-West Bengal and in Orissa, and a feeble low-pressure area was formed over the north-west angle of the Bay with the lowest pressure at Saugor Island. Winds also showed a distinct tendency to circulate cyclonically round a centre near Saugor Island. Light rainfall only was reported on this day, and was confined almost entirely to Orissa, South-West Bengal, and Chutia Nagpur, the remainder of the province being almost rainless. On the 20th pressure had again fallen by small amounts, the fall being largest in South-West Bengal and Behar, and the area of lowest pressure had advanced to Balasore, while winds again showed a feeble cyclonic circulation round a centre between Balasore and Midnapore. Again the rainfall, which was only light to moderate in amount, was practically confined to the area affected by the slight depression, that is, to Orissa, South-West Bengal, and Chutia Nagpur, the remainder of the province being almost rainless. On the 21st pressure had risen moderately over the whole province, the increase being largest over the area previously occupied by the feeble depression in South-West Bengal, which with its attendant feeble cyclonic circulation of winds had practically disappeared on this day. Again on the 21st light showers only were reported in parts of South-West, East and North Bengal, and in Chutia Nagpur, while the remainder of the province was practically rainless. On the 22nd pressure had fallen at Calcutta, Saugor Island, and a few other stations, while over the province generally pressure was rising, and thus pressure was in defect of the normal over parts of South-West Bengal and Orissa by 0·03″ to 0·05,″ while over the greater part of the province it was in excess. The low-pressure area near the north-west angle of the Bay had therefore on this day again reproduced itself, and winds as before commenced to show a tendency to cyclonic circulation round this area, though the wind force was light. On the 22nd moderate rain was reported in Assam and at some of the stations in North Bengal, while light and local rain had fallen in South Bengal, but elsewhere it was almost rainless. On the 23rd pressure had risen by moderate amounts in all districts except part of the south-west of the province. Pressure therefore remained below the normal in South-West Bengal, particularly over the area represented by Balasore, Midnapore, Saugor Island, and False Point, and the low pressure over this area was a little more marked than on the previous day. The cyclonic wind circulation in connection with the low-pressure area continued, but winds were still light. Rainfall on this day was a little irregular, and it was general in Assam and in South-West, East and North Bengal, while a few scattered showers only fell in Orissa and Behar; Chutia Nagpur being almost rainless. On the 24th pressure had fallen by about one or two-hundredths of an inch, and the feeble low-pressure area in South-West Bengal and over the north-west angle of the Bay became, if anything, a little more marked than it had been. The feeble cyclonic circulation of winds continued, the centre of the circulation on the 24th being between Calcutta, Midnapore, and Saugor Island; but winds were still only light to moderate in force. General rain was reported from all districts except parts of Orissa and Behar, and conditions on the 24th appeared to be more favourable generally for rainfall. On the morning of the 25th very rapid meteorological changes had occurred. The feeble depression over South-West Bengal and part of the north-west angle of the Bay, accompanied by the distinct cyclonic circulation of winds which had existed for the whole of the week except on the 21st, developed suddenly and rather rapidly, and on the 25th a very definite and rather influential barometric depression had been produced, the centre of which was over the Sunderbuns to the east of Saugor Island. The fall of pressure at Saugor Island and Calcutta equalled about 0·13,″ and the very low pressure of 29·35″ was reported from Saugor Island, which was no less than 0·172″ below the normal. The cyclonic circulation of winds had become very complete, and the wind directions over the greater part of the province were included in this circulation, while wind velocities ran up very rapidly, and strong winds were reported on the morning of the 25th at many stations, while over the northern part of the Bay on this day very squally weather and very strong winds obtained. In consequence of the existence of this storm and of the bad weather in the Bay, the "Cautionary" storm signals were hoisted at the signal stations in the river and in the port of Calcutta. Rainfall on the 25th was reported generally over the whole province, and at some stations, particularly in Orissa, where most stations registered falls in excess of two and three inches, decidedly heavy falls were received. Conditions therefore were very decidedly disturbed at the end of the week, and with the inland advance of the small storm in a north-westerly direction, such as usually happens at this season of the year, conditions would become favourable for general and rather heavy rain over the province. For the week under review, however, the general conditions have only been of light monsoon character except perhaps in Orissa, where heavy rain fell at the end of the week.

Pressure—Has been low almost throughout the week over the south-western districts of the province, and at such stations as Saugor Island, Balasore, Midnapore, and False Point, the mean pressure has been in defect of the normal by about 0·06″ to 0·07.″

From this centre of comparatively low pressure, the defects gradually decrease in amount towards the north and east of the province, and at the northern stations the mean pressure has been almost normal, while at some in North Bengal even a slight excess has been registered. For the whole province of Bengal the defect has equalled about 0·02″ or 0 03.″ In Assam a mean defect of 0·013″ has been registered.

Temperature.—Owing to the comparative lightness of the rainfall, the mean temperature of the province of Bengal has been nearly a degree in excess of the normal. The largest excess temperatures have been registered in Chutia Nagpur and South Behar, where they equal from one and-a-half to two degrees; while, on the other hand, in Orissa temperature has been almost normal. In Assam a defect of 0·3″ has been registered.

Rainfall—Has been received on from three to four days in the week in Orissa, Chutia Nagpur, and South-West and East Bengal, and on about two days over the remainder of the province. On the whole, rainfall has been distinctly less frequent than it should have been in normal years by perhaps about one-fourth of the usual number of days. The falls have also in all districts except Orissa been lighter than usual, and the only district which has received a fall in excess of the normal amount has been Orissa. In this district the average rainfall for the week has equalled 4·05 inches, which is about 26 per cent. in excess of the normal. It will, however, be remembered that up to this time the defects in Orissa have been extremely large, and from the 15th of May up to the date of this report the rainfall in Orissa has been about 9 inches in defect of the normal, or the actual fall has been little more than three-fifths the usual amount. The average divisional falls in South-West, East and North Bengal, in South Behar, and in Chutia Nagpur, have been from one to about one and-a-half inches, representing defects of from one to two inches; so that the falls generally have been considerably less than half the normal amounts. The defect in North Behar, however, is still larger than this, for the average fall is only 0·45 inch, or about one-sixth of the usual amount. The rainfall of the week has been therefore on the whole very largely below the normal amount, though, on the other hand, the number of rainy days has been in moderate defect only; so that the defect is mainly due to the unusual lightness of the showers rather than to the absence of showers.

Taking up the case of the smaller districts, the following districts have received largely defective rainfalls:—Beerbhoom and West Burdwan, Moorshedabad, Chittagong, Chittagong Hill Tracts, Backergunge, Furreedpore, Dacca, Mymensingh, Bogra, Pubna, Dinagepore, Purneah, Mozufferpore, Durbhanga, Sarun, Chumparun, Shahabad, and Patna; while North Bhagulpore, as represented by such stations as Soopool, Protapgunge, and Muddapore, has been almost rainless.

In Assam during the week Silchar has received 3·03 inches, Sibsagar 1·82 inches, and Dhubri only 0·26 inch of rain.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 25th of July 1891:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o, overcast; g, gloomy; d, drizzling rain; p, passing temporary showers; t, thunder; ⌂, dew.

Certificates not to be granted when former are cancelled.

6. A Colonial Certificate of Competency shall not be granted to any person who may have had a certificate, whether granted by the Board of Trade or by the Authority of a British Possession, cancelled or suspended under the provisions of the said Acts or of any Act or Ordinance for the time being in force in any part of Her Majesty's dominions, unless—

(i) in accordance with Regulation No. 7;

(ii) or the same is a Certificate of a lower grade than the one so cancelled or suspended, and is issued upon the recommendation of the Court or Authority which cancelled or suspended the original Certificate;

(iii) or the period of suspension has expired;

(iv) or intimation has been received from the Board of Trade or the Authority by whom the cancelled or suspended Certificate was originally granted, to the effect that no objection to the grant of such Colonial Certificate is known to exist.

Before a Certificate is returned in accordance with sub-section (iii), any Certificate which may have been granted temporarily or pending the suspension must be delivered up, and it shall be returned to the authority by whom it was granted.

Colonial Certificates of Competency granted contrary to this regulation shall be regarded as improperly granted.

Certificates which may be granted after a Certificate has been cancelled or suspended.

7. (1) It shall be lawful for the Governor or person administering the government of the British Possession in which a Certificate has been cancelled or suspended if, after full investigation of all the circumstances, he thinks the justice of the case requires it ;

(a) If the Certificate was granted in the Colony, to return the Certificate which has been cancelled or suspended, or to shorten the time for which it is suspended, or to grant or request the Authority of the Possession to grant a Certificate of the same or any lower grade in place of the Certificate which has been cancelled or suspended.

(b) If the cancelled or suspended Certificate was granted by the Authority of another Colony, to request such Authority to return the Certificate which has been cancelled or suspended, or to shorten the time for which it is suspended, or to grant a Certificate of the same or any lower grade in place of the Certificate which has been cancelled or suspended.

(c) If in the opinion of such Governor or person administering the government of the British Possession the justice of the case requires the issue of a Colonial Certificate without delay to the person whose Certificate has been cancelled or suspended, the Governor or person administering the government aforesaid (in addition to acting upon sub-section b. of this regulation), to issue or request the Authority in such British Possession to issue a Certificate of the same or any lower grade in place of the Certificate which has been cancelled or suspended, which substituted Certificate is to be in force for such limited period as such Governor or person administering as aforesaid shall in that behalf direct and no longer.

(d) If the cancelled or suspended Certificate was granted by the Board of Trade, to issue or request the authority of the Possession to issue a Colonial Certificate of the same or any lower grade in place of the cancelled or suspended Certificate, and such substituted Certificate is to be in force for such limited period as such Governor or person administering as aforesaid shall in that behalf direct and no longer; and the Governor or person aforesaid shall also cause the Board of Trade to be informed of his act.

(3) Whenever the Authority by whom a cancelled or suspended Certificate was originally issued is requested by the Governor or person administering the government of a British Possession in accordance with Section (1) of this Regulation, or by the Board of Trade, in accordance with Section (2) of this Regulation, to return any Certificate which has been cancelled or suspended, or to shorten the time for which it is suspended, or to issue a Certificate of the same or any lower grade in place of any Certificate which has been so cancelled or suspended, the Authority so requested as aforesaid shall forthwith return any Certificate which has been cancelled or suspended, or shorten the time for which it was suspended, or issue a Certificate accordingly (as the case may be).

(4) In all cases in which the powers given by this regulation are exercised, a report of the case shall be sent by the Governor or person administering the Possession in which the powers are exercised to the Authority by whom the cancelled or suspended Certificate was granted.

Certificates improperly granted may be cancelled without formal investigation.

8. A Colonial Certificate of Competency which appears from information subsequently acquired, or otherwise, to have been improperly granted, may (without any formal investigation, under "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1854," or the Acts amending the same) be cancelled by the Authority by which the same was granted, or by the Board of Trade in the United Kingdom; and the holder of such Certificate shall thereupon deliver it to the Board of Trade or such Authority, or as they or either of them may direct, and in default thereof shall incur a penalty not exceeding fifty pounds, which shall be recoverable in the manner in which penalties imposed by the Acts relating to Merchant Shipping are thereby made recoverable, or in such other summary proceedings as the law of any British Possession where the holder may be, may allow or permit to be brought for the recovery thereof.

Cancellation, &c., of a Certificate shall involve cancellation of all the other Certificates possessed by its Owner.

9. Every decision with respect to the cancellation or suspension of a Certificate pronounced by any Board, Court, or Tribunal under the provisions of the said Acts, shall, unless otherwise directed, extend equally to all the Colonial Certificates at the time possessed by the person in respect of whom the decision is made.

Certificates believed to be fraudulent may be demanded.

10. Any Officer of the Board of Trade, or the Registrar-General of Seamen, or any of his Officers, or a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office, or a Consular Officer, or duly appointed Shipping Officer in a British Possession, may demand the delivery to him of any Colonial Certificate of Competency which he has reason to believe has been improperly issued, or is forged, altered, cancelled, or suspended, or to which the person using it is not justly entitled, and may detain such Certificate for a reasonable period for the purpose of making inquiries respecting such issue, forgery, alteration, cancellation, suspension, or possession, and any person who, without reasonable cause, neglects or refuses to comply with such demand shall incur a penalty not exceeding twenty pounds or its equivalent in local currency, which shall be recoverable in the manner in which penalties imposed by the Acts relating to Merchant Shipping are thereby made recoverable, or in such other summary proceedings as the law of any British Possession where such person may be may allow or permit to be brought for the recovery thereof.

Suspended Certificates to be re-issued only by Colony by which originally granted.

11. Subject to these Regulations, a Colonial Certificate of Competency which has, from any cause, been cancelled or suspended, shall be renewed or re-issued only by the authority by which the same was originally granted.

Colonial Certificates, when cancelled or suspended, to be sent to the authority which granted them.

12. Whenever a Colonial Certificate is cancelled or suspended, the Board, Court, or Tribunal cancelling or suspending the same shall send to the Authority by whom the Certificate was granted a full report upon the case, together with a copy of the evidence taken therein, and also the Certificate which has been cancelled or suspended.

REPORT ON THE WORKING OF THE FIRE BRIGADE IN THE TOWN AND SUBURBS OF CALCUTTA AND IN HOWRAH DURING THE YEAR 1890-91.

No. 4879, dated Calcutta, the 24th July 1891.

From—J. LAMBERT, ESQ., C.I.E., Commissioner of Police, Calcutta,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department.

I HAVE the honour to submit, under section 30 of Act IV (B.C.) of 1883, the following report on the working of the Fire Brigade in the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta and in Howrah during the year 1890-91.

2. The Brigade was in attendance at 33 fires during the year, 8 in the Town, 18 in the Suburbs and 7 in Howrah, as compared with 36 fires in the preceding year, and the value of property destroyed was Rs. 73,434 against Rs. 4,59,800. The fires were less serious than in the previous year; and in the Town, the only fire which calls for special notice broke out on Strand Road on the 7th June 1890, when portion of a large two-storied brick-built godown containing tar, turpentine, &c., to the value of Rs. 40,000 was destroyed.

In the Suburbs the only fire of any consequence occurred in the compound of the Military Clothing Agency in Alipore, in which property of the value of Rs. 5,000 was burnt. In another small fire, which occurred in the Belliaghatta section on the 20th April 1890, three children were badly burnt, and succumbed to their injuries.

The fires in Howrah were confined to thatched and tiled huts, and call for no special remarks.

3. A memorandum of the fires, and also a statement of the receipts and expenditure of the Brigade, are enclosed. It will be seen that the sum of Rs. 657 has been expended in excess of the budget grant. This expenditure was incurred in the purchase of two new hose carts for Rs. 400, at Rs. 200 each, and in painting and making alterations to the hose cart according to new design of Messrs. Merryweather and Sons at a cost of Rs. 250-12, the balance, Rs. 6-4, is included in the item of Rs. 188, charged for the purchase, locally, of 100 feet of sample hose, which has been found to work better than rubber-lined hose.

4. During the year under review seven persons were prosecuted in the Suburbs of Calcutta under the Indian Explosives Act, IV of 1884, for the manufacture, possession, and sale of fireworks, and they were all convicted. There were no prosecutions in the Town of Calcutta.

5. No licenses for the sale of fireworks was withdrawn during the year.

Memorandum of fires in the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta and in Howrah from 1st April 1890 to 31st March 1891.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last ten years. The variations are negative when the mean for the week is less than the corresponding normal mean, and positive when greater.

The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being presented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The numbers denoting cloud amount represents the part of the sky covered, the whole sky being denoted by 10. Under the head District observations of rainfall the normal means are the numerical means or averages of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the ten years. The means of the district are the numerical average of the rainfall return received in the district, i.e., from total rainfall at the subdivisional stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least a tenth of an inch fell.

Explanation.—......indicate that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 4th August 1891.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING SATURDAY, THE 1st OF AUGUST 1891.

During a considerable part of the previous week a very feeble whirl had existed over South-West Bengal and the neighbouring parts of the Bay, but which till Saturday, the 25th, had not intensified in any way. On that day, however, a very rapid fall of pressure had taken place at Saugor Island and Calcutta, and a very distinct but small cyclonic storm was formed with its centre over the Sunderbuns to the east of Saugor Island. Wind velocities rapidly increased in connection with the storm, and a gale of wind commenced to blow at the head of the Bay. Immediately after its formation the small storm began to advance in a north-westerly direction, and on the morning of the 26th the storm was in the west of Chutia Nagpur; but as there are no meteorological observatories over that area, the precise position of its centre is doubtful. On the morning of the 26th, as the storm centre was well inland, the "cautionary" storm signal which had been hoisted in the Hooghly on the 25th was hauled down, but on the 26th and partly on the 27th a gale of wind continued to blow at the head of the Bay. On the 27th the centre of the storm was near Jubbulpore and Sutna, on the 28th it was near Jhansi, on the 29th it was to the west of Ajmere, and on the 30th the centre was apparently near Bikanir, but the storm was decidedly more feeble and was evidently filling up. During the whole of its existence the storm was accompanied by a strong cyclonic circulation of winds, and in its rear a heavy wave of moisture-laden monsoon winds spread over the whole of Northern India, and brought general rainfall to practically the whole of the Punjab and other parts of Northern India which had been up to that time almost rainless during the present monsoon.

During the passage of the small storm through the south-western districts of Bengal very heavy rain was received, and with the wave of monsoon winds which followed it, conditions remained favourable for rainfall up till the 30th, and from the 26th to the 30th rainfall was fairly general and of moderate amount in all districts The alterations of meteorological conditions from day to day in Bengal during this period do not call for any detailed remark. From the 29th, however, the conditions in the Bay began to alter. A decidedly rapid fall of pressure took place at the central stations in the east of the Bay, the fall being largest (0·103") at Diamond Island; wind also became strongly westerly in Burma and east-south-easterly at Akyab, pointing to the possible commencement of a feeble cyclonic circulation of winds, but the winds were very light. On the 30th a further rapid fall of pressure took place at the eastern stations, and winds again showed a feeble tendency to cyclonic circulation over the east of the Bay, though winds were still light, and up to this date probably no storm had formed. On the 31st pressure continued to fall generally, winds again showed rather cyclonic directions, but the circulation was decidedly incomplete, though strong winds commenced to blow at Diamond Island and the Burma stations generally. The land observations on this day indicated that a distinct barometric depression had formed over the east of the Bay, but they did not show any very definite centre to this depression. It is probable, however, that a distinct cyclonic storm had formed to the north-west of Diamond Island on the 31st, but the land observations certainly did not show that it was of any great strength. On the 1st of August pressure continued to fall at Akyab and in the north of the Bay, and there was a rapid rise in Burma. The cyclonic circulation of winds became more complete, and strong winds continued to blow in Burma. A distinct cyclonic storm therefore appeared to exist on this day to the west of Akyab in perhaps about latitude 19° to 20° N. and longitude 90° to 91° E.

The storm had apparently therefore moved in a north-north-westerly direction in the twenty-four hours from the 31st to the 1st. Storm signals were accordingly hoisted on the 1st in the Hooghly and at Chittagong, indicating the existence of the storm in the north of the Bay and its probable advance in a north-westerly direction. The storm afterwards on the 2nd advanced in a north-westerly direction to the Sunderbuns, but there it changed its path and afterwards from the 2nd to the 3rd advanced due west past Saugor Island into Orissa. The history of this storm, however, subsequent to the 1st belongs to the meteorology of the following week.

From the 30th, during the formation of the storm in the Bay, winds in the west and centre of Bengal began to show indraught towards the sea area, and became therefore northerly and north-westerly. Rainfall at once commenced to decrease in amount and area, a large part of the province became practically rainless, and elsewhere rain was usually light and local. For the 31st and 1st August, therefore, little or no rain was reported in the province.

Pressure.—On the 26th pressure fell generally and rather rapidly with the advance of the cyclonic storm over the province, but for the next two or three days a brisk rise was experienced, and on the 29th pressure became above the normal generally by about a tenth of an inch. From the 30th a fall set in which continued up till the close of the week, when pressure had become below the normal by amounts which ranged from 0·03" at the western stations to 0·1" at the extreme eastern stations. These variations have more or less neutralized each other, and the mean pressure for the week at the majority of stations has not been very far removed from the normal. In most cases slight excess pressures of about 0·01" or 0·02" have been registered, not only throughout the province of Bengal, but also in Assam.

Temperature.—The variations of temperature during the week have to a great extent followed the variations in the heaviness of the rainfall, but on the whole they have been of very slight practical importance. For the whole province the mean temperature for the week has only varied from the normal by a defect of less than a tenth of a degree; but while South Behar has shown an excess of rather more than a degree, South-West Bengal and Chutia Nagpur have shown defects of rather more than half a degree. In the other divisions the temperatures have been almost normal. In Assam an excess temperature of 0·8° has been registered.

Rainfall.—As stated previously, rainfall was fairly general for the first four or five days and to a considerable extent absent on the last two days of the week. During the passage of the small cyclonic storm through the south-west of the province falls of two and-a-half inches and upwards in a single day were reported from Bhuddruck, Contai, Khatra, Gungajalghati, and Morarai. The heavy falls then extended, and on the 27th the following were some of the amounts recorded :—Cox's Bazar 7·32 inches, Darjeeling 4·18 inches, and Kalimpong 5·50 inches, while falls in excess of two and three inches were numerous. On the 28th again heavy rainfall was recorded, Satkanya receiving 5·20 inches, Chittagong 5·02 inches, Lalgola 4·05 inches, and Beauleah 3·95 inches, and again falls in excess of two inches were numerous. On the 29th the falls began to fall off in amount except at Sherpore (Mymensingh), where 11·02 inches fell, though on the 30th again falls in excess of three inches were recorded at Chas, Raghunathpur, Jamtara, Banka, Gogri, Monghyr, Beauleah (5·29 inches), Durgapore, Kandi, Serampore, Baraset, and Barrackpore Falls on the 31st and 1st August were generally light. For the whole week an average fall of four and-a-third inches has been received in East Bengal and of about two and-a-half to three and-a-half inches in all other divisions except Orissa, where an average fall of only one and-a-half inches is reported. Compared with the normal, the fall in South-West Bengal has been in slight excess, and in East and North Bengal and Behar in slight defect. In Chutia Nagpur the defect is large, and equals about a fourth of the usual fall, and in Orissa the defect is even larger and equals nearly one-half of the normal amount The number of rainy days in the week has also been about equal to the normal except in Orissa and Chutia Nagpur, where they equal about three-fourths the usual number.

In the smaller districts the following have received falls largely in defect of the normal :—All districts in Orissa, Midnapore, Chittagong Hill Tracts, Dacca, Comilla, Pubna, Julpigoree, Mymensingh, Shahabad, Gya, and Chybassa. Rather large excess falls, on the other hand, have been received in Moorshedabad, Chittagong, Backergunge, Rajshahye, Durbhunga, and Sonthal Pergunnahs.

In Assam during the week Silchar has received 3·83 inches, Sibsagar 1·08 inches, and Dhubri 0·84 inch of rain.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 1st of August 1891 :—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

MEMORANDUM.

Report on the Monthly Statistics of Deaths registered in forty-five districts of Bengal for the month of May 1891.

The total deaths registered in forty-five districts of Bengal during the month of May 1891 numbered 125,975, being less than those in the preceding month by 36,005, but greater than those of the corresponding month of the preceding year and the average of the corresponding months of the previous five years (1886—90) by 1,518 and 6,873, respectively, representing an annual death-rate of 22·92 per 1,000 of the aggregate population of those districts, which is 65,859,534. The death-rate of May 1891 is ·36 higher than the mean rate of the corresponding months of the past five years 1886—90, and is also higher than the rate of the corresponding period of any of the past five years except 1887, vide the figures below:—

	May 1886.	May 1887.	May 1888.	May 1889.	May 1890.	Monthly average of five years 1886—90.	May 1891.

Ratio per mille per annum	18 24	25·44	21·00	20·88	22·56	22·56	22·92

The mortality-rate during May 1891, as will be seen from the following table, is less than that during the past months of the year:—

Months.		Number of deaths.	Ratio per mille.
January 1891	... ...	143,492	26·04

May „	... ...	125,975	22 92

The following table shows the death-rates among the different sexes and the five principal classes of the community which comprise the population of the Bengal Province. As usual, on the whole the registered results were greater among the male than among the female population. 118 males died for every 100 females, calculated on the proportion such mortality bears to the total male and female population. Proportionally to population Mahomedans died in greater numbers than either the Hindus, Christians, or other classes, and the Buddhists suffered the least:—

	Sexes.			Classes.
	Males.	Females.	Ratio of male deaths to every 100 female deaths, calculated on the proportion such mortality bears to the total male and female population.	Christians.	Hindus.	Mahomedans.	Buddhists.	Other classes.

Ratio per mille per annum ..	24·84	21·00	118	21·96	22·56	23·64	18·36	21·00

The subjoined table shows the highest proportions of deaths registered during the month of May 1891, arranged in order of sequence and compared with the mortality of the corresponding month of 1890:—

Districts.	Ratio per mille during— May 1891.	May 1890.	Districts.	Ratio per mille during— May 1891.	May 1890.
Jalpaiguri	78·00	33·24	Bhagulpore	30 72	34·20
Purneah	65·52	23·28	Backerganj	25 80	23·28
Rungpore	48·72	19 20	Noakhali	25·56	32·64
Darjiling	47·28	59·76	Nuddea	25·32	14·16
Dinajpur	30·93	22·32	Hazaribagh	25·20	31·20

Jalpaiguri attained the highest death-rate during the month under notice (78·1 per mille per annum) and the lowest death-rate was recorded in Chumparun (12·36). The high death-rate in Jalpaiguri was due to an excessive mortality from cholera, more than half of the total deaths having occurred from that disease. Eliminating Jalpaiguri, Purneah stands next on the list with a high death-rate (65·52), followed by Rungpore (48·72) and Darjeeling (47·28). It will be seen from the statement appended to this memorandum that the death-rates in six districts ranged between 30·96 and 25·20, in twelve they were between 24·84 and 20·28, and in the remaining twenty-three below 20 per mille per annum. Registration of deaths cannot be said to be accurate in those districts which return death-rates below 20 per mille per annum.

The total mortality during the month under review from the several registered death-causes is compared in the following table with the mortality from those causes in the corresponding month of 1890 and the average of the previous five years 1886—90 :—

	Ratio per mille during—
	May 1891.	May 1890.	Monthly average of five years 1886–90.
Cholera	4·80	2·88	3·36
Small-pox	·24	·24	·12
Fever	14·04	15·84	14·16
Dysentery and diarrhœa	·48	·48	·60
Injury	·36	·36	·36
Other causes	2·64	2·52	2·52

The most noticeable points in connection with the above table are that the death-rate of May 1891 under the head Cholera is higher than in the two past periods with which it is compared, but as compared with May 1890 there is a decrease in the mortality of May 1891 under the head Fever.

The mortality from Cholera amounted to 26,810 (ratio 4·80 per mille per annum), against 44,769 (ratio 8·04) in the month before. All the districts suffered, but Purneah the most with a death-rate of 43·20 per mille per annum, then Jalpaiguri (41·40), Rungpore (25·68), Bhagulpore (10·68), Nuddea (7·80), Mymensing (5·40), Durbhunga (5·28), Dinajpur and Maldah (5·04) each, Shahabad (4·68), Sarun (4·20), Pubna (4·08), Darjiling (3·84), Backerganj (3·48), Monghyr (3·24), Rajshahye (3·), Bogra 2·76), and Dacca, Faridpur, and Southal Pergunnahs (2·04) each.

The total deaths from small-pox numbered 1,967 (ratio ·24 per mille per annum), against 1,926 (ratio ·24) in the previous month. Midnapore sufferered the most with a death-rate of 3·12 per 1,000 of population per annum, next Cuttack (1·68), then Lohardugga (1·20). Six districts were absolutely free from this disease.

Fever caused 77,357 deaths (ratio 14·04 per 1,000 per annum) against 92,474 (ratio 16·80) in the preceding month, and dysentery and diarrhœa proved fatal in 2,727 instances (ratio ·48 per mille per annum) against 3,078 (ratio ·48) in the previous month. All the districts returned deaths from both heads; but the greatest mortality-rates from fever were recorded in Jalpaiguri (34·80), Darjeeling (30·96), Dinajpur (24·24), Noakhali (22·20), Purneah (21·60), and Rungpore (20·64). Darjeeling returned the highest death-rate from dysentery and diarrhœa (7·68), followed by Howrah (3·) and Balasore (2·52).

Injury caused 2,570 deaths (ratio ·36 per mille per annum), against 1,930 (ratio ·24) in the previous month, and the mortality from all other causes not specified amounted to 14,544 (ratio 2·64 per mille per annum), against 17,803 (ratio 3·24). Poori returned the highest death-rate from the unspecified diseases coming under the head "All other causes," viz., 11·40 per mille per annum.

With regard to Age, infants (under one year) as usual perished in the largest numbers, 141·84 per 1,000 of population per annum; next came old persons (60 years and upwards) with a death-rate of 47·88 per 1,000. The lowest death-rate occurred between the ages of 10 and under 15 years, viz. 12·36 per 1,000 per annum.

Detailed information regarding the mortuary statistics of the forty-five districts of Bengal during the month under review will be found in the statement appended.

NEW ZEALAND.

SOUTH ISLAND—EAST COAST.

Intended alterations in lights—Timaru harbour.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 295 of 1891) that on 1st November 1891 the following alterations will be made in the lights of Timaru harbour, east coast of South island, New Zealand :—

(1) Timaru principal light will be a fixed white light, with a sector of green light visible through an arc of 22° or between the bearings of S.S.W. and South. It will be elevated 85 feet above the sea, and should be seen in clear weather from a distance of 14 miles.

The illuminating apparatus will be dioptric, or by lenses, of the fifth order.

The light-house will be as heretofore, 30 feet in height, constructed of wood, and painted white.

Position ; lat. 44° 23¼′ S., long. 171° 18½′ E.

(2) The light exhibited from the end of Timaru eastern breakwater will be a red light, visible seaward between the bearings of W.N.W. through West and S.E.; it will be elevated 33 feet above high water, and should be seen in clear weather from a distance of 5 miles.

(3) The light shown from the end of Timaru north mole will be a green light, visible seaward between the bearings of W.N.W. through West and S.E.; it will be elevated 16 feet above high water, and should be seen in clear weather from a distance of one mile.

NOTE.—Mariners are cautioned, that after these alterations have been carried out, on approaching Timaru, and when anchoring outside the harbour, they should keep the white light in sight. If compelled to enter the harbour, the white light must be brought to bear S.W., and be kept on that bearing until the entrance lights are seen; after which a vessel may stand to the westward to open those lights, but not so far as to enter the sector of green light, shown from the principal light-house, until within a quarter of a mile of the eastern breakwater.

The sector of green light shows over the Lyttelton wreck, and is intended as a warning to keep clear of that wreck, and of the Ninety miles beach.

Except in vessels of small tonnage, and those the masters of which are well acquainted with the harbour, the attempt to enter the harbour at night should not be made without a pilot. This warning is also rendered necessary by the fact that a vessel moored at the outer buoy is in the fairway.

ANNUAL RETURNS ON CHARITABLE DISPENSARIES IN BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1890.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—MEDICAL.

Calcutta, the 7th August 1891.

RESOLUTION No. 1684.

READ—

The Annual Returns on the Charitable Dispensaries in Bengal for the year 1890.

The Triennial Report on the Charitable Dispensaries in Bengal for the years 1887 to 1889, and the Resolution recorded upon it.

The statistics of the past year show an increase in the number of dispensaries as well as of patients treated in them. The total number of dispensaries at the close of the year was 265 against 255 in 1889, the increase being chiefly in class II—institutions managed by local bodies. Several institutions which are actually managed by local bodies are still included in class IIIB as institutions supported by subscriptions or endowments, but receiving aid from Government or local funds. Dr. Hilson drew attention to these in paragraph 12 of the last triennial report on dispensaries, and suggested that they should be transferred to local bodies. Specific proposals under this head were called for in the Resolution of 6th October 1890, reviewing the report, but the subject appears to have been lost sight of.

The total number of indoor and outdoor patients treated rose from 28,981 and 1,179,843 in 1889 to 29,660 and 1,239,850 respectively in 1890. In spite of this increase in the total number of indoor patients, the daily average fell from 1,292·305 to 1,287·626. The average daily attendance of out-patients rose from 8,440·453 to 8,841·17. The following dispensaries show a satisfactory increase in the number of indoor patients:—Gya, 595; Midnapore, 95; Chuprah, 86; Pooree, 74; Deoghur, 65; Comilla, 46; while a falling off is observed at Cuttack of 192, North Suburban Hospital 133, Purulia 92, and Motiharee 82.

Taking indoor and outdoor patients together, and comparing the Bengal statistics for 1890 with the returns of the North-Western Provinces and Assam for 1889, the last year for which figures are available, it appears that in Bengal only 17·9 per thousand of the population resorted to the dispensaries for treatment, while the proportion treated in the North-Western Provinces was 56·2 and in Assam 47·9. In his notes upon statement II, showing the number of indoor and outdoor patients, the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals presents this fact in a somewhat different form, and suggests that the smaller attendance at dispensaries may be due to the inaccessibility of many dispensaries during the rains, to the number of private practitioners at work among the people, to the operation of rule 37 of the Dispensary Manual, which authorises the Medical Officer to exercise his discretion in refusing to supply medicines free of charge in ordinary cases where the applicant is not poor, and to the smaller amount of practical surgery. Of these various causes it seems probable that the number of private practitioners and the preference of the people in all but surgical cases for the methods of the kabiraj and the hakim are really those which contribute most largely to the result; but the question is obscure and difficult, and no confident opinion can be expressed until the surgical standard of Bengal dispensaries has been raised, and more inducement has been offered to the people to come in for treatment. Dr. Hilson is mistaken in saying that in 1889 the number of indoor patients treated in Bengal exceeded the number for the North-Western Provinces. The actual figures for that year were in Bengal 28,981, and in the North-Western Provinces 51,705.

2. There was a considerable increase in the number of patients treated for malarial fever, and the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals infers from this that the year was more unhealthy than usual, an inference which is borne out by the increased mortality from fever and other diseases shown in the Annual Report of the Sanitary Commissioner. The proportion of persons suffering from fever to the total number treated in the year 1889 is incorrectly shown in the notes on statement No. III as 10·97, the correct figure being 19·2. The Lieutenant-Governor notices with satisfaction a considerable increase in the attendance of patients suffering from eye-diseases. On the other hand, the number of small-pox patients treated in the dispensaries was extraordinarily small. It appears from the Sanitary Commissioner's report that there were 12,619 deaths from small-pox in the province, but the attendance in hospitals and dispensaries for this disease was only 103; and the Lieutenant-Governor having recently visited Chittagong during an outbreak of small-pox observed that very few cases were brought for treatment to the special small-pox hospital attached to the dispensary at that station. In most cases a separate ward for the treatment of infectious diseases is provided, but it must be admitted that the aspect of these wards is not inviting.

3. The total number of major operations increased from 5,174 to 6,344. Adding to this number 235 major operation cases remaining under treatment at the close of the previous year, 5,244 cases were cured and 588 cases were relieved, while only 116 cases terminated fatally. The number of cataract cases shows a remarkable increase, from 896 to 1,686, the percentage of recovery in these cases being 80·6 as compared with 68·89 in 1889. The Inspector-General draws attention to the excellent work done at Gya by Surgeon-Major R. D. Murray, who during nine months of the year performed 838 operations, of which 571 were for cataract. In consequence of Dr. Murray's activity in practical surgery the number of indoor patients rose from 718 to 1,313, and of outdoor patients from 9,642 to 11,312, showing that the people are ready enough to take advantage of European surgical treatment when it is brought within their reach. Dr. ffrench-Mullen has also treated a large number of cataract cases at Rampore

Boalia. Notwithstanding this increase in the number of major operations, the statistics under this head for Bengal still compare unfavourably with the results obtained in the North-Western Provinces, where 17,152 major operations were performed in 1889, the last year for which returns have been issued.

4. The following table compares the different classes of patients treated during the year:—

TOTAL TREATED DURING THE YEAR.*					CLASS.					DAILY ATTENDANCE.
					a	b	c	d	e	Average number.				Ratio per cent
Year.	Men.	Women.	Children.	Total.	Europeans.	Eurasians.	Mussulmans.	Hindus.	Other classes.	Men.	Women.	Children.	Total.	Men.	Women.	[illegible]
[illegible] ...	712,002	189,980	306,842	1,208,824	697	3,135	373,006	808,959	25 027	5,739·172	1,589·243	2,384·343	9,732·758	59·17	16·33	2[illegible]
[illegible]	758,276	194,247	316,987	1,269,510	870	3,103	394,497	817,120	23,920	6,033·805	1,594·52	2,500·471	10,128·796	59·57	15 74	2[illegible]

The proportion of females and children treated is very small—a fact attributed by the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals to the insufficient arrangements at most of the dispensaries for separate treatment of the male and female patients. He will be requested, after making due enquiry to report what arrangements for the separate accommodation he would recommend. The Lieutenant-Governor conceives that more seclusion is required for female patients and for female relations attending on the sick, but proposals for the provision of such conveniences must be drawn up with strict reference to economy.

5. The total income of the dispensaries in Bengal increased from Rs. 4,73,332-15-1 to Rs. 5,07,583-2-11, and the total expenditure, including investments, from Rs. 4,37,095-3-9 to Rs. 4,74,853-15-6. The Lieutenant-Governor notices with satisfaction that the amount of subscriptions paid by native gentlemen has increased from Rs. 1,19,623 in 1889 to the creditable total of Rs. 1,45,981 in 1890. The percentage of income contributed by Government was remarkably small, being only 5·31, while in the North-Western Provinces and Assam in the year 1889 it was 51·95 and 31·96 respectively. The contribution of municipalities was 33·68 per cent. of total income as compared with 8·55 and 4·70, the figures for the North-Western Provinces and Assam respectively for 1889. The average cost of the daily diet of each patient during 1890 was 1 anna and 7·3 pies, and in 1889 it was 1 anna 7 pies, against 8 pies in the North-Western Provinces and 2 annas 4 pies in Assam. The corresponding figure for jails is only 1 anna, but the difference is sufficiently accounted for by the greater care necessary in the dieting of invalids.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of the Resolution, together with a copy of the report, be submitted to the Government of India, Home Department, for information.

Ordered also that a copy of the Resolution be forwarded to the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, and to all Commissioners of Divisions for information, and that the Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. H. RISLEY,

Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL REPORT ON EMIGRATION FROM THE PORT OF CALCUTTA TO THE BRITISH AND FOREIGN COLONIES FOR THE YEAR 1890.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT—COLONIAL EMIGRATION.

Calcutta, the 7th August 1891.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Annual Report on Emigration from the Port of Calcutta to the British and Foreign Colonies for the year 1890.

Administrative measures.

The only administrative change of any importance was the introduction by the Government of India of a new set of rules governing the provision of artificial ventilators on board of emigrant vessels. The effect of the new rules is to insist on an artificial ventilator which will be capable of supplying the between-decks with 500 cubic feet of air per adult per hour, and also of being worked either by steam or by hand. The insufficiency of the artificial ventilators with which some of the ships had been previously fitted had been strongly exemplified by the voyage of the Elbe in the year 1889 to the Dutch colony of Surinam. The vessel was fitted with a Thiers' ventilator, an apparatus dependent for its working on conditions of weather and sea, which had been found on previous voyages to have worked unsatisfactorily. The voyage on this occasion was a peculiarly stormy one, and it was necessary to keep the coolies under hatches for a considerable time, the result being much sickness and a mortality of 6·07 per cent. The Government of India have now notified, in addition to the rules above referred to, that the use of Thiers' ventilators will be proscribed after the month of October 1893. The increasing use of powerful steamers, especially those of the British India and the Anchor Line Companies, has since in several cases allowed of vessels being altogether exempted from the provisions as to artificial ventilators when travelling viâ the Suez Canal or to Mauritius. The ordinary cowl-head and shaft ventilation has in such cases been decided to be fully sufficient.

2. The following table, gathered from various parts of the Protector's Report, shows in a succinct form the number of emigrants (1) demanded by the various colonies, (2) actually collected and registered by the sub-agents working under the orders of the Agents for those colonies, (3) despatched to and received in the Calcutta depôts, (4) embarked for the colonies :—

With the exception of Mauritius, every colony called for a greater number of emigrants than in the previous year, and the two West Indian colonies Santa Lucia and Jamaica, which had not taken any coolies since 1884-85, again sent in requisitions; the total number requisitioned shows an increase of 3,881 and the number actually embarked an increase of 2,114. The number shown in the above table as embarked includes all souls, of whom 12,154 were statute adults, thus falling short of the requisition by 1,672. The explanation of the deficit is that the report is for the calendar year, while the emigration season, i.e., the period during which vessels may be despatched from Calcutta, extends for the West Indian colonies up to the 31st January, while that for Fiji begins on the 1st December and ends on the 15th July, and that for Natal and Mauritius extends throughout the year. It will be seen that the numbers which arrived in the Calcutta depôts far exceeded the colonial requisitions, and it is reported that the deficit above mentioned was almost entirely made up in the first three months of the present year. The actual despatches as compared with previous years are shown by the following figures:—

Statute adults.	Total souls.	Statute adults.	Total souls.	Statute adults.	Total souls.
6,544½	7,121	10,041½	10,947	12,154	13,061

Speaking generally, the increased numbers asked for were due to the improving prospects of the sugar industry. From the Indian point of view, the steady increase of emigration is extremely satisfactory, coupled as it has been in the year now reported on by a complete absence of any serious complaints as to the life and treatment of the coolies in the colonies.

Recruiting, registration, &c.

3. The history given by the Protector of the emigrants previous to their despatch from this country presents few noteworthy points. The most striking feature is the marked transfer of the seat of recruitment from Bengal to the North-Western Provinces and Oudh. The following statement gives the figures for the two last years:—

	1889.	1890.
From Bengal and Behar	7,818	6,646
From North-Western Provinces and Oudh ...	8,995	16,432
Total recruited ...	16,813	23,078

In the previous year (1889) the district of the 24-Pergunnahs headed the list with 3,394 registrations. Next came Shahabad with 2,630, and then Benares with 2,085. In the year under review Benares heads the list easily with 3,043; then come Ghazipur and the Oudh district of Fyzabad with 2,201 and 2,055 respectively; and after them the 24-Pergunnahs and Shahabad with 2,027 and 1,813.

Registrations, however, do not give a true indication of the sources from which the emigrants are drawn, as large numbers have previously left their homes before they register as emigrants to the colonies. The statement given by the Protector showing the native districts of the recruits brings the district of Azamgarh to the front with 2,823 emigrants, followed by Basti, Ghazipur and Balia, and by Shahabad in the fifth place only.

There is practically no clashing of interests between recruiters for colonial purposes and those who collect for Assam and Cachar, the requirements of the two classes of countries having so far been entirely distinct. Assam prefers the Bengali and aboriginal races; the colonies recruit a large majority from the ranks of Beharis and up-country men. With regard to the 24-Pergunnahs, it has always to be explained in reviewing the year's history of recruitment that the figures are entirely misleading. Out of the 2,027 emigrants registered in this district, only 10 were natives of the district. The Protector again raises the complaint that many of these 2,027 were brought down to Calcutta professedly under the free system of inland emigration, and that on arrival they were drafted to colonial depôts. The facts are beyond all doubt, but as long as the free emigration system continues it must be so, and the Lieutenant-Governor does not see any serious objection to the practise, so long as the Protector is certified that they are willing and suitable emigrants to the colonies.

Emigrants unaccounted for after registration and rejections.

4. The total failure of the Agents to account through their sub-agents for the very large number of emigrants registered at the sub-depôts who never reach the Calcutta depôts, and also the increasing proportion of rejections at those depôts, are two important matters. It is represented that the Agents are not able to visit the up-country sub-depôts in any systematic manner during the busy recruiting season, and that the sub-agents are in many cases exceedingly ignorant and too often unscrupulous; but at the same time the hardship and loss incurred by drawing people from their own villages to registering stations and then either losing sight of them altogether, or having to return them from Calcutta by a journey of several days' duration, are so obvious that it would seem well worth while to make some serious attempt to face the matter. The Lieutenant-Governor believes that a good deal might be done by the Agents visiting their sub-depôts up-country, even if they have to make considerable efforts in order to spare time from their other duties, and also by a very careful selection of sub-agents. If emigration continues to prosper and recruiting to expand, as it has done during the last year, there should be little difficulty in attracting a superior class of men to do the work. If nothing can be done in the direction above indicated, there remains the course proposed by the Protector to require a register of all coolies accommodated at each sub depôt to be kept up in proper form under the supervision of the Magistrate of the district. The Protector is desired to give the matter his further consideration, and to report fully on the necessity of the latter course. In explanation of the above remarks the figures may here be noted: Out of the 23,078 emigrants registered, no less than 4,753 never reached the Calcutta depôts and were totally unaccounted for; while out of the 19,336 who were accommodated in the depôts, as many as 1,830 or a percentage of 9·46 were rejected as unfit to be sent to the colonies. The above figure, 19,336, includes 1,272 persons transferred from other depôts, remaining from the previous year and born in depôts.

Depôt management.

5. The Lieutenant-Governor has read with pleasure the report of the Medical Inspector, Surgeon-Major J. F. P. McConnell, on the health and good management of the depôts. There was a slight increase in the percentage of hospital admissions from 6·12 in 1889 to 6·13 in 1890, but on the other hand the percentage of deaths decreased from 0·72 to 0·68. These figures are satisfactory when it is considered that during a great part of the season the depôts were largely occupied. There were 26 cases and 18 deaths from cholera, as against 13 and 9 in the preceding year, the increase being due to the greater prevalence of the disease in and around Calcutta. Measles as usual gave considerable trouble both in depôt and on ship-board. The question of increasing the number of days during which emigrants must be detained in depôt previous to embarkation was again before Government, but it was decided not to alter the present minimum of seven days or the Protector's discretion to let emigrants sail, if necessary, without undergoing even that period.

Return emigrants.

6. Seven sailing ships and five steamers returned from the colonies bringing 4,739 homeward-bound emigrants, of whom 112, or 2·36 per cent., died on the voyage. The aggregate savings of these people amounted to no less than Rs. 6,96,176, or nearly Rs. 147 per head. It is observed that by far the lowest average per head is saved in the colonies of Fiji and Mauritius. No explanation of this is given, nor is it apparent in the case of Fiji. In the case of Mauritius it appears to be connected with the low rate of wages given, viz. Rs 5 to Rs. 7 per month to a male adult and Rs. 3 to Rs. 4 to a female, in addition to daily rations, as against the other colonies, where the rate is about one shilling a day to an adult male and 8 or 9 pence to a female. Natal shows the largest average savings, namely Rs. 263-3-5 per head, and is followed by Trinidad with Rs. 236-11-6 per head.

The average duration of the voyage of return ships from the West Indies was 137 days, as against 92 days on the outward voyage from India. The question of extra provisioning for homeward-bound ships in addition to the scale provided by the emigration rules for ships bound to the West Indies is under the consideration of the Supreme Government, both as regards sailing ships and steamers.

Administration of estates.

7. The estates of deceased emigrants are divided into three classes—(1) those who die in depôt and on the outward voyage, (2) those who die in the colonies, (3) those who die on the voyage home or in depôt immediately on arrival in Calcutta and before being sent to their homes up-country.

If the heirs cannot be traced, the estates of classes (1) and (3) lapse to the Indian Government; those of class (2) to the Colonial Governments. The progress of administration of classes (1) and (3) has been very fair during the year under report. Ninety-one such estates were under administration, amounting to Rs. 14,230, of which Rs. 11,435 were disposed of, leaving Rs. 2,795 still under enquiry. In the case of 20 estates, amounting to Rs. 261, the heirs could not be traced, and this amount therefore lapsed to the Indian Government.

The administration of class (2) was not so satisfactory. Out of 431 estates, aggregating Rs. 59,160, no less than Rs. 43,269 remained undisposed of at the close of the year. Great delay is caused by the necessity of having to correspond with the colonies, and the delay is finally aggravated in the case of several colonies by a refusal to pay to heirs, where traced, except on succession certificates. The Lieutenant-Governor recognizes the desirability of proper enquiries before the assets of an estate are handed over, but in his opinion the Protector is capable of making such enquiries, and it is unnecessary to insist on the production of the decision of a court, in the obtaining of which there is sure to be a considerable amount of delay. It appears from the report that the Colonial Governments undertook a few years ago to arrange for more prompt payments, but that the arrangements fell through. The Protector is desired to consult the Agents and report fully on the subject of the delays generally and the succession certificate question in particular.

Finance.

8. Owing to the impetus which recruitment received there has been a marked improvement in the financial position of the Colonial Emigration Fund, and the Protector reports that there was at the close of the year a balance of Rs. 8,384-6-3, from which relief can, if necessary, be given to the Madras portion of the Fund. The Lieutenant-Governor will consider this question and pass orders thereon.

9. From the above summary it will be seen that the year 1890 was in every way a successful one for colonial emigration; and in recognizing the fact the Lieutenant-Governor desires to express his thanks to those officers to whom in no small degree the result was due, namely to the Protector of Emigrants, Surgeon-Major D. W. D. Comins; to the Medical Inspectors, and to the Emigration Agents for the respective Colonial Governments. Dr. Comins is at present, at the request of some of the colonies, visiting the West Indies with a view to becoming personally acquainted with the condition and treatment of the emigrants in their adopted homes. He has already visited St. Lucia, Trinidad, and Demerara, and will, it is hoped, extend his visit to the remaining British colonies, and by permission of the Governments of France and the Netherlands to the French colonies and to Surinam.

Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

The numbers ...ding cloud amount represents the part of the sky covered, the whole sky being denoted by 10. Under the head District observations of rainfall the normal means are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the ... years. CALCUTTA, the 11*th August* 1891.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING SATURDAY, THE 8TH OF AUGUST 1891.

On the 31st of July a cyclonic storm of considerable intensity had formed in the Bay of Bengal to the north-west of Diamond Island, and it then commenced to move in a north-westerly or north-north-westerly direction. On the 1st of August the storm was to the west of Akyab in perhaps latitude 19° to 20° N,. and longitude 90° to 91° E. It was giving very heavy weather in the Bay, and strong winds were reported to the east and south of the storm, and hence storm-warning signals were hoisted in the Hooghly and at Chittagong from the morning of the 1st. On the morning of the 2nd, or the first day of the week under review, the storm centre was nearly over the Sunderbuns between Chittagong and Saugor Island, and it had therefore again advanced in a north-westerly direction. It here suddenly changed the direction of its advance, and during the second moved along the face of the Sunderbuns in a due westerly direction, and it passed close to Saugor Island between 8 P.M. of the 2nd and 2 A.M. of the 3rd, passing apparently a little to the south of it, and during the passage the very low pressure of less than 29·3 inches was recorded. At 8 A.M. of the 3rd the centre had crossed the coast and was to the west of Balasore, where pressure equalled only 29 293 inches. The storm as it passed over the land was not a very severe one, giving only an ordinary gale of wind, but from reports received from vessels involved in the storm, it appears to have been a decidedly fierce one at sea. On the morning of the 3rd, as the storm centre was well inland, the storm signals which had previously been hoisted were lowered. On the 4th the storm centre was probably in the west of Chutia Nagpur, though, as there are no meteorological observatories over this area, its exact position is difficult to determine; but it is clear that the westerly movement of the 2nd to the 3rd had again been changed into a north-westerly movement, or to the movement it originally had on the 31st to the 2nd. On the morning of the 5th the centre of the small storm was near Sutna, so that it had again advanced in a north-westerly direction, but on this day it appears to have rapidly filled up, and on the morning of the 6th it had practically ceased to exist

In the passage of the small storm across the head of the Bay, and in its north-westerly advance through the extreme south-western districts of Bengal, rather heavy rain was brought up, first by the storm itself and afterwards by the strong advance of monsoon winds which followed in its rear. The heavy rain was, however, mainly confined to the western and southern divisions of the province, for East and North Bengal during this period received only light and local rain.

From the 5th, however, conditions again began to change at the head of the Bay, and pressure became comparatively low at Saugor Island and Balasore, and showed a distinct tendency to form a feeble depression over this area, while round a centre to the west of Saugor Island winds showed a decided tendency to set up a cyclonic circulation. On the 6th a distinct but exceedingly feeble depression existed, partly over the north-west angle of the Bay and partly over South-West Bengal, and the cyclonic circulation became a little more clearly defined. On the 7th conditions were almost the same except that the centre of the circulation of winds was to the south of Saugor Island, and that heavy rain had commenced to fall at that station. The small whirl or depression then commenced to advance in a north-westerly direction, and on the morning of the 8th it was in the south of Chutia Nagpur. During its existence at the head of the Bay it was throughout a very feeble depression.

During the second half of the week, therefore, conditions have again been favourable for rainfall in the southern and western divisions of the province, and hence Orissa and Chutia Nagpur have received falls in excess of the normal; in South-West Bengal and South Behar the falls have been almost normal, but over the remainder of the province rainfall has been in decided defect.

Pressure.—The variations of pressure during the week have been to a great extent dependent, first, on the movement of the cyclonic storm which passed along the head of the Bay through the south-western districts, and secondly, on the development of the feeble whirl near Saugor Island. Thus on the 2nd pressure was falling moderately in South-West Bengal and Orissa, while elsewhere there was a moderate increase. On the 3rd a very rapid fall occurred in the neighbourhood of the depression and over Chutia Nagpur and Behar, the fall at Balasore being 0·146", and the pressure at that station being 0·23" below the normal, while in the east and north of the province pressure was rising. On the 4th pressure had risen over the whole province, particularly in the rear of the depression, and at Balasore an increase of 0·219" was reported. From the 5th pressure began to fall, the decrease continuing on the 6th in the southern and south-western districts in connection with the formation of the small whirl, while in North Bengal and Behar pressure was rising. On the 7th pressure changes were small and of little importance, and on the 8th pressure rose generally except at a few of the south-western stations in the neighbourhood of the depression. For the whole week, therefore, the mean pressure over the province has been considerably in defect of the normal, the defect ranging from about 0·03" to 0·04" at the northern stations to almost a tenth of an inch at Saugor Island, Balasore, Midnapore, and False Point.

Temperature.—The variations of temperature have as usual followed the variations in the amounts of rainfall. The mean temperature for the week has been decidedly (1·9°) in defect of the normal in Orissa and about normal in South-West Bengal and Chutia Nagpur, but in the other divisions there has been a general excess of about 2°. For the whole province the variation has been an excess of 1·1°. In Assam the mean temperature has been above the normal by 1·6°.

Rainfall.—In Orissa particularly heavy rain fell during the westward movement of the cyclonic storm, and on the 2nd Dharmsala, in the Cuttack district, reported 5·15 inches, Saugor Island 3·50 inches, Jagatsingpore 2·72 inches, and Sorah 2 inches; while on the 3rd the following heavy falls were received:—Garwah 8·06 inches, Kendrapara 6·21 inches, Jajpore 6·09 inches, False Point 5·39 inches, Bhuddruck 5·30 inches, Salipore 4·92 inches, Chandbali 4·90 inches, Mankur 4·70 inches, and Akhayapada 4·40 inches, while there were very numerous falls of two and three inches. For the remainder of the week the rainfall was generally lighter.

In Orissa the average fall for the week has been 5·50 inches, or more than twice the normal fall; in Chutia Nagpur the fall has averaged 3·64 inches, or about ten per cent. in excess of the normal; and in South-West Bengal and South Behar the falls have averaged about two-and-a-half inches, or falls about twenty per cent. in defect. In the other divisions the amounts of rainfall have been small; in East Bengal the fall has only equalled 1·45 inches, or about one third of the normal, in North Bengal only an average amount of 0·78 inch has been recorded, or about a fourth of the normal, and in North Behar only 0·47 inch is recorded, or a sixth of the normal fall.

In the case of the smaller districts in South-West Bengal the falls have been decidedly deficient in Moorshedabad, Nuddea, Jessore, and Khoolna; in East Bengal in Chittagong, Backergunge, Noakholly, Furreedpore, Dacca, Comilla, and Mymensingh; in all the districts of North Bengal and North Behar, and in South Behar in Patna and Sonthal Pergunnahs.

In Assam during the week Sibsagar has received 4·13 inches, Silchar 2·71 inches, and Dhubri 0·37 inch of rain.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 8th of August 1891:—

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 0·6° higher; and finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o, overcast; g, gloomy; d, drizzling rain; p, passing temporary showers; t, thunder.

NEW ZEALAND.

SOUTH ISLAND—East coast.

Intended alterations in lights—Timaru harbour.

The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 295 of 1891) that on 1st November 1891 the following alterations will be made in the lights of Timaru harbour, east coast of South island, New Zealand:—

(1) Timaru principal light will be a fixed white light, with a sector of green light visible through an arc of 22° or between the bearings of S.S.W. and South. It will be elevated 85 feet above the sea, and should be seen in clear weather from a distance of 14 miles.

The illuminating apparatus will be dioptric, or by lenses, of the fifth order.

The light-house will be as heretofore, 30 feet in height, constructed of wood, and painted white.

Position; lat. 44° 23½′ S., long. 171° 18½′ E.

(2) The light exhibited from the end of Timaru eastern breakwater will be a red light, visible seaward between the bearings of W.N.W. through West and S.E.; it will be elevated 33 feet above high water, and should be seen in clear weather from a distance of 5 miles.

(3) The light shown from the end of Timaru north mole will be a green light, visible seaward between the bearings of W.N.W. through West and S.E.; it will be elevated 16 feet above high water, and should be seen in clear weather from a distance of one mile.

Note.—Mariners are cautioned, that after these alterations have been carried out, on approaching Timaru, and when anchoring outside the harbour, they should keep the white light in sight. If compelled to enter the harbour, the white light must be brought to bear S.W., and be kept on that bearing until the entrance lights are seen; after which a vessel may stand to the westward to open those lights, but not so far as to enter the sector of green light, shown from the principal light-house, until within a quarter of a mile of the eastern breakwater.

The sector of green light shows over the Lyttelton wreck, and is intended as a warning to keep clear of that wreck, and of the Ninety miles beach.

Except in vessels of small tonnage, and those the masters of which are well acquainted with the harbour, the attempt to enter the harbour at night should not be made without a pilot. This warning is also rendered necessary by the fact that a vessel moored at the outer buoy is in the fairway.

RESOLUTION ON THE STATISTICAL RETURNS OF VACCINATION IN BENGAL FOR 1890-91 WITH BRIEF NOTES BY THE SANITARY COMMISSIONER.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—SANITATION.

Calcutta, the 13th August 1891.

RESOLUTION No. 1823.

READ—

The statistical returns of vaccination in Bengal for 1890-91 with brief notes by the Sanitary Commissioner.

Read also—

The statistical returns for 1889-90, which were incorporated with the triennial report on vaccination for 1887—90, and the Resolution recorded on it.

The statistical returns of vaccination for 1890-91 have been submitted with brief notes by Dr. W. H. Gregg, Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal, who was in charge of the department throughout the year. Under recent orders these returns should have reached Government on the 15th June, but they were not received until the 20th July. The delay is said to have been due to the difficulty of obtaining the necessary statistics from several municipalities. It is hoped that in future years arrangements will be made for the more punctual submission of municipal returns. The vaccination work carried on in municipalities is on a comparatively small scale, and the statements setting forth its results ought to be ready within a fortnight from the close of the official year.

2. The following table shows the strength of the working establishment in 1890-91 and the previous year :—

Year.	Superintendents.	Deputy Superintendents.	Inspectors.	Head vaccinators or supervisors.	Vaccinators.		Apprentices.		Remarks.
					Paid.	Licensed.	Paid.	Licensed.
1890-91	8*	14	119	15	145	1,631	14	594	* Including the Health Officer of the town of Calcutta, who is in charge of the vaccination work of the town.
1889-90	8*	14	110	21	170	1 480	31	588

The increase in the number of licensed vaccinators was caused by the extension of the licensed system in the Eastern Bengal, Behar, and Orissa circles. Four additional Inspectors were appointed in the Ranchee Circle, and the Assistant Surgeon in charge of vaccination and sanitation in the suburbs of Calcutta was replaced by a special Inspector.

3. The following table shows the total number of vaccinations performed in 1890-91 as compared with those for 1889-90 :—

		1890-91.	1889-90.
Metropolitan Circle ...	...	388,857	417,822
Darjeeling ditto ...	...	492,675	445,711

Eastern Bengal ditto ...	...	321,706	391,816
Orissa ditto ...	...	138,715	101,588
Behar ditto ...	...	239,407	170,389

Grand Total	...	1,833,978	1,805,470

4. There has been an increase of 28,508 cases in the Darjeeling, Orissa and Behar circles of vaccination, and a decrease in the Metropolitan, Ranchee and Eastern Bengal circles, as well as in municipalities and in the town of Calcutta. The Metropolitan and Eastern Bengal circles and the municipalities show a very marked falling off, the numbers being 28,965, 70,110 and 14,265 respectively. The decrease of 8,782 or 33·4 per cent. in the town of Calcutta is attributed to the large number of operations (26,280) during the small-pox epidemic of the previous year having left fewer subjects to be operated on during the year under report. In the Eastern Bengal Circle, where the ratio of decrease reaches 18·0 per cent., and corresponds closely to the reduction shown in the number of operations, the Deputy Superintendent explains that in Chittagong the number of operations fell off by 103,507—a decrease which he ascribes to the fact that the licensed vaccinators had to work in the areas which had been gone over by them in the previous year. However this may be, it is a significant fact that during the last three years vaccination in the Chittagong district shows a progressive falling off, as indicated in the following statement :—

1890-91	... ...	47,526,

and that the close of the last year in the series was marked by a serious outbreak of small-pox in the town of Chittagong, in the course of which it became apparent that the people regarded vaccination with considerable distrust. Inquiry into the recent management of vaccination in the town showed that out of 547 persons vaccinated during the year 1887-88 within Municipal limits under the immediate supervision of the Civil Surgeon, as many as 331 or 60·5 per cent. had been attacked by small-pox. In 1888-89 the proportion of attacked among those who had been vaccinated was 39·1; in the next year 31·5, and it was only in 1890-91, when the outbreak had drawn attention to the subject, that the proportion fell to 6·5 per cent. When vaccination carried on in a limited area, with exceptional facilities for constant supervision, is found to yield such defective results, it becomes difficult to believe in the accuracy of the returns of successful operations in areas where no thorough check can be applied. It is clear that in many parts of Bengal the people have a strong prejudice against the lymph that is used for vaccination, and until this prejudice has been removed by fuller experience of the benefits of vaccination, no real and continuous progress can be looked for. Distrust of the lymph seems to be the main cause which hinders the expansion of the operations of the Department, and the efforts of the Sanitary Commissioner should now be directed to the production of lymph of a sound and uniform character. This branch of the subject has hitherto not been very fully treated in the annual report. In future reports the Lieutenant-Governor would wish the Sanitary Commissioner to show more clearly what is done to secure good lymph, not only on a first distribution to the vaccinator, but as used by him eventually; what checks there are on his return of operations and of success; what reports and complaints regarding bad lymph are received, and what amount of truth is in them.

5. The percentage of successful cases, excluding cases the results of which are unknown, is returned as 99·25 for primary and 39·62 for secondary operations. The statistics of secondary operations give a successful percentage in Eastern Bengal of 83·33 and in Orissa of 94·11. Experience tends to show that it is extremely improbable that so large a ratio of success should be attained in cases of this class, and such returns cannot be accepted as trustworthy. Each licensed vaccinator performed on an average 694 operations against 733 in 1889-90, and each Government vaccinator 1,267 against 893 in the previous year, the average for the three years 1887—90 being 1,475 for Government vaccinators and 671 for licensed vaccinators. For municipal vaccinators the average fell from 405 in 1889-90 to 346 in the year under report. The proportion of males among persons vaccinated was 51·60, and of females 48·40.

6. In every circle the returns of supervision done by the Superintendents of Vaccination show an appreciable increase in the number of cases inspected. The percentage of such cases to the total number of vaccinations ranges from 29·81 in the Orissa Circle to 3·38 in the Darjeeling Circle, and ·60 in the town of Calcutta. On the other hand, five out of the fourteen Deputy Superintendents did a smaller amount of inspection than in the preceding year. The work of inspection, however, cannot be judged only by quantity, and the Sanitary Commissioner ought to satisfy himself by personal examination that these returns of villages visited and cases inspected really represent a careful examination of the work done by the licensed or salaried vaccinators, and not merely a hurried compliance with an arbitrary departmental standard of supervision.

7. Some interesting results may be arrived at by comparing the registered deaths from small-pox as shown for each district in Bengal in Statement V (b) with the diagram given on page 11, to illustrate the proportion of the population protected by vaccination during the last seven years. If the returns of successful vaccinations and the mortuary statistics were both accurate, it might be expected, as a general rule, that districts with the highest proportion of persons protected by vaccination would have the lowest death-rates from small-pox, and conversely that districts, where only a small proportion of the population is protected, would show a comparatively high small-pox mortality. Notwithstanding the admitted imperfection of both sets of figures, a distinct tendency towards some such correspondence between increased protection and reduced death-rate may be traced on the diagram referred to. The following districts returning a high vaccination rate show, with the single exception of Chittagong, a low death-rate from small-pox, thus—

Darjeeling	680	·01
Chittagong	460	·32
Backergunge	325	·03
Singbhoom	280	·18
Tipperah	278	·02
Maldah	268	·02

while the following districts, with a low ratio of protected population, have a comparatively high death-rate from small-pox:—

	Protected per 1,000 for 1884—91.	Death-rate per 1,000 for 1890-91.
Mozuffurpore	97	·20
Durbhunga	10	·10
Sarun	60	·27
Chumparun	79	·87
Gya	89	·40
Puri	127	·84
Midnapore	160	·98

It should be added that in Chittagong, the one district where the statistics appear to conflict with the tendency noticed above, recent inquiries have shown that the work of vaccination was very indifferently done during the last three years, and that the protection afforded was little better than nominal. On the whole, therefore, there seem to be statistical grounds for the conclusion that some real progress is being made, and that vaccination in Bengal, in spite of bad lymph and careless operators, does afford substantial protection from small-pox. In order to make the protection more effective and to extend its range, it seems to the Lieutenant-Governor that considerable changes must be introduced into the internal organization of the Department. Closer local supervision, and more intimate relations with the district executive, seem to be needed in order to induce the people to take more freely to vaccination; and Sir Charles Elliott doubts whether this object can be attained under a system which has all the defects of centralisation, and few, if any, of its advantages.

8. The total cost of vaccination was Rs. 1,82,400-4-3 against Rs. 1,72,696-5-9 in 1889-90, showing an increase of Rs. 9,703-14-6. The average cost of each successful case has also increased from one anna six pie in 1889-90 to one anna and seven pie in 1890-91. It was as usual highest in Calcutta, where each operation cost Re. 1-3-4, and lowest in Eastern Bengal, where the cost was only ten pie.

9. Dr. Gregg again speaks very unfavourably of the working of the animal vaccination depôt in Calcutta. The lymph supplied in tubes has frequently failed even when used immediately on receipt from the depôt, and its failure is ascribed by Dr. Gregg to carelessness in extraction and storage. This is the third time that the working of the depôt has been reported as unsatisfactory, and the Superintendent of the Metropolitan circle, who was in charge of it, has since been transferred to another appointment. The establishment of an animal vaccination depôt at Darjeeling has been under consideration for some time past, but considerable difficulty was found in obtaining a proper site. A suitable piece of land has at last been selected at the north base of Senchal. Steps are being taken to provide the necessary buildings, and it is hoped that the depôt will be got into working order during the current year.

10. In discussing the attitude of the people towards vaccination, the Sanitary Commissioner writes as if they had only now discovered that the operation is not compulsory in rural areas. He says that many members of the higher and wealthier Hindu castes habitually evade vaccination, and that everywhere there is difficulty in realising the vaccinator's fees. As a remedy for the former difficulty, Dr. Gregg proposes to extend the compulsory clauses of the Vaccination Act to rural areas; while he suggests that the latter might be got over by making a vaccinator's fees recoverable through the village panchayat like the chowkidari tax. Neither suggestion seems to the Lieutenant-Governor to be practicable nor desirable. The whole question of the organisation of the Vaccination Department is now under consideration, and Sir Charles Elliott would rather remodel it on a district or divisional basis, so as to extend the duties of the Civil Surgeon, than resort to compulsory provisions without adequate machinery to enforce them.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. H. RISLEY,

Offg. Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF JULY 1891.

The principal features in the meteorology of July have been—

1. Pressure has on the whole been in decided defect from the normal for a considerable portion of the month.

2. Temperature has been almost normal in all divisions of Bengal except South Behar, where a very distinct excess temperature has been registered.

3. The strength of the monsoon current blowing during the month, as judged by the wind velocities at the stations on and near the coast, has been decidedly above the normal of former years, and the direction of the winds appears for a considerable part of July to have been more strongly westerly than is usual, and the rain-bearing current has hence been deflected more towards Burma than is usual.

4. The number of barometric depressions or cyclonic storms forming in the Bay during July has been small. Only one depression of any importance formed at the head of the Bay on the 24th of the month and passed inland, and there was one cyclonic storm which was formed in the east of the Bay at the end of the month, but which did not reach land until August.

5. The average humidity has been practically normal during the month, while the average cloud proportion has, if anything, been rather larger than usual.

6. The average amount of rainfall in North Bengal was distinctly in excess of the normal. The falls in East Bengal, South-West Bengal, and Chutia Nagpur, were practically normal; and those in North and South Behar from 15 to 18 per cent in defect of the normal, while in Orissa the falls were very decidedly deficient, and were only three-fourths of the usual amount.

Meteorology of the month.—Up till almost the close of June the meteorological conditions in Bengal and in the Bay were very abnormal, for the monsoon rains had not set in till the 27th to the 29th of June, or at least two weeks later than usual; but after that general rain had fallen in Bengal during the last two or three days of the month. The monsoon current, however, blowing over Bengal was feeble, and on the 1st of July conditions had again changed, and the monsoon current became strongly deflected towards Burma. The feeble cyclonic circulation of winds off the Arakan coast, which had existed so long in June, was again noticed on this day, and thus the monsoon current did not pass up to head of the Bay, and for the first three days of July rainfall was light and local in Orissa and in South-West and East Bengal. The slight whirl off the Arakan coast disappeared on the 3rd, and the monsoon current then advanced up the Bay over Bengal, and general rain was again received over the province from the 4th instant. From this date up to the 10th, the changes in the meteorological conditions do not call for any detailed remark. A strong monsoon current was blowing over Bengal from the Bay, but the direction of the current was rather more westerly than usual. Moderate to heavy rain was being received, particularly during the period from the 4th to the 8th or 9th, though rainfall became generally more local and rather lighter from the 9th to the 11th or 12th, while in East Bengal, Behar, and Chutia Nagpur the slight break continued up to the 15th.

On the 11th pressure became relatively low in the north-west angle of the Bay, and round this low pressure area a distinct cyclonic circulation of winds was set up, and the winds over the whole of Bengal formed part of this circulation. Hence winds which on the 10th had been westerly and south-westerly over the whole province, suddenly became easterly and south-easterly, but the amount of rain brought up by the change of conditions was small and the falls were very local. The depression over the north-west angle of the Bay continued to exist up till the 14th, when a rapid fall of pressure took place in the north of the province, which transferred the area of lowest pressure to Behar, when winds became more southerly generally over the province. On the 15th and 16th a rapid fall of pressure took place in the south-east of Bengal, and a distinct low pressure area was formed, represented by such stations as Dacca, Mymensing, Bogra, and Berhampur, and with this distribution of pressure westerly winds commenced to drive back the easterly winds which had previously been blowing, and with the interaction between the two wind systems thus set up, rather heavy rain commenced from this date. The low pressure area just referred to filled up on the 17th, and from the 18th the pressure distribution became more normal, though conditions were still favourable for general and rather heavy rainfall.

At this time ordinary monsoon weather prevailed in all districts, and light to moderate rain was general in all divisions except Orissa, where it was rather local. On the 19th and 20th pressure had fallen by moderate amounts, the fall being largest in parts of South-West Bengal and in Orissa, and a feeble low-pressure area was again formed over the north-west angle of the Bay with the lowest pressure at Saugor Island. Winds also showed a distinct tendency to circulate cyclonically round a centre near Saugor Island. Light rainfall only was reported on these days and was confined almost entirely to Orissa, South-West Bengal, and Chutia Nagpur. On the 21st pressure had risen moderately over the whole province, the increase being largest over the area previously occupied by the feeble depression in South-West Bengal, which, with its attendant feeble cyclonic circulation of winds, had practically disappeared on this day. Again on the 21st light showers only were reported in parts of South-West, East and North Bengal, and in Chutia Nagpur, while the remainder of the province was practically rainless. On the 22nd pressure had fallen at Calcutta, Saugor Island, and a few other stations, while over the province generally pressure was rising, and the low-pressure area near the north-west angle of the Bay therefore on this day again reproduced itself, and winds as before commenced to show a tendency to cyclonic circulation round this area, though the wind force was light. On the 22nd moderate rain was reported in Assam and at some of the stations in North Bengal, while light and local rain had fallen in South Bengal, but elsewhere it was almost rainless. On the 23rd and 24th the feeble low-pressure area in South-West Bengal and over the north-west angle of the Bay became, if anything, a little more marked than it had been. The feeble cyclonic circulation of winds continued, the centre of the circulation on the 24th being between Calcutta, Midnapore, and Saugor Island; but winds were still only light to moderate in force. General rain was reported from all districts except parts of Orissa and Behar, and conditions on the 24th appeared to be more favourable generally for rainfall. On the morning of the 25th very rapid meteorological changes were reported. The feeble depression over South-West Bengal and part of the north-west angle of the Bay developed suddenly and rather rapidly, and on the 25th a very definite and rather influential barometric depression had been produced, the centre of which was over the Sunderbuns to the east of Saugor Island. The fall of pressure at Saugor Island and Calcutta equalled about 0·13," and the very low pressure of 29·35" was reported from Saugor Island, which was no less than 0 172" below the normal. The cyclonic circulation of winds had become very complete, and the wind directions over the greater part of the province were included in this circulation, while wind velocities ran up very rapidly, and strong winds were reported on the morning of the 25th at many stations, while over the northern part of the Bay on this day very squally weather existed, and a gale of wind was blowing.

Immediately after this development, the small storm began to advance in a north-westerly direction, and on the morning of the 26th the storm was in the west of Chutia Nagpur; but as there are no meteorological observatories over that area, the precise position of its centre is doubtful. On the 27th the centre of the storm was near Jubbulpur and Sutna, on the 28th it was near Jhansi, on the 29th it was to the west of Ajmere, and on the 30th the centre was apparently near Bikanir, but the storm was decidedly more feeble and was evidently filling up. During the whole of its existence the storm was accompanied by a strong cyclonic circulation of winds, and in its rear a heavy wave of moisture-laden monsoon winds spread over the whole of Northern India, and brought general rainfall to practically the whole of the Punjab and other parts of Northern India which had been up to that time almost rainless during the present monsoon season.

During the passage of the small storm through the south-western districts of Bengal, very heavy rain was received, and with the wave of monsoon winds which followed it, conditions remained favourable for rainfall up till the 30th, and from the 26th to the 30th rainfall was fairly general and of moderate amount in all districts. The alterations of meteorological conditions from day to day in Bengal during this period do not call for any detailed remark. From the 29th, however, the conditions in the Bay began to alter. A decidedly rapid fall of pressure took place at the central stations in the east of the Bay, the fall being largest (0·103") at Diamond Island; wind also became strongly westerly in Burma and east-south-easterly at Akyab, pointing to the possible commencement of a feeble cyclonic circulation of winds, but the winds were very light. On the 30th a further rapid fall of pressure took place at the eastern stations, and winds again showed a feeble tendency to cyclonic circulation over the east of the Bay, though winds were still light, and up to this date probably no storm had formed. On the 31st pressure continued to fall generally, winds again showed rather cyclonic directions, but the circulation was decidedly incomplete, though strong winds commenced to blow at Diamond Island and the Burma stations generally. The land observations on this day indicated that a distinct barometric depression had formed over the east of the Bay, but they did not show any very definite centre to this depression. It is probable, however, that a distinct cyclonic storm had formed to the north-west of Diamond Island on the 31st, but the land observations certainly did not show that it was of any great strength. This storm afterwards intensified considerably and moved first in a north-westerly, then in a westerly, and finally again in a north-westerly direction, and in its progress it skirted the Sunderbans and passed inland between Saugor Island and Balasore on the 3rd of August.

From the 30th, during the formation of the storm in the Bay, winds in the west and centre of Bengal began to show indraught towards the sea area, and became therefore northerly and north-westerly. Rainfall at once commenced to decrease in amount and area, a large part of the province became practically rainless, and elsewhere rain was usually light and local. For the 30th and 31st of July, therefore, little or no rain was reported in the province.

Strength of the monsoon.—As has been previously mentioned, the wind directions which have been recorded generally during the month have indicated that the monsoon current has contained an unusually strong westerly element in it, and hence the current has been deflected rather strongly towards Burma. Notwithstanding this, the strength of the monsoon current blowing from the Bay over Bengal this year appears to have been greater than usual. The strength of the current from year to year can at present only be judged by the wind velocities at the coast stations. In the table below are given the means of the actual daily wind velocities for July 1890 and 1891, and also a comparison of the velocities recorded in the present year with the normal values for the same period for seven representative stations on and near the coast line from Akyab to Gopalpur. It will be seen that at all the stations except Chittagong the wind velocity during July has been decidedly in excess of the normal value. This fact would therefore point to the conclusion that the strength of the monsoon has been greater than usual. It is, however, to be remarked that in this method of measurement only one element of the strength of the monsoon current is taken into consideration. for it is clear that an equally important factor in the current will be its vertical depth, and this there is at present no means of measuring. Thus though the strength of the winds near the earth's surface may have been greater this year than usual, it is probable that the depth or thickness of the monsoon current has been smaller than usual :—

Pressure.—Was at the commencement of the month decidedly below the normal for the period, and at some stations the defects even equalled a tenth of an inch. This defect continued during the second week of the month, the general mean pressure being more than a tenth of an inch in defect, and in the north of the province, defects of 0·16″ and 0·18″ were recorded at such stations as Dinagepore, Rungpore, Julpigoree, Sibsagar, and Dhubri. From about the 12th instant, however, a rapid increase of pressure set in, but this was again followed on the 14th and 15th by a fall, and for the week ending the 18th the mean pressure of the province was almost normal. In the fourth week a slight defect of about 0·02″ to 0·03″ became established, and in the last few days of the month pressure variations were large as on the 26th pressure fell rapidly with the advance of the small cyclonic storm over the province and in its rear pressure rose equally rapidly, while again at the close of the month pressure had commenced to fall with the formation of the second storm off the Pegu coast.

For the whole month the mean pressure of the province has been generally from 0·03″ to 0·05″ below the normal, and the defects are also fairly equally distributed. In Assam the mean defect was 0·053″, the defect being largest at Silchar, where it equalled 0·063″.

Temperature.—The variations of temperature during the month were of comparatively little importance, and as usual to a considerable extent followed the variations in the amounts of rainfall. The mean temperature for the month in Assam, East and South-West Bengal and Orissa was almost absolutely normal, the variation not exceeding a tenth of a degree. In North Bengal and North Behar temperature was a fifth of a degree below the normal, and in Chutia Nagpur 0·3° above it. The only division in which the variation has been large is South Behar, where an excess temperature of 1° has been registered. For the whole province the mean temperature for the month does not vary from the normal by as much as a tenth of a degree.

Rainfall.—The distribution of the rainfall throughout the month has been already referred to, and therefore the amounts compared with the normal have only to be stated. North Bengal has received an average fall of 16·45 inches, or nearly two and-a-half inches in excess of the normal, while all other divisions have received falls more or less in defect. In East Bengal the average fall has equalled 16·52 inches, or less than a tenth of an inch in defect, so that the fall has been almost absolutely normal. In Chutia Nagpur an average fall of 12·74 inches has been recorded, or considerably less than half an inch in defect, which equals only about 3 per cent. of the normal. In South-West Bengal an average fall of 11·22 inches has been registered, or about three-fourths of an inch in defect, or the deficiency has equalled about 6 per cent. of the normal. The falls in Behar have averaged from 10 to 10½ inches, which have shown a defect of roughly 2 inches, and thus the falls are from 15 per cent. in defect in South Behar to 18 per cent. in North Behar. The district receiving the smallest amount of rain has been Orissa, which has only received 9·29 inches, which is more than 3 inches in defect of the ordinary fall, and hence in this division the defect has equalled about 26 per cent. The variation in the number of rainy days has also to a great extent followed the variation in the amount of rainfall. Thus in North Bengal it has rained on more days than usual, and in all other districts the number of rainy days has been smaller than usual. As a general rule, rain has been received on from 17 to 18 days during the month in East Bengal, on about 16 days in South-West and North Bengal, and Chutia Nagpur, on about thirteen days in Behar, and on twelve days in Orissa. In the case of Orissa, South Behar, and Chutia Nagpur, rain has fallen on from two or three days less than is usual in normal years.

The comparison of the actual rainfall of the seven meteorological divisions of the province with the normal is most accurately shown in the form of a percentage. The figures representing the rainfall for the month calculated in this way are included in the table below under the heading of July. This table gives a condensed summary of the rainfall statistics of the present year up to date for each division, the first seven columns giving the actual rainfall in each month expressed as a percentage of the normal, while the eighth column shows the actual rainfall for the first seven months expressed as a percentage of the normal for the same period. It will be seen that in July the rainfall has been fairly abundant in all divisions except Orissa and Behar. In Orissa, however, the deficiency in July followed a very much larger deficiency in June, and hence is probably more important than if it had occurred alone. In Behar the moderate deficiency of July has also followed a slight deficiency in June in North Behar, and a considerable deficiency in the same month in South Behar. The deficient rainfall in July therefore in South Behar is more important than in North Behar. Taking the rainfall of the year into consideration, it will be seen that all the divisions, except Orissa, have received falls equal to or above the normal, but that Orissa has received a defective fall of 18 per cent.:—

Meteorological Divisions.	January.	February.	March.	April.	May.	June.	July.	Actual rainfall of first seven months of 1891 expressed as a percentage of the normal fall for the period.

Chutia Nagpur ...	163	91	506	30	148	47	97	100

The variations of the amount of rainfall over the province have as usual been very large, and thus in the extreme south-eastern districts falls of from 50 to 60 inches have been recorded, while in the west of Behar and part of Orissa and Chutia Nagpur falls of less than 5 inches have been received. The extreme variations are the heavy falls of 55·64 inches at Bundarbun (Chittagong Hill Tracts), 54·83 inches at Satkanya, 52·59 inches at Kutubdia, and 50·55 inches at Cox's Bazar,—all in the Chittagong district,—to the very small falls of 2·32 inches at Sasseram, 2·47 inches at Buxar, 2·85 inches at Daudnagar (Gya district), 3·50 inches at Pooree, and 1·25 inches at Satpara (Pooree district). There are as usual two areas of heavy rainfall, one in the south-east of the province and one in the hills in the north-east of Bengal, and from these rainfall diminishes towards the western and south-western districts. The area of heavy rainfall in the north-east of the province is, however, this year not so well marked as usual, owing to the unusually strong westerly direction of the monsoon current, by which a large part of the heavy rainfall has been carried to Lower Burma, Arakan, and the south-eastern parts of Bengal.

Compared with the normal, all the extreme western and south-western districts of the province are in considerable or moderate defect, and an area running along the hills and the hills themselves in North Bengal show very largely defective falls. Areas of considerable defect are also shown in the Midnapore, 24-Pergunnahs, and Howrah districts, in Moorshedabad and Sonthal Pergunnahs, in Bogra and Pubna, and over parts of the Tipperah and Dacca districts. Elsewhere the greater part of the eastern half of the province shows a slight excess rainfall, and in the south-eastern parts, as represented by the Chittagong and Chittagong Hill Tracts, at some stations falls of from 10 to 15 inches in excess of the normal have been registered.

The following table gives full data for the comparison of the actual and normal rainfall of the month of July in all districts of the province. The figures are derived from the average and actual rainfall of the rain-recording stations in each district, due allowance being made for the area which each station represents. This gives a more accurate average than the arithmetical means given in the weekly and monthly meteorological tables. The first column gives the normal or average district rainfall as determined from the rainfall observations of the past fifteen years. The second column gives the actual district rainfall as determined from the weighted actual rainfalls of the month at the reporting stations in each district. The third column expresses the ratio of the actual district rainfall of the past month to the normal rainfall as a percentage, and the fourth column gives the same information in a slightly different form, expressing as a percentage how much the district rainfall varied in excess or in defect from the normal rainfall :—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h. 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o, overcast; g, gloomy; d, drizzling rain; p, passing temporary showers; ●, continued rain.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last ...n years. The variations are negative when the mean or the week is less than the corresponding normal mean, and positive when greater.
The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being presented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The numbers ...noting cloud amount represents the part of the sky covered, the whole sky being denoted by 10. Under the head District observations of rainfall the normal means are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the ...n years. The means of the district are the numerical average of the rainfall return received in the district, i.e., from total rainfall at the subdivisional ...post stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least a tenth of an inch fell.

Explanation.—......indicate that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 18th August 1891.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING SATURDAY, THE 15TH OF AUGUST 1891.

AT the close of the previous week a feeble barometric depression had formed partly over the north-west angle of the Bay, and partly over South-West Bengal, the centre of the depression and of its attendant cyclonic circulation of winds being on the 7th a little to the south of Saugor Island. The small whirl on the 7th commenced to move in a north-westerly direction, and on the morning of the 8th, or the last day of the previous week, it was in the south of Chutia Nagpur. The depression continued its north-westerly advance, and on the 9th its centre was between Allahabad and Lucknow, on the 10th it was near Delhi, and on the 11th it had again advanced north-westward and had passed into the low-pressure area over the Indus valley. For the first half of the week therefore in Bengal conditions were favourable for rainfall. In the passage of the small storm through the south-western districts of the province very heavy rain fell, and with the advance of the storm in a north-westerly direction a heavy wave of moisture-laden monsoon winds swept over the province and over Northern India generally.

Conditions in Bengal, therefore, were of ordinary monsoon character up till the 11th, but on this date a strong westerly wind current swept over the western half of the province, while winds were still more or less easterly over the eastern half. Pressure also became relatively low over Central and South-East Bengal, and during the 11th a small storm was formed over this area, the centre of which on the 12th was close to Jessore or between that station and Calcutta. On the morning of the 13th the centre of the small storm had scarcely moved, and it was still between Calcutta, Jessore and Krishnagore, and was attended by a very complete cyclonic circulation of winds. The storm was also giving on this day particularly heavy rain, and Midnapore and Durbhunga, among other stations, each reported about 9 inches of rain. During the 13th the storm moved in an almost due westerly direction, and its centre on the 14th was to the west of Ranchee, while on the 15th, or the last day of the present week, the storm centre was between Allahabad and Lucknow, and it had thus moved in a north-westerly direction from the 14th to the 15th.

It will therefore be seen that during the second half of the week also conditions in Bengal were very favourable for rainfall, particularly in the south-eastern, southern, central, and western districts through which the storm passed, but that the conditions were not so favourable for rainfall over Northern Bengal and over Assam. Heavy rain considerably above the average for the period has therefore been received in Orissa, Chutia Nagpur, South-West Bengal and Behar, and to a smaller extent in East Bengal; but the rainfall in North Bengal, though considerable in quantity has been below the normal amount.

In the Bay generally during the week the monsoon current has been strong, and on one or two days the wind force has almost risen to a gale at Saugor Island.

Pressure.—On the 9th pressure rose very rapidly in the rear of the storm, an increase exceeding 0·15" being reported from some of the stations in South West Bengal. Over Bengal generally pressure also rose more slowly as the storm was advancing into the North-West Provinces. On the 10th pressure continued to rise in the western districts, though a fall had set in over the east of the province, which fall continued on the 11th, the fall being largest at the eastern and south-eastern stations. The fall continued again on the 12th, and it was very rapid in Central and South Bengal, where at Jessore, Krishnagore, and Furreedpore it equalled 0·13", and a well-defined barometric depression was formed at the centre of which the defect from the normal equalled about a quarter of an inch. On the 13th pressure continued to fall in Central and South-West Bengal and Orissa, while elsewhere it was rising, the increase exceeding a tenth of an inch in East and West Bengal. On the 14th with the westerly advance of the depression, pressure rose very rapidly in Bengal generally, the rise at Jessore being 0·189", and on the 15th the rise of pressure continued, the rise at the central and southern stations exceeding a tenth of an inch. It will thus be seen that the changes of pressure during the week have been unusually large and rapid; but that the changes have more or less neutralized each other.

The mean pressure for the week has been below the normal in all districts except Orissa, where a slight excess of about 0·02" has been registered. The general defect over the province has equalled about 0·03" to 0·04", but at the stations affected by the second small storm the defect equals 0·05" and 0·06". In Assam there has been a general defect of 0·026".

Temperature.—Owing to the heaviness of the rainfall the mean temperature for the week for the province has been 1·6° below the normal. The defects have been largest in Orissa, Chutia Nagpur, and South Behar, where they equal from 2° to 3°; while, on the other hand, in North Bengal, where the rainfall has been light, temperature has been normal. In Assam the mean temperature for the week has been 0·7° in excess of the normal.

Rainfall.—The falls during the week have been exceptionally heavy; thus on the 9th amounts of three inches and upwards were received at Chooadanga, Cox's Bazar, Satkanya, Kutubdia, Perozepore, Harrishpore, Naraingunge, Dewangunge (6·16 inches), and Nowadah. On the 10th falls of three inches and upwards were recorded at Cox's Bazar, Sherepore, Panchbibi, Bhowanigunge, Banka, and Colgong. On the 11th falls exceeding three inches were received at Cox's Bazar, Chandpore, Mohua, Sewan, Dehree, and Bhubooah, while on the 12th these heavy falls became more numerous. On this day falls in excess of four inches were recorded at Balasore, Saugor Island, Bussirhat, Burdwan, and Mohua, while falls of from two to four inches were received at thirty other stations. On the 13th Durbhunga reported 8·09 inches, Midnapore 8 inches, Raipore 5·95 inches, Baharagura 5·30 inches, Barrabhoom 5·30 inches, and Sheikpura 5·10 inches, while falls of from two to five inches were reported from thirty-seven stations. On the 14th only about ten stations received falls exceeding two inches, and on the 15th only one station (Kurseong) received more than two inches. At some stations for the week, therefore, the falls have been particularly heavy; Cox's Bazar has thus received in the seven days 17·98 inches, Midnapore 13·50 inches, Durbhunga 11·70 inches, and several stations more than ten inches; while no less than 38 stations in the province have received more than seven inches in the week, or an average of more than one inch of rain a day.

The average rainfall in South-West Bengal has equalled nearly five and-a-half inches, or about twice the normal; the falls in Orissa, in South Behar, and Chutia Nagpur have averaged about four and-a-half inches, or about 70 per cent. in excess of the normal. In East Bengal the fall has also been about four and-a-half inches, or about 20 per cent. in excess, and in North Behar the fall has averaged four inches, or about 60 per cent. in excess. The only district receiving a defective fall has been North Bengal, which has only averaged two inches, or about two-thirds of the usual amount. In the case of North Bengal, however, though the rainfall has been very considerably in defect, the number of rainy days has been almost equal to the normal, while in all the other divisions the number of rainy days in the week has been largely in excess of the usual number.

In North Bengal the districts which have received the most largely defective rainfall are Maldah, Rungpore, and Julpigoree, but the other districts have received more normal falls. In the other divisions, though the falls have been usually rather largely in excess of the normal, the Moorshedabad and Chittagong Hill Tracts districts have received rather defective falls.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 15th of August 1891:—

NEW ZEALAND.

SOUTH ISLAND—EAST COAST.

Intended alterations in lights—Timaru harbour.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 295 of 1891) that on 1st November 1891 the following alterations will be made in the lights of Timaru harbour, east coast of South island, New Zealand:—

(1) Timaru principal light will be a fixed white light, with a sector of green light visible through an arc of 22° or between the bearings of S.S.W. and South. It will be elevated 85 feet above the sea, and should be seen in clear weather from a distance of 14 miles.

The illuminating apparatus will be dioptric, or by lenses, of the fifth order.

The light-house will be as heretofore, 30 feet in height, constructed of wood, and painted white.

Position; lat. 44° 23¼′ S., long. 171° 18¾′ E.

(2) The light exhibited from the end of Timaru eastern breakwater will be a red light, visible seaward between the bearings of W.N.W. through West and S.E.; it will be elevated 33 feet above high water, and should be seen in clear weather from a distance of 5 miles.

(3) The light shown from the end of Timaru north mole will be a green light, visible seaward between the bearings of W.N.W. through West and S.E.; it will be elevated 16 feet above high water, and should be seen in clear weather from a distance of one mile.

NOTE.—Mariners are cautioned, that after these alterations have been carried out, on approaching Timaru, and when anchoring outside the harbour, they should keep the white light in sight. If compelled to enter the harbour, the white light must be brought to bear S.W., and be kept on that bearing until the entrance lights are seen; after which a vessel may stand to the westward to open those lights, but not so far as to enter the sector of green light, shown from the principal light-house, until within a quarter of a mile of the eastern breakwater.

The sector of green light shows over the Lyttelton wreck, and is intended as a warning to keep clear of that wreck, and of the Ninety miles beach.

Except in vessels of small tonnage, and those the masters of which are well acquainted with the harbour, the attempt to enter the harbour at night should not be made without a pilot. This warning is also rendered necessary by the fact that a vessel moored at the outer buoy is in the fairway.

HACKNEY-CARRIAGES AND PALANQUINS ACTS, 1866 AND 1878, AMENDMENT BILL.

The HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT said:—"We have met at an extraordinary meeting of the Council in order to effect the passing of the Hackney-carriage Bill. The object of calling an extraordinary meeting of the Council to-day has been that, if we can pass the Bill to-day and obtain the sanction of the Government of India to it, there will be plenty of time before the commencement of the Act to enable all persons concerned in the hackney-carriage trade to make their arrangements to meet the provisions of the amended Act before the date when it comes into force, namely, the 1st October. It seemed to me that, if the passing of this Bill was put off till the end of August, and if there should be any delay in correspondence with the Government of India, the time might have run so close that the proprietors of hackney-carriages and other persons interested in the provisions of this Bill might easily have complained that sufficient opportunity had not been given them to consider and make arrangements to meet the changes which have been introduced. Since the Select Committee sat and made several amendments in the Bill, the Municipal Commissioners have held a meeting and have proposed some further slight amendments. Many of these seem to me to be desirable and certainly worthy of our consideration. Bearing in mind that it was originally at the request of the Commissioners that this amendment of the law has been undertaken, I think we should not be acting with sufficient respect and courtesy to the Commissioners if we declined to take full notice of the amendments which they have proposed, even though they had been submitted at so late a date; and I think that no injury will be done and the danger of precipitate legislation will be avoided if we take these amendments into consideration upon the present occasion. I therefore desire to announce that the standing rules of the Council will be suspended in order to take the amendments into consideration, and I declare the Council rules suspended."

The Hon'ble Mr. Wallis presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Hackney-carriages and Palanquins in Calcutta.

He said:—"It will be remembered that this Bill was originally placed in charge of the Hon'ble Mr. Cotton, but on his departure for England the Hon'ble the President was pleased to transfer its conduct to my hands. My hon'ble colleague, in moving for leave to introduce this Bill, dwelt at some length on the history of legislation in Calcutta relating to hackney-carriages, and explained on what grounds it had become necessary to alter the existing law. The chief reasons put forward were the very unsatisfactory working of the Hackney-carriage Department, the extreme inefficiency of the ticca gharries in the city, and the disreputable state in which they are permitted to ply for hire. The Municipal Commissioners had given special attention to the subject, and in October of last year appointed a Committee to enquire into the working of the Department, and to suggest such alterations and amendments in the Act which, in their opinion, would be likely to lead to a more satisfactory state of affairs.

"The report submitted recommended that legislation should be resorted to, and that greater powers should be given to the Commissioners in order to enable them to carry out the necessary improvements in the hackney-carriage service. The draft Bill, together with the opinions expressed by the several Associations and officials, have been very carefully considered by the Select Committee, and the changes and alterations made have been embodied in the Committee's Report which has been in the hands of hon'ble members for some time past. It will not be necessary, Sir, for me to take up much of your time, as the Hon'ble Mr. Cotton in his introductory speech explained to a very great extent the proposed changes in the law; but there are a few points to which I must allude, and others to which, perhaps, it would be as well to refer again. One of the most material changes proposed by the Select Committee is in section 60 of the Bill, which provides for the employment and final distribution of the fees and fines levied under the Act. The Committee regret that they were unable to agree with the proposal made by the Hon'ble Mr. Cotton to omit from the Bill the provision that all penalties and fees should be disposed of in such manner as the Government of Bengal shall direct. The effect of such omission would be that only the fees could be credited to the Corporation, that is to say, all fees payable on registration of carriages, the fees payable on drivers' licenses, as well as any fees which shall be levied under the Act on account of transfer of registration or on copies furnished, but all penalties and fines imposed in a Magistrate's Court would be credited to Government. Such a course would not justify the division of the fees between the municipalities concerned, and as it is intended that the municipalities are to have both administrative and financial responsibilities, this section provides that all fees and fines shall first be credited to a fund to be called the 'Hackney-carriage Fund,' which is to be employed in carrying out the purposes of the Act, and in the event of one or more municipalities being included in Calcutta by virtue of a notification published under section 4, then such fund shall yearly be divided between the Calcutta and such other municipality or municipalities as the Local Government may determine.

"In this connection, in section 15, clause (4), the Select Committee by an oversight omitted to alter the words 'shall be forfeited to Government' to 'shall be credited to the Hackney-carriage Fund,' and I now ask that the alteration may be permitted.

"The section in the draft Bill which was numbered 60 did not appear to the Committee to be sufficiently comprehensive. In re-casting this section, which is now No. 61, the Committee have extended its scope, by which the Local Government may, whenever the Act shall be extended to any other town or place, appoint persons, either by name or official designation, to carry out the duties imposed, and exercise the powers conferred by the Act on the Commissioners and the Chairman of the Commissioners. In clause (2) of this section provision has been made for the modification of certain other sections when the Act is extended beyond the local limits of Calcutta, which will enable the Local Government, by notification in the Calcutta Gazette, to provide that the language commonly used in such extended districts shall be substituted for those provided in the Act. This is a very necessary provision, as it is most desirable that the plate affixed to a conveyance specifying the fare according to distance and time which may be legally demanded and taken from the hirer shall be in the language most in use in each district.

"Under the existing law the Registering Officer is appointed by the Government, and every act, matter or thing done by that officer (under or by virtue of the Act) is subject to the order, disposition and control of the Commissioner of Police. In the Bill which is now under the consideration of this Council, it has been provided that this officer shall be appointed by the Commissioners, and that the working of the Act shall be entirely under the control of the Corporation of Calcutta. Full powers have been given enabling the Commissioners (subject to the approval of Government) to frame bye-laws and rules which may be legally enforced. This will place the Commissioners in a position to deal summarily with all questions which may arise in connection with the working of the Act, and will, no doubt, lead to the much needed reforms.

"Section 5, as originally drafted, placed the Registering Officer under the control of the Commissioners. This the Committee considered inadvisable, and have therefore altered the section so as to place him under the immediate control of the Chairman of the Corporation. This for obvious reasons must be preferable; for if the Act is to lead to the better administration of the Hackney-carriage Department, the Chairman's orders should be final. It is also desirable that the status of this officer should be very materially improved, and the Committee have therefore, under clause (3) of the same section, made his appointment and removal subject to section 41 of the Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Act of 1888.

"In section 23, the word 'knowingly' has been omitted, as it has been found difficult in practice to prove to the satisfaction of the presiding Magistrate that the owner knowingly permitted an unlicensed person to act as driver. The fact of a person acting as driver being unlicensed should suffice for the conviction of the owner. In like manner the Commissioners have omitted in section 27, clause (2), the words 'wilfully' and 'fraudulently;' for a driver who neglects to deliver up, uses or wears an expired ticket, should be convicted without the necessity of proving that he did so wilfully or fraudulently. It will have been noticed that the tendency of the Bill is to reduce the penalties, especially in the case of drivers. Under the existing Act it was found that the alternative penalty in default of payment of fine was in some instances excessive; these have been reduced in the present Bill, but with regard to section 17 the Committee were of opinion that the fine of Rs. 10 for the offence of plying for hire without having a proper plate affixed is wholly inadequate, and would not act as a deterrent. The fine has therefore been raised to Rs. 50, the amount provided under the existing Act.

"In the first schedule of the Bill the Committee deemed it advisable to somewhat enhance the daily fare for a carriage of the second class to Rs. 3-8, and to allow the old rule to stand as regards the fare of Rs. 2 for five hours. Under the existing Act the fare for this class, if taken at 12 annas for the first hour and 6 annas for every other hour or part of an hour beyond the first hour, the sum payable for eight hours amounted to Rs. 3-6, but for a whole day of nine hours to only Rs. 3. This was certainly an anomally, and by the adoption of the present proposal the fare for eight hours would be the same, Rs. 3-6, and for nine hours Rs. 3-8.

"Should the Bill, as amended, be accepted by the Council and passed into law, the Municipal Commissioners will have its entire working in their hands. They will be empowered to frame bye-laws and rules which can be legally enforced, and there is no doubt that full advantage will be taken of these powers in order to ensure a better description of carriages and horses being used, and a more reliable class of men being employed as drivers. The claims of owners and drivers have been carefully considered. The fares have been slightly increased, and the doubt which existed as to the sum which could be legally demanded after the first five hours removed, while the penalties in several instances have been considerably reduced. The whole Bill has been framed with the object that Calcutta should be better served in this direction, that due protection be given to both owners and hirers, and the result, it is hoped, will be a very material improvement in the hackney-carriage service."

The HON'BLE MR. WALLIS also moved that the Report of the Select Committee be taken into consideration in order to the settlement of the clauses of the Bill, and that the clauses of the Bill be considered for settlement in the form recommended by the Select Committee.

The Motions were put and agreed to.

The HON'BLE MR. WALLIS also moved that in clause (4) of section 15, the words 'shall be forfeited to the Government' be omitted, and the words 'shall be credited to the Hackney-carriage Fund' be substituted for them.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT said:—"I have to move in clause (2) of the same section an amendment which has been proposed by the Commissioners at their recent meeting. They desire to appoint one or two or more Inspecting Officers whose business it shall be to watch over the carrying out of the Act, and to investigate the extent to which any infringement of its provisions takes place. The provision before us gives power only to a Police Officer to seize and remove to a police-station any carriage which has not been duly registered. The Commissioners urge that if they have paid officers whose business it is to go about and see that no carriage is plying for hire which has not been duly registered and does not carry its plate, those officers should have power at once to arrest the driver and to carry the carriage to the nearest police-station, instead of waiting till they can find a police constable whom they can induce to arrest the driver, while in the meantime the driver might drive off as fast as he can. I understand this point was considered in Select Committee, and was not adopted, and it is therefore with considerable hesitation that I ask the Council to consider it. But I do so because I am under the impression that there has probably been a misunderstanding, that they thought this power would probably be given to irresponsible officers drawing inconsiderable salaries. But this is not the case, as the proposal is to appoint officers of standing and position to this work. A parallel case is to be found in the working of the Act for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Under the law no person but a police officer can arrest a person committing an offence under that Act. We have a most useful and philanthropic society which has its agents scattered over the whole town, and constantly taking notice of acts of cruelty and enforcing the law against persons who commit offences under that Act; and in order that they might act with better effect, these emissaries of the society have been vested with the powers of police constables to enable them to make arrests. It is admitted that the power thus conferred has not done any harm, but, on the contrary, has distinctly worked good. The objection, I understand, has been raised that if a driver sees a person looking like a private person coming to arrest him, he might conceive that he is not invested with any authority, and a disturbance might arise consequent on the driver exercising the right which he might believe himself to possess, viz., the right of private defence. I have therefore thought it best to move the amendment proposed by the Municipal Commissioners in the following form, namely, to insert after 'Police officer' in clause (2) of section 15, the following words:— 'or any person duly authorized in that behalf by the Commissioners, and wearing a distinctive badge to indicate his official capacity.' I trust that this amendment will commend itself to the Council. I trust they will think that by this provision any danger likely to arise in consequence of what may be thought to be unlawful interference will be avoided."

The HON'BLE SIR ALFRED CROFT said:—"I am glad that Your Honour has moved this amendment because it falls in with a suggestion that I intended to make with regard to the appointment of Inspectors of hackney-carriages. Bye-laws may be framed with any degree of detail and stringency, but unless officers are appointed with the express object of seeing their provisions carried out, they will prove inoperative. I believe that many of the complaints as to the state of hackney-carriages are due to the fact that the carriages are repaired and painted and patched up for the day of registration; they pass in review so as to make a fair show before the Registering Officer, but the repairs are so badly done that they soon fall to pieces, and so remain till the next registration-day when they are patched up again. It is stated that the Registering Officer has to pass in review some fifty carriages in a morning, and therefore his inspection cannot but be very superficial. A second inspection and registration at the end of six months has been suggested, but even that is not sufficient. What seems to me to be wanted is to appoint a whole-time officer—in fact more than one whole-time officer, at any rate one for the north and one for the south of the town—to go about the hackney-carriage stables; to inspect the carriages and examine their springs and general state; to look at the horses and ponies; to examine the harness and see that it is strong and serviceable; to see that the drivers are capable men and decently dressed; and to warn them against an offence frequently committed, especially in Chowringhee, namely, that of racing their carriages against each other at full gallop, to the imminent danger of passers by and of other carriages. Unless the Municipality should prefer to appoint independent Inspectors, the officers whose appointment this amendment contemplates might well be entrusted with such duties. The Inspectors should be subordinate to the Chairman of the Corporation, and should report directly to him. On these grounds I have much pleasure in supporting this amendment."

The HON'BLE DR. RASH BEHARI GHOSE said:—"As a member of the Select Committee, I am bound to say that if the case had been properly represented to us, we should certainly have felt considerable hesitation in rejecting the suggestion made by the Municipal Commissioners. Now, however, that we are assured that only officers of a superior grade will be deputed to perform the duties prescribed in section 15, and that these officers will have to wear a distinctive badge, the reasons which impelled the members of the Select Committee to reject the amendment no longer hold good, and I am quite prepared to support it."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT moved that in section 21, clause (2)(b), line one, the words 'and father's name' be inserted after 'name.' He said:—"This was suggested by the Commissioners in order to avoid the possibility of substituting one person of the same name for the person to whom the license to act as driver has been granted. I do not suppose there will be any objection to this amendment."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT said:—"The next amendment which I have to move was not proposed by the Commissioners, but has occurred to myself in examining the project of law before us. It is in section 34 which runs as follows:—'The driver of every hackney-carriage shall carry in or upon such carriage a reasonable quantity of luggage for every person hiring such carriage without any additional charge.' It seems to me that the words 'reasonable quantity' is hardly such a term of precision which should be put into a legislative enactment, and that it might unnecessarily tend to disputes and disagreements between the driver and the hirer. It may be urged that this section has only been copied from the former Act; that it has been in force ever since Act V of 1866 was passed; and that no difficulty has been found to arise. But I wish to point out that one of the main, if not quite the main, object why we are now legislating is the object of humanity, to relieve the animals which draw hackney-carriages from that strain to their physical endurance to which we now find them subject. We have provided with great care that a carriage may carry only a certain number of persons; that the Registering Officer should see that the carriage must be of sufficient strength and the horses of sufficient size to draw four persons of average weight. But if we allow any amount of luggage to be put on the roof in addition to having four persons inside, we may possibly be putting such a strain on the poor animals as they might not be able to bear. Therefore, I propose, in substitution of the vague expression 'reasonable quantity of luggage' to insert the words 'a quantity of luggage not exceeding two maunds.' If we fix the quantity at two maunds, we shall know how much the carriage may be expected to carry and the animals to draw. I trust a restriction of this kind will commend itself to you as a move in the direction of a humane regard for the condition of the animals which has induced the Council to consider the Bill now before us."

The HON'BLE SHAHZADA MAHOMMED FURROKH SHAH seconded the motion.

The HON'BLE DR. MAHENDRA LAL SIRCAR said:—"I wish to put before the Council the case of only one person hiring a carriage and he alone travelling in it. In such a case the conveyance would be lightened to the extent of the weight of three persons, and, in my humble opinion, it would be unfair to limit the weight of luggage to two maunds. I would, therefore, suggest that in lieu of the three other persons which the carriage is licensed to convey, the driver should be bound, if required, to carry three additional maunds of luggage, one maund in lieu of each such person It will be a hardship if a person hires a carriage to convey him to a railway station if he is not allowed to carry with him on the carriage the full amount of luggage he has, provided it does not exceed five maunds, but where four persons travel in the carriage he agrees with the Hon'ble the President that the limit of two maunds of luggage is reasonable."

The HON'BLE SIR ALFRED CROFT believed there was some provision of the kind in the London Hackney-carriage Act.

The HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT said:—"The London rule, I think, is that for every outside parcel 2*d.* extra is paid. It seems to me that the suggestion made by the Hon'ble Dr. Mahendra Lal Sircar is a reasonable one, and I accept it, and therefore now move the substitution of the words—'a quantity of luggage not exceeding two maunds, together with one additional maund for every person below four carried in the carriage.'"

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The HON'BLE DR. MAHENDRA LAL SIRCAR moved that in section 39, clause (2), line 6, the word 'or' be omitted, and the words 'and in default of payment' be substituted.

He said:—"As the section now stands the Magistrate might either sentence the offender to a fine or to imprisonment. I think the imprisonment should only be imposed in default of payment of the fine. It would be very hard if a person may be sentenced to imprisonment for non-payment of the fare due by him to a hackney-carriage driver."

The HON'BLE SIR ALFRED CROFT in seconding the motion said :—" It seems to me difficult to imagine a case of evasion of payment of fare which is so bad as to demand a sentence of imprisonment, and that the imposition of a fine of Rs. 50 would meet the exigencies of the case."

The HON'BLE DR. RASH BEHARI GHOSE said :—" I am sorry I cannot support this amendment. If I remember rightly, the question was discussed in the Select Committee, when we thought there might be special cases in which a Magistrate would be justified in awarding imprisonment, not necessarily for one month which is the maximum, but for such period as the Magistrate might think the man deserves. A man who evades payment of the fare, or, in other words, attempts to cheat the driver, is certainly not deserving of much pity. And I think we may trust the Magistrate who would have to deal with the case to exercise his discretion in a proper manner. If we leave out the imprisonment altogether, in a very bad case of evasion, the offender will get off very lightly. I therefore think this provision ought to stand as it is in the Bill."

The HON'BLE MR. WALLIS said:—" I think the section as it is now worded should be allowed to stand as has been mentioned by the hon'ble member who spoke last; this question was considered in Select Committee. The very words proposed by the hon'ble mover of the amendment were recommended by the Central Mahommedan Association, but their recommendation was duly considered, and it was decided that a person who actually evades payment of fare commits an offence which rightly subjects him (at the discretion of the Magistrate) to the penalty of imprisonment."

The HON'BLE SHAHZADA MAHOMMED FURROKH SHAH said :—" If I remember rightly, a man who evades payment of a railway fare is only subject to the penalty of fine."

The HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT said:—" I find, on referring to the Railways Act, that a person who travels without a ticket, or attempts to cheat by not paying the full amount of fare, is liable to a fine and not to imprisonment. But before I put the question to the vote, I should like to point out in the first place that this provision stands in the Bill as it exists in the present Act. The alternative given to the Magistrate of imposing imprisonment instead of fine, and not only in default of payment of fine, has been in force since 1866; and this fact is an argument for not changing the law unless anyone happens to know of any grievous injury having been inflicted under the authority of the present law, which shows that there is need for its amendment. It seems to me that there are cases in which the Magistrate might be bound to inflict imprisonment and not fine. I am told that it not unfrequently happens that sailors take a hackney-carriage, and after using it try to defraud the driver and escape by going on board their ship. In a case of that kind a sentence of fine would generally be a brutum fulmen. It would have no effect; and the imprisonment which would be imposed in default of payment of the fine would be simple imprisonment, which would be rather in favour of the sailor than a punishment to him, because we know that according to the old saying life on shipboard is imprisonment with the chance of being drowned, and simple imprisonment is imprisonment without the chance of being drowned. To him being detained from his ship by being sent to a prison would not be such a severe punishment, as it would be to any ordinary person. The fact that the Select Committee considered this question and decided that the alternative punishment of imprisonment should remain should of course weigh with the Council to a considerable extent, and unless any strong grounds are put forward to invalidate reasons which led the Select Committee to the conclusion to which they came, we are bound to pay to it the greatest respect. We must also bear in mind that two of the members of the Select Committee are absent, and therefore the voting power of the Select Committee is weaker than usual."

The HON'BLE MAHARAJAH SIR HARENDRA KISHORE SING BAHADUR observed that, in his opinion, the penalty to be inflicted for the offence here provided for, whether it should be fine or imprisonment, should be left to the discretion of the Magistrate.

THE Motion was then put to the vote and negatived.

The HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT said:—"In section 42 a new provision has been adopted taken from the Madras Act III of 1879, under which, if a dispute arises between the hirer and the driver, the hirer may require the driver, or the driver may require the hirer, to proceed forthwith to the nearest Magistrate's Court, and the then sitting Magistrate shall hear and determine the suit in a summary way. The addition to the existing law is contained in the words 'and the driver may require the hirer' to go to the Magistrate's Court and settle the question off-hand. I think the hon'ble members must admit on consideration that very great inconvenience may result to the hirer from this innovation. My hon'ble friend Dr. Rash Behari Ghose, for instance, may be proceeding to the High Court, and if in case of a dispute arising between him and the driver he can be forthwith taken before a Magistrate, he may be put to great inconvenience, and his client, perhaps, may lose his case for want of the valuable services of his advocate; or a gentleman may be on his way to a railway station and may miss his train; and, lastly, there is the strongest case of all, the case put by a memorial presented by my friend Nawab Abdool Latif of a purdah nashin lady whose appearance in court would be impossible. I therefore propose that these words which have been imported from the Madras Act be omitted, and that we should fall back on the terms of the original Act with one slight exception to provide for cases in which the Magistrate being engaged in some important case is not able to hear and determine the dispute, or when no Magistrate may be sitting at the time. The section which I propose to substitute for section 42 of the Bill will run thus:—

'In case of any dispute arising between the hirer and the driver of any registered hackney-carriage, the hirer may, if any Magistrate be then sitting, require the driver to drive to the Court of such Magistrate, or if any Magistrate be not then sitting to the Registering Officer; and if any driver shall refuse to obey such requisition, it shall be lawful for the hirer to give such driver into the custody of the nearest Police Officer. Such Police Officer shall thereupon take the driver and the hirer, together with the carriages and horses, to such Court or Registering Officer, and the then sitting Magistrate or Registering Officer shall, in either of the cases aforesaid, hear and determine the dispute in a summary way.'

The HON'BLE DR. RASH BEHARI GHOSE said:—"I have much pleasure in seconding this amendment. I pointed out to my colleagues in the Select Committee that this provision was liable to be abused by the drivers of hackney-carriages. In the case put by Nawab Abdool Latif, the abuse would be very great. But I yielded rather too readily perhaps to the suggestion of my colleagues that the section would practically be a dead letter, and that a corresponding provision was to be found not only in the Madras Act, which had led to no harm, but, if I am not mistaken, in the English Act also. I am glad that this amendment has now been moved."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT said:—"The next amendment which I have to move is a very small one in section 51, clause (2) which provides that 'all the provisions of this Act in any way relating to the taking out, granting, renewing or producing the licenses, or to the issuing, granting, wearing or using tickets granted to drivers of hackney-carriages, shall be applicable in like manner to the bearers of palanquins.' It is proposed to insert the words 'or using' after 'producing,' in order to meet the case of a palanquin-bearer transferring his license to anybody else. I do not think any objection can be taken to the amendment."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT moved that in section 53, clause (1) (b), the words 'dimensions of such carriages' be inserted after 'hackney-carriages.'

He said:—"This seems to me a very useful provision suggested by the Commissioners. It will enable the Registering Officer to see that hackney-carriages are not made of a size which is too heavy for the animals drawing them, and will tend to the same humanitarian direction which we are all agreed upon."

The HON'BLE DR. MAHENDRA LAL SIRCAR seconded the motion.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT moved that in section 56, the following words be substituted for the whole of the proviso from line 8 to the end:—'The omission to register any hackney-carriage or palanquin or to take out a license, shall be deemed to be a continuing offence.'

He said:—"It is the form of words proposed by our legal adviser as better suited to express the intention of the section."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The HON'BLE DR. MAHENDRA LAL SIRCAR moved that in the first schedule, Rs. 3, the present rate of hire for a second class carriage for a whole day consisting of 9 hours, be substituted for Rs. 3-8, the rate entered in the amended Bill.

He said:—"We have sufficient evidence, and we see it especially from the remarks made by Mr. Phelps at the last meeting of the Municipal Commissioners, that the owners of second class carriages gain ample profit from the present rates of hire. The rates have been enhanced in the Bill in order that the carriages might be improved, but as has already been pointed out the disreputable condition of the hackney-carriages in Calcutta is not due to the smallness of the fares that are paid, but to the want of proper supervision and inspection. With the proper supervision and inspection to be provided by this Bill, we should have better carriages, and I do not see any necessity for enhancing the rates of fare for second class carriages. To enhance the rates will be a great hardship to the middle class people, who are the hirers of these carriages. Besides there is an anomaly in the schedule of rates for second class carriages which will be removed by the amendments which I now propose. The anomaly is that for the first hour the fare is 12 annas, and for every hour or part of an hour after the first the fare is 6 annas, and for half a day of 5 hours the fare is Rs. 2; so that the fare for four hours is Re. 1-14, whilst for the fifth hour it is only 2 annas, and then for every subsequent hour the fare is 6 annas. This anomaly will be removed by the amendment I propose to substitute, Rs. 3 for Rs. 3-8. If that amendment is carried, I am prepared to move other amendments with reference to the rates for the rates for second and third class carriages."

The HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT said:—"As nobody seconds this amendment, I shall take it that the sense of the Council is against it."

The HON'BLE SIR ALFRED CROFT said:—"The reason why I do not second the amendment is that if the Corporation carry out the suggestion I made for the appointment of Inspectors, it will keep the carriages more up to the mark, and there will consequently be more expense to the owners, and they will be so far recompensed by the slight increase of rates proposed in the schedule."

The HON'BLE DR. MAHENDRA LAL SIRCAR said:—"The anomaly is that for four hours the fare will be Re. 1-14, and for five hours Rs. 2, so that for 2 annas the hirer can keep the carriage a whole hour longer; whereas for each of the succeeding hours he will get 6 annas. This is an anomaly which would be removed if my amendment had been carried. I now move that the charge for a second class carriage for the first hour be 12 annas, for the second and third hours, or any part thereof, 6 annas, and for every hour beyond the third hour the charge shall be 4 annas; and then we shall do away with the necessity for fixing the rates for half a day of 5 hours, and a whole day of 9 hours. These rates will themselves amount to Rs. 2 for 5 hours and Rs. 3 for 9 hours. Similarly, in the case of third class carriages, I shall propose that the rate for the first hour shall be 6 annas, 4 annas each for the second and third hour, and 3 annas for each hour after the third hour; and these rates will amount to Rs. 2 for 9 hours. These amendments have the recommendation of simplicity as well as of logical consistency. They are not unfair to the owner, and they are very fair to the hirer. It will certainly be a hardship to the middle and poorer classes if the rates proposed in the Bill are retained. My present motion is confined to the rates for second class carriages which I have specified."

The HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT said:—"As the motion is not seconded, I take it that the sense of the Council is against this amendment too."

The HON'BLE DR. MAHENDRA LAL SIRCAR then moved that for third class carriages the following rates be entered in lieu of the rates now in the schedule, namely, that the rate for the first hour shall be 6 annas, for the second and third hours or part thereof 4 annas, and for every subsequent hour or part of an hour 3 annas.

The HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT seconded this amendment. He said:—"It is one which I independently intended to bring forward, but I am glad the hon'ble member has forestalled me. The Municipal Commissioners have discussed this subject very fully at their recent meeting, and they proposed the alteration now before the Council. Mr. Phelps, one of the Commissioners, who originally brought forward the proposal to amend the Hackney-carriage Act, suggested this very amendment, and after a long debate it was carried. We want to justify the imposition of the demand to be made upon the owners of third class carriages for the improvement of the condition of their carriages and ponies by making their work a little more remunerative. On the other hand, we are anxious not to make the rates of hire oppressive especially on the poorest and lowest classes. It is these persons whom we are specially bound to protect. The well-to-do middle classes who chiefly hire second class carriages can defend themselves, but those who use third class carriages we, in our position as representing the Government, are above all people bound to consider. The result of the amendment before the Council will be that for each of the second and third hours of hiring one anna more will have to be paid than at present, and the rates would not be different in other respects. But this will justify the Commissioners in demanding that the owners shall put themselves to larger expenditure to put their carriages in good order, and I trust the rates of fare will not be considered too oppressive on the poorer classes in whose behalf the Select Committee, and I believe the Municipal Commissioners also, received many representations, and I hope this amendment will be considered favourably by the Council."

The HON'BLE DR. RASH BEHARI GHOSE said:—"I also think that this amendment should be carried for the reasons which have been given by my colleagues. It will be a decided improvement, and, speaking for myself, I am obliged to the Municipal Commissioners for pointing out the mistake which the members of the Select Committee had made."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT said:—"Another suggestion has been made by the Municipal Commissioners to the effect that the rates of fare for all classes of carriages after the ninth hour should be specified in the law, because the decision of the Magistrates in this respect have varied, and there is no certain rule for guidance, either of the public or of drivers. I therefore move that another column be added to the schedule providing that for every hour, or part of an hour, after the ninth hour, the rates of fare shall be for first class carriages 8 annas, for second class carriages 6 annas and for third class carriages 3 annas. This will be the best way to simplify and settle a matter in respect of which there is now considerable doubt."

MR. WALLIS seconded the motion.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT said:—"I have also a suggestion to make with regard to the foot-note to this schedule. According to the foot-note as it now stands in the Bill, the Council will observe that the fares are to be paid, either by distance or by time, at the option of the hirer, to be expressed at the commencement of the hiring; if not otherwise expressed, the fare to be paid according to time. I think it is desirable that we should also provide that the hirer shall not have the benefit of the rate for 5 hours or for 9 hours where it is a reduction upon the rates per hour, unless at the time of the hiring he expresses his intention to engage the carriage for that specific time, that is, that he should state at the first whether he takes the carriage for 5 hours or for 9 hours. I therefore move that the following words be substituted for the present foot-note to the schedule:—

'The above fares to be paid according to time, unless at the commencement of the hiring the hirer expresses his intention of paying according to distance. In the case of a second class carriage the hirer cannot avail himself of the half day or whole day rate unless at the time of hiring he engages the carriage for the half day or whole day as the case may be.'

The HON'BLE MAHARAJAH SIR HARENDRA KISHORE SINGH BAHADUR seconded the motion.

The HON'BLE SIR ALFRED CROFT said:—"I feel some slight difficulty in voting for this amendment. Suppose the hirer has a lot of shopping to do, and does not know whether he will require the carriage for 3, 4, or 5 hours; the driver is quite willing to be hired on these indefinite terms; if it so happens that at the end of 3 or 4 hours the hirer does not want to discharge the carriage, but wishes to keep it till the completion of 5 hours, why should he lose the advantage of the 5 hours' rate merely because he did not make a specific contract with the driver beforehand? I am supposing the case where there is a reduction of charge for the fifth hour."

The HON'BLE MR. WALLIS said:—"I think that this proposal will, to a great extent, remove the anomaly referred to by the Hon'ble Dr. Mahendra Lal Sircar, namely, that the charge for 4 hours is Re. 1-14, and for 5 hours only 2 annas more. If a contract is entered into previously to the hiring, the anomaly will, to a great extent, be removed."

The HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT said:—"The practical effect of the amendment is that the advantage to be gained by the hiring of a second class carriage for half a day of 5 hours will be the payment of 2 annas for the fifth hour, instead of 6 annas. My hon'ble friend thinks it will not be generally practicable for the hirer to say beforehand that he will take the carriage for 5 hours, and that he does not see why the hirer should not get the advantage of the lapse of time that may occur. But I think what has fallen from the Hon'ble Mr. Wallis shows that the effect of the present amendment will be that the driver cannot get rid of the hirer at the end of the fourth hour, and therefore he will be rather an unwilling party to the contract. It seems to me only right that the contract should be made at the commencement of the hiring and that the proposal will be equally fair to the hirer and to the driver."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The HON'BLE MR. WALLIS moved that the Bill, as now amended, be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT said:—"In declaring the Bill to be passed into law subject to the approval which we hope to get, and which I have little doubt we will get, of the Government of India, I would only say two words before we break up: one, to express my thanks, on behalf of the Government of Bengal, to the Hon'ble Mr. Wallis for the excellent and practical way in which he has conducted the business of preparing the Bill for the Council; and the other is a word addressed to the Municipal Commissioners. I trust that they will bear in mind what has fallen from the Hon'ble Sir Alfred Croft in regard to his recommendation that they should appoint at least two capable Inspectors to ensure the satisfactory carrying out of the provisions of this Act—Inspectors who will see not only that these hackney-carriages are more decent and comfortable, that the drivers are better dressed and better able to drive with less danger to human life, but above all that there should be more humanity felt for the animals which are driven in these carriages, and that the reproach thrown upon us—and I think very justly thrown upon us—that there is no town in the whole of the British Empire in which the hackney-carriages and animals are such a disgrace to civilization as they are in Calcutta will be removed. Neither in Bombay nor in Madras nor in Karachi, nor even in a little town like Hyderabad in Sind, can you find anything comparable to the disgraceful state of the carriages or the miserable condition of the ponies which are driven in third class carriages in Calcutta, and I hope sincerely that the effect of the passing of this Act will be to prevent the recurrence of any such sights as those which inflict the eyes and the hearts of philanthropic people at the present day.

"There is a new clause in the Act which authorizes the Municipality to pass bye-laws which shall come into force after the confirmation of the Government. I have considered very carefully whether this would be a sufficient protection to the public. I was very much inclined to propose that more power should be given to the Government, so that they should be able not only to confirm the bye-laws, but if they found that the Commissioners did not pass bye-laws sufficient to meet the spirit of the Bill and the object of the Legislature, that the Government should have the power to take the initiative to draw up bye-laws or at least to modify and amend those framed by the Commissioners. The Bill as it now stands does not give that power. After careful consideration, and after discussing the subject with many gentlemen who were well able to advise me, I came to the conclusion that it was not desirable to propose any such amendment. I think we have reason to believe that we can trust the Municipal Commissioners to follow the spirit in which we have been acting, to follow the spirit which has been expressed by the public press and by many public Corporations, and the views which have led to the formation of the present Bill. I trust that in a very short time the Commissioners will draw up a set of bye-laws which will fully meet the spirit in which this law has been drawn up, and that they will appoint a suitable body of officers, capable and responsible, who will effectually see that the provisions of the law are carried out."

The Council adjourned sine die.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last ten years. The variations are negative when the mean for the week is less than the corresponding normal mean, and positive when greater. The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being presented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The numbers denoting cloud amount represents the part of the sky covered, the whole sky being denoted by 10. Under the head District observations of rainfall the normal means are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the past ten years. The means of the district are the numerical average of the rainfall return received in the district, i.e., from total rainfall at the subdivisional stations in the district summing in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least a tenth of an inch fell.

Explanation.—......indicate that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 25th August 1891.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING SATURDAY, THE 22ND OF AUGUST 1891.

IN the second half of the previous week a small depression or feeble cyclonic storm had formed over Central Bengal and had first advanced in a westerly and then in a north-westerly direction, and on the 15th, or the last day of that week, the storm centre was near Allahabad. On the 16th it was between Allahabad and Lucknow, but it had become more feeble on this date, and though feebly perceptible on the 17th, it ceased to exist as a well-defined depression. It gave heavy rain in its progress, but the monsoon current brought up in its rear was feeble. Conditions were therefore of ordinary monsoon character in Bengal on the 16th, but on this day the rainfall reported was only light and local except in Chutia Nagpur, where it was more general. Winds on the 16th, however, showed a tendency for a westerly current to set in over Chutia Nagpur and parts of Orissa and Behar, and these winds commenced to drive back the easterly and south-easterly winds which had previously been blowing. This produced a considerable amount of interaction between the opposing wind systems and therefore of ascensional air motion which had increased by the morning of the 17th, when the westerly current had reached as far as Central Bengal. On the 17th, therefore, much heavier and more general rain was reported, two stations received nearly five inches of rain and a good many received an inch and upwards. Conditions remained practically unaltered on the 18th, except that pressure had become comparatively low at Balasore and Saugor Island and again fairly general rain was received, though the falls were not so heavy as on the 17th. On the 19th the comparatively low pressure still existed at Balasore and Saugor Island, and there was also slight indication of the commencement of a whirl over the extreme south-western parts of Bengal and probably the neighbouring parts of the north-west angle of the Bay. Winds, therefore, again became strongly easterly over almost the whole province; rainfall in Orissa and Behar and over parts of East and North Bengal became rather general and heavy, but the falls in South-West Bengal were lighter and more local. On the 20th a distinct but feeble low-pressure area had formed over the north-west angle of the Bay which was accompanied by a decided cyclonic circulation of winds, the centre of the circulation being apparently to the east of False Point. Again on the 20th Orissa reported fairly general but moderate rain, but in most other districts the falls were rather local. On the 21st the depression in the north-west angle of the Bay was a little more marked than it had been, but the position was practically unchanged, and again on the 22nd the feeble storm had became rather more marked, while the centre of the wind circulation was to the east-north-east of False Point and to the south of Saugor Island. The wind circulation on this day was very complete, and practically the wind system over the whole province was governed by the existence of the small storm, though the wind velocities in connection with it were light. Moderate general rain continued therefore to be received in Orissa and South-West Bengal on the 20th and 21st, but East and North Bengal, and to a considerable extent Chutia Nagpur and Behar, received little or no rain during this period owing to the indraught taking place towards the very feeble storm.

It will be seen, therefore, that the conditions during the earlier part of the week were more favourable for rainfall than they were during the last few days, but on the whole fairly good rain has been received during the week throughout the province.

Pressure.—The mean pressure for the week has been generally rather considerably above the normal, the usual excess ranging from 0·03" to 0·04." The changes throughout the week have been generally small. Pressure usually rose slowly on the 16th; it then fell moderately for the next two days and rose on the following two days; on the 21st and 22nd pressure fell, the largest falls, though they were still small, taking place in the north-west angle of the Bay, where, as previously stated, a distinct barometric depression existed on these dates.

Temperature.—The variations of temperature throughout the week have been of no importance, and the mean temperature of the whole province for the week has not varied from the normal by so much as a tenth of a degree. On the whole, the mean temperature has been very slightly in defect, but this has been mainly owing to the fact that in North Bengal there has been a defect of 1° and in Behar a defect of about half this amount, while, on the other hand, slight excess temperatures have been recorded in Chutia Nagpur, Orissa, and South-West Bengal. In East Bengal temperature has been practically normal, while in Assam a defect of 1·1° has been registered.

Rainfall.—Has been in slight excess of the normal in North Bengal, where previously rather defective falls have been registered. In Orissa, East Bengal, and Behar, the falls have been in slight or moderate defect, but in South-West Bengal and Chutia Nagpur the falls have been in rather large defect. The general falls in all divisions except South-West Bengal and North Behar have averaged between 2 and 3 inches, but in North Behar the fall has been only 1·90 inches and in South-West Bengal slightly less than an inch and-a-half, which is only half the normal amount for the week. The defect in Chutia Nagpur has also equalled about a third of the normal fall.

The rainfall during August up to the 22nd has, however, been in considerable excess of the normal in Orissa and Chutia Nagpur, about normal in South-West Bengal and South Behar, in slight to moderate defect in North Behar and East Bengal, and in rather considerable defect in North Bengal.

During the week under review the following districts have received falls largely in defect of the normal :—Balasore, Midnapore, 24-Pergunnahs, Moorshedabad, Nuddea, Jessore, Khulna, Chittagong, Noakholly, Chittagong Hill Tracts, Furreedpore, Maldah, and Sarun.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 22nd of August 1891 :—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

AUSTRALIA—GREAT SANDY STRAIT.

Alteration in position of leading lights for Stewart island cutting.

THE Port Master, Brisbane, has given notice (No. 22 of 1891) that on and after 23rd July two white lights for leading through Stewart island cutting will be exhibited from triangular beacons on Stewart island to the southward of the cutting; and the lights (red and white) hitherto shown from beacons north of the cutting will be discontinued.

Directions—Vessels from the southward will proceed with the Fig-tree lights in line until the lower light of the lead on Stewart island opens out as a bright light, when they should haul up quickly and steer for it, passing it at a distance of 100 feet and gradually bringing the two white lights in line astern. Keep them in line until the Moonboom island lights are in line, when proceed as usual. By following these directions a vessel will have a depth of 7 feet at low-water springs.

JAVA SEA—ARENDS ISLAND.

Rock westward of Arends island replaced on charts.

THE British Admiralty has given notice, (No. 299 of 1891), that on a review of the evidence in connection with the existence of a rock about ten miles west of Arends island, Java sea, which was removed from the Admiralty charts 19 years ago in consequence of an unsuccessful search, it has been decided to replace it in its former position, as given by an American barque, in approximately lat. 5° 4′ S., long 114° 26′ E.

Though this position may be much in error, the weight of evidence seems in favour of a rock somewhere westward of the island.

AUSTRALIA, EAST COAST—INNER ROUTE.

Shoal north of Lizard island.

THE British Admiralty has given notice, (No. 302 of 1891), of the existence of a shoal, with about 10 feet over it at low-water spring tides, lying with the north-west extreme of Lizard island bearing south, distant about 5½ miles.

Approximate position: lat. 14° 33′ S., long. 145° 29¾′ E.

NOTE.—The position of this shoal cannot be considered accurate, but it is stated that the western extremes of North and South Direction islands in line lead eastward of it.

Vessels using the One-and-a-half mile opening should therefore haul to the eastward to this line when in the vicinity of the shoal, as the line given in the charts pointing out the opening, viz., South Direction Island half open west of North Direction Island, passes very near it. The reef forming the east side of One-and-a-half mile opening is to be named Hicks reef.

A new chart, Hope islands to Turtle group, No. 2923, on which this shoal is shown, will shortly be published.

Reef westward of the island.

THE British Admiralty has given notice, (No. 311 of 1891), of the existence of a reef westward of Condillac island and in the tract of vessels proceeding from Roebuck bay or Derby to Wyndham or port Darwin:—

This reef (Jamieson reef), originally reported by the Master of the steam-vessel Otway, is composed of coral, 2¼ miles long north and south, and one mile in breadth. The depths over the greater part of it vary from 12 to 24 feet, except at about three-quarters of a mile from the north end, where a small part dries 5 feet at low-water springs. From the dry part the centre of Condillac island bears S. 78° E., distant 12$\frac{8}{10}$ miles.

THE British Admiralty has given notice, (No. 312 of 1891), that a light is exhibited from a structure erected on the north-west side of Observatory island, westward of Leu kung tau, Wei hai wei harbour:—

Observatory island light is a fixed light, showing red between the north extreme of Leu kung tau and the bearing S. 46° W.; white between S. 46° W. and S. 29° W.; and red between S. 29° W., through south, and N. 23° W. It is elevated 61 feet above the sea, and in clear weather the white light should be visible from a distance of 6 miles, and the red light 4 miles.

The illuminating apparatus is dioptric, or by lenses, of the sixth order.

Approximate position, lat. 37° 30′ 25″ N., long. 122° 10′ 25″ E.

NOTE.—Vessels entering Wei Hai Wei harbour by west entrance should keep in the above sector of white light, bearing about S. 37° W., until Round island bears N.W., then steer to the westward into the sector of red light, and round the north-west part of Observatory island at a distance of not less than 2 cables.

Non-existence of rocks between Shala and Kau island.

THE British Admiralty has given notice, (No. 324 of 1891), that from an examination recently made of the locality under favourable circumstances, it is considered that the rocks (E. D.) heretofore charted as lying between Shala and Kau islands, or in about lat. 12° 19′ N., long. 109° 23′ E., do not exist. The least water found in and around the reported positions for a distance of 1½ miles was 21 fathoms over shells; the local fishermen also stated that no such rocks were known.

Consequent on the above, these rocks have been removed from the Admiralty Charts.
